It's Wallace Or War, Says Keynoter for New Party

Howard Denounces Truman's Policy And Blames Berlin Situation on U. S.

By Mary Spargo
Post Reporter

Convention Hall, Philadelphia, July 23.—A plea for cooperation with Russia coupled with charges that President Truman's foreign policy embraces "corruption . . . betrayal . . . and murder" sounded the keynote of the founding convention of Henry Wallace's party here tonight.

Charles P. Howard, Negro publisher and lawyer from Des Moines, Iowa, told 1000 cheering delegates here that the choice was Wallace or war.

On motion of C. B. (Beanie) Baldwin, Wallace campaign manager, the convention tonight formally adopted "the Progressive Party" as its official name.

Baldwin challenged the "red-baiters," who he said were filling the air with charges of "red" against the Progressive Party.

From his prepared speech he omitted this sentence:

"Do you really think that shouts of Moscow gold will stop Henry Wallace any more than the lie of Jacobin gold stopped Thomas Jefferson."

The audience roared a "no" to rhetorical questions about whether shouts of "red" could discourage them.

Earlier, Wallace had refused to renounce or embrace Communist support, in his candidacy for President.

Blames U. S. in Berlin

Howard laid the present situation in Berlin squarely on the shoulders of the United States rather than the Soviet Union. It was this country, he said, not the Soviet Union, which slammed the door on peace.

"I say that we of the New Party say that there is no difference between the United States and the Soviet Union too big to be settled at the conference table," said Howard.

Another war will mean the end of civilization, Howard declared.

"We are told the Soviet Union refuses to cooperate in planning for peace," he said.

"But what are the facts? In the late spring of this year, our Ambassador to Moscow, Walter Bedell Smith, delivered a note to the Russians saying that the door was always open for discussion of differences.

"One morning the papers told us the news that the Russians were willing to sit down and talk peace. It was the first sunlight in months of darkness. In Moscow, crowds hoisted American correspondents to their shoulders, they brought out American flags.

"On morning buses and commuter trains, we smiled and nodded and said, 'That's good.' Around the world people gathered to wait for the news, and the Man Survives Bridge Plunge; Lands in Tree

A 23-year-old Takoma Park man plunged approximately 50 feet from Calvert Street Bridge last night, landed in tree limbs and lived to tell about it.

From personal effects he had tossed into a taxi which had brought him to the bridge, he was identified as Louis R. Lester, jr., 703 Carroll ave., Takoma Park, Md.

The cab driver, Dabney W. Weisinger, 1427 Girard st. nw., said Lester stepped from his cab and plunged over the bridge railing. Weisinger called police who found the man lodged in the tree. Police pried the branches apart to remove him.

At Emergency Hospital, Lester was said to be suffering chest injuries and multiple bruises.

Youth Admits Three Revenge Killings to Angry Van Wert Crowd

From Press Dispatches

Van Wert, Ohio, July 23.—A tanned, slim youth made public confession to a crowd of 300 angry citizens today that he killed three persons in revenge and participated in three other slayings which he blamed on his dead partner.

His parents credited the way "they almost made a hero of Dillinger years ago" for their son's "trouble."

The youth, 22-year-old Robert (Murli) Daniels of Columbus, Ohio, stood on the steps of the Van Wert jail, flanked by policemen, as he told of his crimes today. When he first appeared, the citizens shouted, "Lynch him" and "kill him" but the crowd became quiet as he made his confession.

Van Wert police let the crowd see and hear Daniels, they said, to spend their indignation openly rather than in mob violence. The crowd dispersed quietly after Daniels' appearance.

Daniel's partner, John C. West, 22, was killed when police officers stopped the two at a road block near here. Daniels gave up without resistance.

In his public confession, Daniels told how his partner killed three, but admitted that he killed Mansfield Reformatory Superintendent John E. Niebel, his wife, Nolanda and their daughter, Phyllis, in a cornfield near Mansfield Tuesday.

Pair Caught in Road Block in Truck Taken From Last Victim

Van Wert, Ohio, July 23 (AP).—Leaving six murder victims in their wake during a 14-day killing spree, two 22-year-old reformatory parolees reached the end of the trail today.

One, fighting it out to the last, was shot between the eyes and killed by a police officer at a road block near here. The other, whimpering, gave up without a struggle. Their death toll—four men and two women.

Killed in the final gunfight was John Coulter West, former Parkersburg, W. Va., youth, slain by Sergt. L. D. Conn, 42, Van Wert policeman. Conn, seriously wounded by a slug in his chest, and lying in the middle of the highway, hit West dead center.

Captured was Robert M. Daniels of Columbus, who gave up to Sheriff Roy Shaffer of Van Wert County without resistance. A rifle and two pistols lay on an automobile seat beside him.

The two were captured only a few hours after the sixth of their slayings, and their second of last night and early today. At Tiffin, 85 miles east, they had killed Orville Taylor, 25, of Niles, Mich., to obtain his drive-away truck, loaded with four Studebaker cars, in an attempt to break through an ever-tightening noose

Washington Food Prices Highest Ever

BLS Figures Show Climb of 2.7 Per Cent in Month, With 1.5 for Nation

Food prices in Washington have spiraled to a new all-time high, latest figures of the Bureau of Labor Statistics showed yesterday.

Food prices here advanced 2.7 per cent from May 15 to June 15 to move the all-foods index to 215.4, a new record. A 100 index, from 1935 to 1939, is "normal."

These latest figures disclosed that currest food prices are 13 per cent higher than a year ago, 48 per cent higher than two years ago, and 129 per cent higher than in August, 1939.

While the Bureau of Labor Statistics has not yet supplied figures for increased food prices from June 15 to July 15, it is believed the increase will be about 2 per cent, mainly because of the higher cost of meat.

1.5 Per Cent in Nation

For the Nation, food prices advanced 1.5 per cent from May 15 to June 15, considerably less than the increase here.

However, over a two-year period the increases have been about even, up 47 per cent nationally and 48 per cent locally.

The Bureau's national consumers' price index, which measures costs of food and all other family budget items, also has reached an all-time high of 171.7, it was announced.

This represents a jump of 9.3 per cent since 1947, 28.8 per cent since 1946 and 74.1 per cent since August, 1939.

These soaring prices are expected to be a grave concern to members of Congress who will reassemble in special session here next week. In calling the special session, President Truman said runaway living costs was one of the major reasons.

Mainly Responsible

In announcing Washington food costs had reached an all-time high, the bureau said rising prices for meats, apples, sweet potatoes and eggs were mainly responsible.

The greatest increase for the period from May 15 to June 15 in local prices was the 4.6 per cent hike for meats, poultry and fish. As of June 15, prices for these foods were up 20.1 per cent over June 15, 1947, up 90.9 per cent over June 15, 1946, and up 212.3 per cent over August 15, 1939.

The increase on meats, poultry and fish between May 15 and June 15 was "much more than the usual seasonal amount," the bureau commented.

Only Three Show Drop

In the meats-poultry-fish category, only three items, veal cutlets, salt pork and fresh fish, showed decreases between May 15 and June 15, it was announced.

Although most Washington housewives have been finding price tags higher than these, the bureau offered these specific prices as of June 15 on meat items:

Round steak, 98.8 cents a pound; rib roast, 75.2; chuck roast, 69;

U. S. Airlift to Berlin To Be Almost Doubled; Clay Expects No War

Dewey, Eisenhower Confer and Support Firmness Against Russian Blockade

Pawling, N. Y., July 23 (AP). Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower today called for "absolute firmness" against Russia in the Berlin crisis.

Dewey, the Republican presidential candidate, told reporters after a conference with Eisenhower at the Governor's farm here:

"We agreed our country must stand with absolute firmness in Berlin and at the same time neglect no avenues toward the finding of a peaceable solution."

Eisenhower came to Pawling at Dewey's request. For three hours they discussed the European situation in general, the Berlin blockade in detail and means of improving unification of the United States armed services.

Nonpolitical, They Emphasize

Both emphasized the meeting was nonpolitical.

Eisenhower said:

"We found ouselves in agreement that the United States must be firm. We found ourselves in agreement that in a place as critical as this (Berlin), the United States must be firm.

"If it knows its moral position is correct and that position is in conformity with solemn agreements, it cannot properly in this day and time back up from it."

Asked if he thought a peaceful solution of the Berlin crisis could be found, Eisenhower said:

"I do. Certainly I believe there is still no one in the world mad enough to seek a solution by force of arms."

Dewey was asked if his (Dewey's) statement on Berlin could be construed as an indorsement of the Truman Administration's current handling of the crisis.

The statement "can't be interpreted beyond its words," the Governor replied.

Wives Go for Drive

The joint news conference took place on the side terrace of Dewey's white farmhouse.

Eisenhower, accompanied by his wife, motored up from New York City and had lunch with the Governor and Mrs. Dewey. While the two men talked, their wives chatted and later went for a drive.

Asked whether his conference with Dewey meant he would support the Governor's candidacy for the Presidency, Eisenhower replied:

"I have not identified myself with any political party. I think I reflect the Governor's views when I say we talked as two Americans."

Questioned as to whether his statement meant he was not indorsing Dewey, the retired general amplified:

"It means that I am interested in seeing and talking to anybody who has the welfare of this country at heart. Frankly, I was anxious to accept his invitation to come up here and talk with him." He added:

"Let's not fool ourselves. Governor Dewey is a very significant person in the body politic."

He stressed that the meeting was "absolutely and completely" nonpolitical, and said "both of us

CHARLES E. BOHLEN

More Cargo Planes Going Next Week; 'Chip' Bohlen Sent To London Parleys

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

Enough big Army cargo planes (C-54s) will be started to Germany next week to enable the Air Force to supply 4500 tons of food and fuel to Berlin daily.

This will be sufficient, Gen. Lucius D. Clay, American commander in Germany, told a news conference yesterday, to furnish food and a minimum of coal to meet needs in the beleaguered sections of western Berlin occupied by the United States, Britain and France.

Bohlen Sent to London

Shortly after Clay made his announcement, the State Department made known that Secretary Marshall was sending Charles E. (Chip) Bohlen, department expert on Russia, to London to discuss the next diplomatic moves to be taken by the western powers on the Berlin situation.

Clay, who left for Germany on the same plane as Bohlen right after his meeting with the press, added that even with the increased airlift "there may be, as cold weather comes, some suffering, but there will be no extreme suffering under this type and kind of airlift."

The additional cargo space, Clay said, will give time "for our Government to carry on the negotiations which they will and are carrying on."

Convoy Rumor Spiked

Clay spiked all rumors of an attempt to crash through the Russian blockade of Berlin with either armored trains or armored convoys on the highways.

"As a soldier," he said, "it is not my job in Germany to carry us into war." Any such decision, he said, "will have to be taken by the Government if it is ever necessary."

Clay also told newsmen:

1. That he doesn't take "as a basis for discussion" the reported statement of Russia's Berlin commander, Marshal Vassily D. Sokolovsky, that the Soviets would lift the blockade if the United States agreed to let Russians move freely into the western occupation zones.

He said Sokolovsky obviously was referring to limitation of passes to members of the Russian mission at American headquarters at Frankfurt. That action, he said, was taken after Russia had refused the same privileges to members of the American mission at Potsdam.

"The action was not taken by us but by the Soviet command," he said. "This matter has never been mentioned to me in my several conversations with Sokolovsky as the reason for the blockade."

Doesn't Expect War

2. "I don't think the Russians want war," Clay said. Hot heads could create a war, he said, "but I don't think it will happen."

3. That a new airport will be started at the Berlin end of the airlift shuttle as soon as he returns.

4. That four-power talks on the currency situation in Berlin might well lead to a peaceful solution of the crisis and the lifting of the blockade. He is ready, he said, to start talks with the Russians at any time on the currency reform

Soviet Denies Interview On Blockade

News Agency Asserts Sokolovsky Gave Out No Statement

Berlin, July 23 (U.P.).—The American-licensed German news agency tonight quoted the Soviet news bureau as saying that "the United Press story about any conversation or an interview or a political statement connected with Marshal Vassily D. Sokolovsky, Soviet military governor in Germany, does not correspond to the facts."

Yesterday, United Press Correspondent John B. McDermott quoted Sokolovsky as saying Russia was blockading west Berlin because of United States restrictions against Russia travel in the United States zone.

The Soviet statement said:

"Marshal Sokolovsky has neither granted an interview to any United Press correspondent nor made any political statement. In reality the correspondent turned to Marshal Sokolovsky with some questions while the marshal was talking to representatives of Czechoslovakia and Poland and at the same time to responsible authorities of the Soviet military administration.

"These questions referred especially to the so-called blockade of Berlin and the Helmstedt-Berlin railroad line.

"The few sentences which the marshal exchanged with the correspondent have nothing in common with statements which were attributed to the marshal by the correspondent.

"Marshal Sokolovsky pointed out that he thought it inappropriate to consider such questions or to give any statements with a political character at a Polish celebration . . ."

C. U. Student Shot, Critically Hurt; 2 Are Questioned

A 21-year-old Catholic University student was shot and critically wounded following an altercation in the 1200 block of Monroe st. ne. early today.

In critical condition in Gallinger Hospital was George H. Bostock, 1221 Monroe st. ne. Police said he was shot in the right arm and side with a .32-caliber semiautomatic pistol.

The shooting occurred, they said, after residents of the block attempted to stop a scuffle in the street between Bostock and his brother, William F., 19, also of the Monroe st. address.

Two neighbors, a father and son, were held "for investigation" pending the outcome of Bostock's injuries.

CTC to End Joint Fares Setup Monday

Virginia Passengers Must Pay 10-Cent Rate Pending Ruling

Capital Transit Co. will discontinue accepting joint fare tickets sold by bus lines serving nearby Virginia points at 12:01 a. m. Monday, it informed the Public Utilities Commission yesterday.

This will make it necessary for commuters from Washington to the Pentagon, National Airport, Navy and Air Forces annexes in Arlington to pay full District fares of 10 cents or use a $1.50 weekly pass for any portion of the trip made aboard CTC buses or streetcars.

The joint-fare tickets, sold by Alexandria, Barcroft & Washington Transit Co., and Washington, Virginia & Maryland Coach Co., Inc., now enable commuters to ride between Washington and these Virginia points at a low-rate fare of 13.3 cents.

Beginning Monday, however, the portion of these tickets which entitled them to ride on CTC buses or streetcars for 5.83 cents will no longer be accepted by Capital Transit.

Move Ordered by PUC

The company took the action while awaiting the outcome of a complaint filed in District Court Wednesday for a declaratory judgment to clarify the jurisdiction between the District Public Utilities Commission and the Interstate Commerce Commission.

ICC, in an order setting a new joint-fare rate of 16 cents effective August 2, ordered Capital Transit to accept 7 cents as its portion of the joint fare.

PUC, on the other hand, has directed the company to adhere to PUC's order to charge no less than 10 cents for a single ride on its lines.

The case is scheduled for hearing in District Court Monday.

The company's action was prompted by a letter from PUC Chairman James H. Flanagan, directing it to "cease and desist" from honoring the joint fare tickets.

Tickets Still to Be Sold

E. G. Crandon, WV&M general manager, said his company would continue to sell the joint fare tickets despite Capital Transit's decision.

"We're somewhat in the middle," he observed. "Capital Transit is failing to concur. But we are on the spot of having to comply with the ICC order. We have to sell

'49 Chest Goal Of $4,509,170 Recommended

By Murrey Marder
Post Reporter

A proposed fund-raising goal of $4,509,170 for the 1949 Community Chest Federation drive was recommended yesterday by the federation's budget committee.

The actual goal will be set Thursday, July 29, at a meeting of the Washington area group's executive committee.

Largest postwar fund raising recommendation—but not a record amount here for community services—the $4,509,170 figure was proposed in the face of last year's unsuccessful drive for $3,900,000, which netted only $3,325,000.

Daniel W. Bell, president of the federation, which embraces the Community Chests of Alexandria and Arlington, Fairfax, Montgomery and Prince Georges Counties, and the newly organized Washington Community Services, declared:

"This $4,509,170 represents the minimum amount needed to give reasonable services. It was trimmed down from original requests totaling $5,300,000."

Frank A. Birgfield, chairman of the budget committee, said the recommended goal generally represents a 10 per cent increase of funds over the 1948 operations of the six Chests.

"The rising cost of operation has created acute, in some instances critical, problems in financing current services," he said.

The budget committee, in its report, said its fund proposal would offset—but not meet—some of these rising costs, and provide "some small salary increases necessary to keep intact the staff personnel" of the 56 agencies involved.

Federation officials said raising the fund would require "the unqualified support of all groups," and "far more givers" than last year.

Washington has exceeded the recommended goal drives in at least two, it was pointed out. Under the Community War Fund.

Gen. Webster Saves Co-Pilot In B-25 Crash

His Face Is Burned In Bomber Accident At Newark Airport

Newark, N. J., July 23 (NYHT). Maj. Gen. Robert M. Webster, 55, commanding general of the First Air Force, saved his co-pilot, Capt. Wilbur W. Walton, when their B-25 Mitchell bomber crashed and burned this afternoon during a landing at Newark airport.

The general's face was burned badly in the accident, Captain Walton's skull was fractured and two other passengers, who helped in the rescue, were injured less seriously.

The plane, based at Mitchel Field, L. I., was coming in on an inspection flight from Philadelphia, with General Webster at the controls. Witnesses said a rainsquall caught it, so that its wheels touched only 200 feet from the west end of the runway. The heavy twin-engined plane ran off the runway, hopped Bound Creek and smashed at 70 miles an hour into the farther bank, just inside the airport fence.

Capt. William P. Renry of West Newtown, Mass., the general's aide, said he and Sergt. Martin Barth, Jackson Heights, N. Y., found the fuselage door jammed, but forced the escape hatch. Meanwhile, he said, General Webster, in the burning cockpit, unfastened his own safety belt and freed Captain Walton, who was unconscious.

The general lifted Walton and walked him back to the escape hatch. Then he helped carry Walton to safety about 100 yards from the fire.

Sunday: Report From Inside Rebel Greece

Homer Bigart, New York Herald Tribune correspondent stationed in Greece, has succeeded in an assignment which has daunted other reporters and which cost the life of George Polk. He has been in the dangerous Greek rebel territory and has interviewed General Markos.

The story of Bigart's hazardous journey will be told in four installments. The first one, describing his trip from Belgrade to the Grammos Mountains, appears in Sunday's Washington Post.

Rips Out Switchboard

Weary Telephone Operator 'Hangs Up' on Village of 350

Ripley, Me., July 23 (U.P.).—Mrs. Winifred Hatch bustled merrily about her cottage here today—not at all sorry she ripped up the village switchboard and left this town of 350 persons sharing a single emergency pay station.

"I got sick and tired of asking, 'Number, please?'" she said.

It was too bad the New England Telephone & Telegraph Co. wouldn't be able to furnish service for four or five months, she said, but that wasn't her worry.

The Ripley exchange came into being in 1913 when 63 subscribers purchased 63 telephones, put up $5 each and each supplied five poles. In 1936—still using the same equipment—the cooperative was on the rocks.

Mrs. Hatch carried on after her husband, who took over the co-op, died in 1942.

In 1946 she wanted to sell the business. No luck. She wanted to give it away. Still no luck. Then she wrote the Public Utilities Commission and told them:

"Gentlemen: I don't want this job any longer."

Mrs. Hatch said she never received an answer. She said she was thinking about this last week at the switchboard. It was hot. The lines were busy. She was thinking how nice it would be at home on her cool front porch.

"So," she said, her eyes twinkling, "I decided to go home. I cut all the wires very neatly. I ripped the connections out of the board. I severed the trunk lines—so I wouldn't weaken.

"Then I went home and slept the sweet sleep of the free."

To Eliminate 'Discrimination'

Truman to Request Revision Of Displaced Persons Law

By The Associated Press

The White House announced last night that President Truman has completed work on proposed legislation designed to admit 402,000 displaced persons into the United States during the next four years.

The President will submit the bill to Congress next week in the form of an amendment to the recent displaced persons law which he has described as discriminating against Jews and some Catholic displaced persons.

The new bill would raise the number of displaced persons who could be admitted to this country from 202,000 in two years to approximately 402,000 in four years.

The three other amendments posed in the Administration's measure, the White House said, would call for:

1. Elimination of all features of the law "whose effect is to discriminate by reason of race or religion."

2. Clarifying provisions which now make the law "difficult of administration."

3. Eliminate the so-called "mortgaging of the future quotas" provision of the current law.

The White House statement said the chief discrimination in the present law is the date limitation which provides that, except for the recent Czech refugees, no displaced persons can immigrate unless they arrived in the western zones of Germany or Austria or in Italy, by December 22, 1945.

"Since most of the Jewish displaced persons took refuge in the western zones of Germany and

Russia Intensifies Berlin Air Block

PVT. GEORGE G. HUNT of Defiance, Ohio, is one of the two American military policemen seized by Russians when they accidentally entered the Soviet zone of Berlin, Thursday. Both have since been released, along with a civilian also held by the Reds

From Press Dispatches

Berlin, July 23.—The Russians intensified today their activities in the air corridors used by the Royal Air Force to supply blockaded Berlin.

The British said Russian planes conducted bombing practice in the airlift corridor between Hamburg and Berlin and held firing exercises in the air. Yesterday Yak fighters carried out target practice in the Bueckeburg-Berlin corridor.

The Soviet activity failed to hamper the Allied lift as United States and British planes broke their record today by bringing 2811 tons of supplies to the city in 24 hours.

Made 516 Flights

The Allied planes made 516 flights in all from the Western zones in the 24-hour period up to 4 p. m. today.

American planes made 256 flights with 1511 tons, the British 260 flights with 1300 tons. It was the first time the total of British flights exceeded that of the United States.

Marshal Vassily D. Sokolovsky, Russian commander in Germany, tonight decreed the issuance of a new permanent currency to replace the stop-gap money with which the Russians effected a currency reform a month ago.

Sokolovsky said the new Russian money would be regarded as "the only legal tender for the Soviet occupation zone and in Greater Berlin."

A Frankfurt report, which could not be confirmed, quoted Russian officers as saying tonight the borders between western and eastern Germany will be reopened "in about 10 days." The report came from Hof, Bavaria, on the frontier between the United States and Russian zones.

Reopening Seen in 10 Days

Hans Bojak, manager of a bus line in Hof, said he asked Russian officers at the border today when he could start running his buses between Hof and Berlin again. Bojak quoted the Russians as replying: "Interzonal bus service will be possible again in about 10 days."

Three Americans taken into custody by the Russians were released. They were Pvts. Elwood E. Dwinnel, Mabton, Wash., and George G. Hunt, Camp, Ohio, who were held for 15 hours after they entered the Soviet sector of Berlin by mistake.

Richard Goff, Altoona, Pa., who tried to drive through the Soviet traffic blockade to western Germany on Wednesday, was released after the Americans interceded with Soviet authorities.

would want it that way now and in the future."

Praises De Gasperi

Dewey said, "I hope I'll have the privilege of calling on him often in the future."

Eisenhower, now president of Columbia University, rejected Republican and Democratic moves to draft him as a candidate for President.

The Berlin situation was canvassed "at real length," Dewey said, adding, "I asked General Eisenhower's views."

In discussing the general European situation, Dewey said, "We found we both have a high and warm regard for Premier de Gasperi and the things he is doing in Italy. We also discussed the French situation and the whole problem of European military and economic unity. General Eisenhower has very strong views. We found our views coincide."

The two also talked "at real length on the problem of carrying out the unity of the armed services in the United States," Dewey said, with the idea of making it "more effective and workable."

Dewey expressed the opinion that unification of the armed forces, which he held of "great importance," has "a long way to go."

Dewey will meet here Saturday night with Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg (R., Mich.) and John Foster Dulles to discuss the Berlin crisis and the foreign situation in general. Dulles is Dewey's international affairs adviser.

Saturday noon the Governor will be host to 75 farm editors of newspapers and publications at a dinner in Pawling Grange Hall.

65% Exempt From Draft In 18-25 Group

Most District youths between the ages of 18 and 25 will be exempt from the draft, authorities believe.

There are roughly 55,000 to 56,000 youths in the District between the ages of 18 and 25, William T. Leahy, draft director here, figures.

Of these, some 65 to 70 per cent are probably draft-exempt, because of previous military service or membership in reserve organizations. This last estimate was "hazarded" last night by Frank D. Norton, custodian of District selective service records.

To Set Up Five Areas

Leahy also revealed that he plans to divide the District into five areas for purposes of administering the draft registration, which starts August 30.

Each area will probably be headed by a coordinator and include, initially, about two or three draft boards. The regional organization would enable efficient expansion of draft machinery "in the event of an emergency," Leahy, an attorney, who also headed the wartime Selective Service here, said.

Meanwhile, 18-year-olds who sought to circumvent the draft by volunteering for one year, yesterday found quotas of all services already filled here.

Air Force Popular

The Army and Air Force recruiting station, 403 10th st. nw., with its quota of 24 for July 21 through 31 already filled, last night reported a waiting list of about 50 for the August quotas of 73. Further enlistments, selected from the waiting list, will not start again until August 1.

The Navy has already filled its July 21-August 20 quota of 19. About 80 youths have signed up on the waiting list for the August 21-September 1 quota of 6. Thereafter, the Navy's monthly quota will be 19. The Marine Corps reported its quotas of four a month already filled for July and August.

recently carried out by the western allies in their zones of Germany.

"I don't want to minimize the seriousness of the situation," Clay said, "but I don't think anybody in this world wants war and where no one wants war there is a prospect for a peaceful settlement. The airlift gives us time to negotiate."

He said he did not believe that the Russians would risk a war by trying to stop the airlift with dangerous "training flights" by Russian airmen in the American-British air lanes.

"I don't think the Russians want war," he added. "I don't believe this crisis is a move toward a military showdown. Obviously in a tight situation you get a situation where hotheads would cause war, but I don't think it will happen."

West Would Negotiate

The western powers, he said, are willing to negotiate with the Russians at any time, but not "under duress." "But it seems to me," he said, "that there is a reasonable basis of compromise without violating any basic principles. There is always a way out when people are reasonable."

"What makes you think the Russians are reasonable?" someone asked.

"Sometimes people learn to be reasonable," he replied with a smile.

The airlift has greatly impressed the Russians, he said, and he expressed a belief that they had not considered it could be accomplished or would be attempted.

The German people, also, have been impressed—more so by the airlift than by the Russian blockade."

Asked who was responsible for there being no written agreement with the Russians on keeping supply lines to Berlin open, Clay replied: "I suppose I was as much to blame as anyone."

He explained that he had conducted negotiations with Marshal Zhukov for stationing American troops in Berlin. Looking back, he said, he thought he should have obtained written guarantees.

Asked if he agreed with President Truman that prospects of a peaceable solution in Berlin were "excellent" Clay again laughed, and replied: "Of course, I do."

He also asserted that the Western powers plan to go ahead with formation of a separate German administration for the British, French and American zones.

Clay said the present airlift is costing about $1,500,000 a week. But, he said, some of the money would have been spent by the Air Forces anyway for training flights.

In his three-day visit in Washington Clay was kept busy. Yesterday, in addition to his jam-packed news conference, he met with two groups of Senate and House leaders, and had another session with President Truman.

After the House meeting, Chairman Charles A. Eaton (R., N. J.) of the House Foreign Affairs Committee complimented him on "the splendid manner in which he and his troops and civilian personnel are carrying out their missions."

Bohlen's Mission

In announcing Bohlen's surprise departure, the State Department said that he will confer with Ambassador Lewis W. Douglas in London. But it was also believed that he will meet with British and French officials. He may offer a United States reply to the British proposal that the Western powers offer Russia its long-wanted four-power conference on all Germany if the blockade is lifted.

While no figures as to the number of C-54s the Air Force will start toward Europe next week were given, it is expected enough will be sent to virtually replace the smaller C-47s now being used. The C-54 can carry 10 tons of cargo, the C-47 only 2½ tons.

The present airlift is carrying about 2000 tons to Berlin daily. Yesterday Allied planes made 516 flights from both British and American zones in 24 hours. American planes carried 1511 tons and British 1300 tons, for a record day's haul of more than 2800 tons.

Toward the end of Clay's conference a reporter asked:

"How are your nerves standing it in Berlin?"

Clay, showing the effects of his hectic three-day visit, replied with a laugh:

"It's a lot better on the nerves in Berlin than it is in Washington."

Marie Ready With Program For Recovery

Paris, July 23 (U.P.).—Premier-Designate Andre Marie tonight completed work on a tough economic recovery program which he will ask the National Assembly to approve Saturday morning.

Simultaneously, it was reported that Marie had nearly completed formation of a star-studded cabinet of elder statesmen. He was expected to announce the names of his government Saturday, if the Assembly votes confidence in his program.

Political observers gave him a slightly better than even chance of getting the 311 Assembly votes necessary to confirm him as Premier, replacing Robert Schuman, whose government fell Monday night.

The Assembly will convene to hear Marie's plans at 9:30 a. m. Saturday. It is expected to vote before noon. If he obtains a majority, Marie will probably announce his government Saturday afternoon and present it formally to the Assembly early next week.

It was reported that the new government would be a broad coalition, ranging from Socialists to moderate Rightists. If he is confirmed, Marie would be the first Radical Socialist Premier of France since the pre-occupation administration of Edouard Daladier.

The Marie cabinet reportedly was built around a nucleus of France's most respected leaders, including four former Premiers—Independent Republican Paul Reynaud, believed to be slated for the finance ministry; Popular Republican Schuman, who may replace Georges Bidault as foreign minister, and Socialists Leon Blum and Paul Ramadier.

Three B-29s At Azores on World Flight

By The Associated Press

Three American Superfortresses making a leisurely two-week hop around the world landed in the Azores yesterday.

The B-28's are on a scouting flight to ascertain whether big bombers can use fields and facilities in distant parts of the globe in an emergency.

The bombers took off from Davis-Monthan Field, Tucson, Ariz., Thursday, stopping at Macdill, Fla., for fuel. After the Azores, their next stop is Whellus Field, near Tripoli, Libya, Saturday.

Before returning to their Arizona base August 5, the bombers plan to touch at Ceylon, the Philippines, Japan and Alaska.

Originally the globe-girdling flight was planned with a much larger force. But the State Department frowned on it at the time, back in 1946, thinking Russia might consider it an unfriendly gesture.

The Air Force said the current flight, with only three superfortresses, has the approval of the State Department.

Three superfortresses can get the answers to questions the Air Force wants answered: What is the actual condition of wartime bases in far-away places? What is the condition of runways, shops and fuel-pumping equipment? Can the fields accommodate the big new planes?

Text of Gen. Clay's Statement on Germany

The text of a statement by Maj. Gen. Lucius D. Clay, United States Military Governor in Germany, opening his news conference yesterday follows:

I AM of course always glad to get back here for a brief visit. This time I came back at the request of the Secretary of the Army, Mr. Royall, to report to him and to the Department of the Army on the situation in Germany.

As you know, the three western sectors of Berlin have been cut off from road and highway communication by the Soviet military administration in Germany, and as a result we have had to supply the more than two million people who live in the three western sectors of Berlin by air.

The airlift which has been operated by our own Air Force and by the British Air Force, has been a superb effort. In spite of very adverse weather conditions, the two air forces have succeeded in bringing into Berlin in excess of 2000 tons a day and that has meant complete utilization, with the airplanes available, of the corridor and ground facilities.

Of course, since I have been here in Washington I have been assured of a large number of additional C-54 planes. As you know, these planes carry 10 tons, and they will replace the C-47s which we are now using for a part of the lift, which only carry 2½ tons. As a result of this, we will be able to deliver in Berlin, with the British, an average of 4500 tons per day.

With this we can provide all of the food that Berlin needs and enough coal to meet the absolutely essential need. There may be, as cold weather comes, some suffering, but there will be no extreme suffering under this type and kind of air lift.

IT WILL, obviously, gain a great deal of time for our Government to carry on the negotiations which they will and are carrying on.

The situation in Berlin is quiet. The German people in the city have shown a remarkable determination not to be dominated by Communist influences, and the political leaders of the democratic party have evidenced their courage and their determination in public meetings attended by many thousands of people.

I think one of the striking examples is a little 60-year-old woman of the Social Democratic Party, Frau Wolfe, who spent six years in a concentration camp under Hitler, and who courageously and openly states she is prepared to spend another six years in a concentration camp before she is going to see Berlin and her people dominated by a similar type of influence. I think that under the circumstances the courage of the people of Berlin is worthy of note.

Our own Air Force has been magnificent in the job that it has done under very difficult weather circumstances. With the rather limited number of planes at their disposal they have been flying constantly with a minimum of loss and accidents.

It really is an operation that has had a tremendous influence in building up the prestige of America. It is the type of operation that America has been famous for and I think it is recognized by the Germans and by everyone else who witnessed it, as an example of what America can do. I will be very glad to try to answer any questions you would like to ask.

Yugoslav Reds Hit Western 'Warmongers'

Belgrade, Yugoslavia, July 23 (AP).—The Yugoslav Communist Party Congress heard an appeal for the party and the Cominform to settle their differences and unite against "Anglo-America warmongers."

Bozidar Maslaric, president of the All-Slav Committee, told the delegates the Yugoslav-Cominform split was "working to the benefit of the enemy bloc."

"The question is how to get out of this situation," Maslaric continued. "The democratic people demand that their leaders arrive at agreement and unite in the struggle against the Anglo-American warmongers."

As have all other speakers at the fifth party congress, now in its third day, Maslaric gave forceful support to Premier Marshal Tito, who, he declared, is pursuing the true Marxist-Leninist way. The Yugoslav party, he said, is not trying to establish a so-called "Titoism" but on the contrary has been supporting Premier Stalin of Russia and the Russian Bolshevik party more loyally than any other of the "people's democracies" in the Communist bloc.

Soviet Slav Students Reject Tito's Defense

Moscow, July 23 (NYHT).—A group of 246 Yugoslav students at Soviet army and navy schools today addressed an open letter to the present Yugoslav Communist Party congress at Belgrade rejecting Premier Marshal Tito's defense of his behavior.

After considering the Cominform charges and Tito's defense these students, according to their letter, decided in favor of Stalin.

Finns Seeking Only Security, Paasikivi Says

Helsinki, Finland, July 23 (U.P.).—President Juho K. Paasikivi told the opening session of Parliament today that Finland is seeking "friendly and trustful relations" with the Soviet Union in hopes of keeping out of any conflict between the world's great powers.

"The Finnish people have no other aspiration than to be allowed to live their own lives outside the conflicts of the great powers," he added.

(The resignation of Leftist Premier Mauno Pekkala last night was explained as customary in Finland with the convening of a newly-elected Parliament. This permits the President to ask a man from the strongest party to form the new government. The Agrarians and Social Democrats have about equal strength and reportedly have agreed to support Social Democrat K. A. Fagerholm for Premier.)

Emergency State Decreed for Cairo

Cairo, Egypt, July 23 (AP). — A state of emergency was imposed by Cairo police as a precautionary measure today, and in the Iraq capital of Bagdad thousands demonstrated against the Palestine truce.

Special police precautions were taken in Cairo's Al-Azhar Square where crowds of Arabs regularly attended prayers on Friday, the Moslem Sabbath. There was no attempt to stage a demonstration, however, and the worshipers dispersed quietly.

Throughout the city mounted police and police trucks patrolled the main streets.

(Censorship prevented mention in this dispatch of the reason for anticipated demonstrations. There have been numerous indications in recent dispatches from the Arab countries of the unpopularity of the Palestine truce ordered by the United Nations. Some informants have suggested that some Arab governments would find themselves in difficulties with their people as a result.)

Bagdad dispatches said the Iraq government, which opposed the truce in the meeting of the Arab League, permitted thousands to demonstrate their demands that Iraq continue the fight despite the truce.

The crowds shouted "Down with the Security Council." Some demanded cancellation of foreign oil concessions.

Weekend of Terror In Cairo Revealed

Nicosia, Cyprus, July 23 (U.P.)—Cairo emerged Tuesday from a weekend of terror during which enraged mobs surged through the streets attacking Americans, Britons, Frenchmen, Italians and Jews.

The embassies of these countries have protested scores of incidents in which mobs attacked their citizens.

Egyptian censorship had suppressed details of the disturbances and it is possible only now to tell part of the uncensored story of what happened in the greatest city in the Middle East when the mobs turned out.

They were angered by the pressure the United Nations Security Council put on the Arab countries to end the war in Palestine.

Stephen Haas, Philadelphia, who was killed Sunday, was the only American fatality reported.

Haas' wife was beaten by the mob which killed her husband but was rescued by police. She has said she was held three hours while police tried to get her to sign a statement in Arabic, which she could not read, before she was permitted to contact the American Embassy.

The attacks were blamed on the strongly nationalistic Moslem Brotherhood.

Foreigners remained in their homes as soon as it was apparent what was going on. Mobs stopped traffic in search of foreigners to attack.

Several Americans had narrow escapes.

Only the strongest measures by steel-helmeted police reserves restored order Tuesday.

Cairo newspapers published no reports of the riots.

Man Admits He Dropped U. N. Bomb

STEPHEN J. SUPINA,

New Haven, Conn., July 23 (U.P.) Stephen J. Supina, 36, a veteran Air Force gunner, surrendered to police here today and confessed he "bombed" United Nations headquarters at Lake Success, N. Y., yesterday. He said he was "not satisfied with the way the U. N. has been treating the Palestine and Russian situation."

Supina told police "the only way you can make people afraid is to plant fear, or by exploding a bomb or threatening them. Then they'll wake up."

Dressed in a brown shirt and work trousers and wearing no necktie, Supina walked into the New Haven Register newspaper office here and announced that he was on his way back to Lake Success to give himself up. He said he had run out of money and wanted to borrow some.

The paper immediately called local police and Supina was held for Nassau County (N. Y.) police.

The 6-foot, "peace-minded" veteran, a former B-17 bomber gunner with the Air Medal and five Oak Leaf Clusters to his credit, was jailed as a fugitive from justice.

Supina said he made the "bomb" out of a stick of dynamite. He bought a detonator and attached 300 feet of wire to it and used an ordinary flashlight battery to make the contact.

The bomb dangled from the wire as he flew over the U. N. headquarters.

"When I saw the headquarters building, I released the bomb and it exploded in midair, the wire still dangling from the plane. I went about 750 feet farther and released the wire. It fell in a meadow," he said.

Guards Reinforced

U. N. guards were strongly reinforced by local police today after Lake Success police found a note from Supina telling why he made his assault.

The note was scrawled in red ink across Supina's discharge papers, which were in a sealed envelope addressed "For the General Assembly of the United Nations."

Police refused to divulge the note because they said it was a "sort of confession," but quoted Supina as writing:

"I want peace . . . I don't want another war."

The note was wrapped in a white cloth streamer, which police said probably caused yesterday's report the "bomb" had been attached to a parachute.

Israel Orders British Firm To Supply Oil

Tel Aviv, Israel, July 23 (U.P.)—The Israeli government today ordered the British-controlled Iraq Petroleum Co. to supply crude oil to the Consolidated Refineries, Ltd., in Haifa, and called on Consolidated to refine the oil.

Moshe Shertok, Israel's Foreign Minister, said the step was taken "in view of the shortage of fuel oil upon which a number of vital plants depend."

The British representative at Haifa, it was learned, has protested to Jewish authorities. Recalling that Britain has not yet recognized Israel, the authorities decided to reject the protest since it was addressed to the Israeli government.

Forty-one American truce observers arrived at Haifa today aboard the United States aircraft carrier Palau. They left immediately for their various assignments in a fleet of white jeeps.

Czechs Lay Svoboda Flight Talk to U. S. 'Assassin Check'

Prague, Czechoslovakia, July 23 (U.P.)—The official army newspaper charged today that rumors that Czechoslovakia's defense minister had fled the country were started by "Czech and American plotters" trying to check up on an attempted assassination.

The newspaper, Obrana Lidu, claimed that United States counter-intelligence agents and Czech emigres in the United States zone of Germany had lost touch with an "assassination band" assigned to kill Defense Minister Gen. Ludvik Svoboda and were trying to provoke a statement on his whereabouts.

The defense ministry today declined to issue an official denial of rumors that Svoboda and Chief of Staff Gen. Bohumil Bocek would soon be relieved of their jobs.

A ministry spokesman said Svoboda, now on leave, would return to his office August 15. Bocek was "in his office as usual" today, the spokesman said.

The 79 alleged "spies and assassins" arrested last week were said to have included at least one "conspirator" who had planned an attack on Svoboda.

The government charged that the United States counter-intelligence corps sent the plotters into Czechslovakia. The American Ambassador, in a formal note, demanded retraction of the charges.

A Foreign Office spokesman said today Czechoslovakia would not reply to the note before Monday.

Red Embassy Criticized by State Aide

By the United Press

A State Department official said yesterday he believed the Russian Embassy here has violated the traditional bounds of diplomatic propriety by publishing anti-American "propaganda" in its official magazine.

Joseph Chappel, assistant chief of the technical section of the department's visa division, made the statement under questioning by the investigating staff of a Senate Judiciary subcommittee. He quickly added that it was officially not his section's business.

The remark was drawn from Chappel by Richard Arens, Judiciary Committee staff employe who has been conducting week-long public hearings on charges that foreign Communist agents are using the United Nations headquarters in New York as a gateway to enter this country for "subversive" operations.

Excerpts Read

The charges were made by several officials in the State Department's visa division. But Secretary of State George C. Marshall has publicly belittled the statements, telling a news conference this country is in no danger from diplomats or staff personnel.

Arens read aloud at yesterday's hearing several excepts from the magazine USSR prepared and distributed by the Soviet Embassy.

The passages included charges that the United States "bears full responsibility" for the deadlock in the United Nations over atomic weapon control; that America cares nothing about defending democracy or civil liberties but strives to maintain "reactionary, antidemocratic and Fascist regimes in other countries," and that United States policy has caused the collapse of four-power peace efforts.

Arens asked Chappel whether propaganda of this nature went "beyond the purview of custom and tradition" in diplomacy.

Chappel replied that he personally believed it did.

"But our division does not pass on such matters," he added.

No Senators at Hearing

No Senators of the Judiciary Committee have thus far taken part in the hearings which are being run entirely by staff employes.

Other witnesses yesterday included Abner Green, head of the American Committee for Protection of the Foreign Born, which has been listed by Attorney General Tom Clark as a Communist front group.

Green urged that Congress repeal all laws which permit deportation of aliens because of political beliefs.

Under questioning, he said he thought immunity from deportation should be extended even to aliens who advocate overthrow of the Government by force or violence.

He emphasized that neither he nor his organization advocated violent overthrow of the Government and said he could not imagine why Clark had branded his organization subversive.

He pointed out that U. S. laws already provide 10-year jail sentences and $10,000 fines for advocating overthrow of the Government, and said the additional penalty of deportation is "unwarranted."

George Hall, representing the Institute of National Education Service, asked that Congress avoid any steps that would hamper the exchange student program. He said the program has brought 22,000 students to this country and that existing laws are adequate to handle any possible "subversives" among them.

Chevy Chase Burglary Case Sent to Grand Jury

Jack Travis Reagan, 30, of 627 C st. ne., yesterday waived preliminary hearing in Bethesda Police Court on a charge of burglary and was held for action of the grand jury.

Police said Reagan was arrested on July 14 and charged with burglary after hee admitted breaking into four Chevy Chase, Md., homes and stealing an estimated $600 worth of jewelry and valuables. He was held in Rockville jail under $2000 bond.

New DP Bill Completed

Austria and Italy after that date, and since that limitation also bars Catholic refugees from Yugoslavia and elsewhere who escaped after that date, the President proposes a substitute date—one urged by advocates of this legislation originally—April 21, 1947."

The statement said that the amendment to simplify administration of the law was framed to do away with the necessity for complying with rigid requirements of the current bill.

The present law, the statement asserted, has a provision in regard "to having a job prior to arrival."

The President, it added, believes social welfare and religious groups "will be in a position to solve all such questions" and that it is "both sound and wise" to trust them to do the job well.

Under the "mortgaging of the future quotas" provision of the present law, the White House said, "future generations of prospective and desirable immigrants seeking to enter the United States under the regular immigration quotas will be penalized and will be unable to immigrate into the United States."

"This penalty will apply for many years," the statement asserted. "For example, in the case of immigrants seeking to come from Poland, the penalty will run for almost an entire generation, and in the case of immigrants seeking to enter from the Baltic countries the penalty will be in effect for 100 years or more.

Polish-Born Heroine 1 of 26 Decorated Here by British

Mrs. Sabina N. Heliczer of 3130 Wisconsin ave. nw., was awarded the King's Medal for Courage in the Cause of Freedom yesterday by the British government in gratitude for her work in the Italian underground during the war.

The 33-year-old widow, mother of two young boys, was one of 26 persons in Greater Washington who were decorated in ceremonies at the British Embassy.

Mrs. Heliczer worked with her husband, Dr. Jacob Heliczer, a physician in Rome before the war, helping Allied soldiers escape from the Fascists through the Italian mountains.

Husband Murdered

On May 9, 1944, in Ascoli Piceno, Italy, Fascists caught and murdered her husband in the sight of his two small sons, Peter and Robert, and shot Mrs. Heliczer in the knee. Her husband was posthumously awarded the King's Commendation for Brave Conduct in 1947, by the British.

The Polish-born heroine, who lived in Italy for 14 years, has been in the United States since 1946 on the staff of the Italian shipping commission. Marring the excitement of her award, is the fact that Mrs. Heliczer will lose her job there on July 30.

Two other former underground workers, Maurice Leo Errera, of 216 West Montgomery ave., Rockville, Md., and Evangelos E. Halikiopoulos, 109 Dartmouth st., Boston, Mass. were given awards similar to Mrs. Heliczer's

General Hume Decorated

Brigadier General Edgar E. Hume, U. S. A., of the Civil Affairs Division in the Pentagon, was decorated for "efficiently supervising the most extensive enterprise of military government ever attempted by a modern army. . . the civil administration of more than 75 per cent of the population of continental Italy." He was made Honorary Commander of the Military Division of the Most Excellent Order of the British Empire and also an associate officer of the Grand Priory in the British Realm of the Venerable Order of the Hospital of St. John of Jerusalem.

Others in the Washington area who received awards are:

Former Red Accuses Two Professors

Seattle, July 23 (U.P.)—A former Communist charged today that two University of Washington professors were among a class of 70 United States educators he taught in a secret school for Communist intellectuals.

George Hewit, member of the Communist Party from 1927 to 1944, said the school was on a farm near Kingston, N. Y., and directed in 1938 by top Communists now up for deportation.

While teaching there in 1938 or 1939, Hewitt said, he instructed Prof. Ralph H. Gundlach, of the University of Washington English department, and Dr. Melvin Rader of the philosophy department.

Both Gundlach and Rader denied they had attended the school.

Hewitt, a printer from New York City, testified yesterday before stormy hearings of a State legislative committee investigating alleged Communist infiltration at the University of Washington. Ten people were ejected from the room for interfering with committee procedure.

The former Communist identified the directors of the school as J. (Pop) Mindel and George Siskind. Mindel, he said, was an expert in "stealing intellectuals."

Hewitt said the "select" group of university professors from throughout the country who attended the school were handpicked by the national committee of the Communist Party.

The teachers put the professors "through the mill," Hewitt said.

"They felt so much inner confusion that the doctrines of communism became the only way out," he said.

Courses taught included Marxism, Leninism, political economy and "state."

"When you teach 'state' you teach the overthrow of the American Government and the establishment of the proletarian dictatorship," Hewitt said.

British Outlaw Communism In Malaya

Singapore, July 23 (AP).—British authorities outlawed the Communist Party in Malaya and Singapore today in a new blow against jungle terrorism.

Colonial Secretary Arthur Creech Jones told the Commons in London a "campaign of murder of peaceful citizens" in the Federation of Malaya has given rise to a "desperate situation." He said it had awakened the British to the peril of Communist danger in all the colonial possessions.

An official statement here said the Communist Party "for some time past has been secretly responsible for planning, superintending and carrying out a campaign of violence for purposes of upsetting the existing authority of lawful governments in the Federation of Malaya and Singapore."

Several hundred persons have been slain in Malaya and extensive property damage caused by terrorists in the past 12 weeks. The British have thrown army, navy and air force units into a military campaign to smash the Communists.

China to Get $72,795,000 This Quarter

Economic Cooperation Administrator Paul G. Hoffman announced yesterday that ECA has set aside $72,795,000 for economic aid to China during July, August and September.

Hoffman, now conferring with ECA officials and European diplomats in Paris, announced through his Washington headquarters a new tentative allotment of $63,200,000 for China. He added that a $9,595,000 carryover is still available from the $36,500,000 allotted for China aid during the April-June quarter.

The new allotment raised to $1,824,395,000 the total earmarked for aid to Europe and China during ECA's second quarter of operations.

Congress appropriated 275 million dollars for aid to China during the year which ends next April 2. An additional 125 million dollars appropriated for Chinese military aid is not handled by ECA.

Hoffman said the funds would be used to purchase foodstuffs, equipment replacements, petroleum, fertilizer and cotton.

His statement emphasized that current allotments for China do not include funds for "major reconstruction projects." Funds for reconstruction purposes—about 60 million dollars—will be allocated after a special ECA survey group returns from its China mission.

Wallace's Answer On Reds Is Neutral

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

Philadelphia, July 23.—Henry Wallace, still refusing to renounce or embrace his Communist support, came here to witness the birth of his New Party.

For nearly an hour he parried questions on everything from communism to the famed "Guru letters," at a press conference as unusual as this so-called "people's" convention.

Then he sat around in his suite waiting for his party to be founded at a convention hall singfest tonight. He had only one thing in common with Harry S. Truman. He never waited around in suspense.

Saturday the newly named progressive party will nominate Wallace and Senator Glen Taylor of Idaho as inevitably as the Democrats chose Truman and Barkley. And Saturday night, in the Philadelphia Athletics' sprawling Shibe Park, Wallace and Taylor will "accept."

The highlight of Wallace's day was the embattled press conference, in which another presidential candidate, in the role of a reporter, vied with other newsmen in Wallace point and counterpoint. No referee was present and there was no decision count.

Only one point was really settled, and Wallace scored that at the start. He reread an old statement saying Communist support was "a political liability" but said he wouldn't repudiate any support "which comes to me on the basis of interest in peace."

"No matter how hard you try," he told reporters, "you are not going to get me to indulge in any Red-baiting, and no matter how hard you try you are not going to get me to say I embrace communism."

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace arrived from New York at 10:40 a.m. A small but enthusiastic crowd of about 500 greeted them as they stepped off the train. A banjo-strumming "youth for Wallace" club chorus struck up "We're going to Roll Wallace Along." Wallace himself allowed that "after this convention things are really going to roll."

Unlike his more sanguine running mate, Senator Taylor, Wallace said he never has predicted he will win in November but "my chances are better than many of the dopesters will admit."

The crowd trailed along as Wallace walked the few blocks to his Bellevue-Stratford headquarters. Senator Taylor, C. B. (Beanie) Baldwin, his campaign manager, and Elmer Benson, former Governor and Senator from Minnesota and chairman of the National Wallace for President committee, hoofed it with him.

Normal mid-morning street crowds showed only passing interest. There were some cheers and a few boos. In his seventh floor suite Mr. and Mrs. Wallace posed for pictures, then Wallace faced the mass press turnout on the roof of the hotel.

The new party's preselected standard bearer opened the strange press conference by reading excerpts from a letter from George Polk, American newspaperman recently murdered in Greece, and personally presenting Bill Polk, brother of George, to reporters.

The letter inclosed a copy of George Polk's resignation from Newsweek magazine complaining the magazine wasn't objectively "resisting the impluse to drift with public feeling."

Wallace quoted George Polk's December, 1947, London letter to Bill, referring to "frightening developments in the U. S. A." and saying: "Molotov has assumed a very stupid line here and has succeeded in getting the United States, France and Britain to put aside their own differences just to oppose Russia."

Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for President, appearing here as Reporter Thomas of the Denver Post, got in a few questions about the Smith Act, under which 12 top Communist Party leaders were indicted.

Then questioners hit the one issue Wallace wouldn't discuss, the vague and mysterious "Guru letters" written to the late leader of a New York mystic sect. The question was did Wallace write them. And Wallace wouldn't say.

[Details of the "Guru" letters questioning are carried in another story on this page.—Editor's Note.]

The press conference got back to Wallace's views and the New Party candidate told reporters what he meant by "progessive capitalism," limited nationalization of industry and cooperation with Russia for peace.

Progressive capitalism—the opposite of reactionary capitalism which he said controls production to create a scarcity and to obtain maximum profits. He said progressive capitalism involves planning at key spots to obtain moderate prices, moderate profits and maximum production.

Nationalization—He was less definite than the New Party's platform. Wallace said he favored public ownership of aircraft factories and public utilities and might be for nationalization of the coal industry, but would go slow when it came to steel. Public ownership of large banks might become necessary, he said, if present Government policies force a depression "more serious than in 1932."

Relations with Russia—He neither plans another letter to Stalin or a trip to Russia but he would try both "if I thought it would further the cause of peace."

He was asked if he thought it possible to negotiate in good faith with Russia—if Russia hadn't shown "bad faith" after Yalta and Potsdam. Wallace conceded Russian pledges of free elections in liberated territories had not been honored but said both sides were partly to blame. Part of the difficulty, he said, was a misunderstanding of the meaning of the word "free."

Asked how he would define the word "free" he said both sides should agree in advance on a meaning, adding: "I'd like to see a free election in this country, as far as that goes."

Wallace said he plans no answer to Americans for Democratic Action for charging his new party is the Communist-dominated instrument of the Soviet.

"You are not going to entice me into saying anything about the rank and file of ADA," he said, "because they really ought to be with us."

He was asked if he might step out of the race in view of the strong civil rights plank adopted by the Democrats.

"I am not going to quit," he said.

Wallace Refuses to Answer

By Relman Morin

Philadelphia, July 23 (AP).—The American press had one of its finest hours today in an astonishing news conference with Henry Wallace.

Correspondents were angry, but they made a dignified and reasoned attempt to get some direct answers from Wallace, although he called each one "a stooge" for asking a certain question. They refused to be put aside or shouted down.

Wallace began the conference by reading a long letter that reflected seriously on the objectivity and integrity of American news reporting. He urged objectivity and freedom of information.

Then he put two conditions on his conference.

He said he would limit each correspondent to one question. And he asked each person to identify himself and his news organization.

The dynamite question was about the authorship of the so-called "Guru" letters. "Guru" is an East Indian word meaning "teacher." It usually denotes a religious teacher.

For some months, Westbrook Pegler, a columnist, has been writing about a set of letters. He has asked whether Wallace wrote some mystic notes to a man he addressed as "Guru." Pegler also has attempted to determine whether this man influenced Wallace's thinking and his policies.

The columnist was present at the conference today.

Someone brought up the question of the "Guru letters" and Wallace replied, "I never discuss Westbrook Pegler."

There was an instant's hush, and then Pegler rose. It was the first time he has confronted Wallace directly on the letters. He asked the same question.

Wallace, flushing, said, "I will never engage in any discussion with Westbrook Pegler."

When another correspondent posed the same query, Wallace shot back, "Nor will I engage in discussion with a stooge of Westbrook Pegler." Since Wallace had stipulated that each correspondent could ask but one question Pegler was unable to pursue it himself.

Mary Spargo of The Washington Post stood up. Fighting for control of her voice, she said, "I am not a stooge for anybody, Mr. Wallace. I don't even agree with his column. But you have been talking here about objectivity in reporting and you cited that point in your letter to Josef Stalin. Therefore, I demand that you answer this question."

Wallace said he wouldn't answer. Some people in the back of the room began to stamp and shout.

Then, in turn, Warren Francis of the Los Angeles Times and Henry Mencken of the Baltimore Sun took the floor. Wallace called Francis "another stooge." He agreed with Mencken that Mencken was not "stooging." Mencken said, "If you won't answer the question as to whether you wrote those letters, tell us, at least, the reason why you won't answer it."

Wallace said because it wasn't important.

The noise was increasing. A man wearing a Wallace button and standing near the front row shouted: "If you stooges don't like this, why don't you get the hell out of here?"

Another columnist, Doris Fleeson, managed somehow to make herself heard through the pandemonium. She said, "Some people defended you and your actions in 1940 and 1944. You owe it to them to clear up this matter."

Wallace said he would, but at his own discretion.

The information could not be brought out. To that degree, the effort was a failure.

U. S. Policies Are Attacked

streets were bright with hope. But early evening the word from Dillon Read was: 'No peace' and the obedient hand of Truman slammed the door.

"And the darkness came down again.

"That very night, Henry Wallace wrote to Josef Stalin a letter proposing a program for peace. And once again, the Russians agreed that there could be peace, and offered to talk things over. And once again the word from our State Department was 'no' and now in Berlin we reap the bitter fruits of that spring planting."

Howard was greeted by a tremendous ovation after he was unanimously elected temporary chairman. These besweatered youthful delegates here outdid the delegates to either of the two major parties by far in volume and energy of demonstrations.

In his keynote address, Howard summed up the program of the new party.

First was peace and cooperation with Russia.

Then in order came:

Restoration of price control and a rollback from dollar butter and 25-cent milk.

A determined fight against Jim Crowism.

An emergency housing program to build eight million homes for veterans and working people.

A $100 a month minimum old age pension.

An increase in the minimum wage to a dollar an hour.

Repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act.

Repeal of the draft and defeat of compulsory military training.

Attacking the draft, Howard told the delegates—many of them of draft age—that "the President's greetings" bear "postmarks of corruption in China and betrayal in Israel and murder in Greece. They bear the mark of every Nazi we have restored to power in Germany," he declared.

Howard insisted that neither of the two major parties meant any of their civil rights promises for Negroes.

He flung out a challenge to President Truman.

"It is not necessary to convene Congress to test the sincerity of the Democratic civil rights proposals or Mr. Truman's sincerity," he declared.

"It is very simple—as simple as this:

"Mr. Truman, I ask you as Commander in Chief of the armed forces to sit down now and pick up your pen. Write the executive order which will abolish Jim Crow from the United States Army."

Greeted by a tremendous ovation, Representative Leo Isaacson (ALP, N. Y.), who won a Wallace victory in New York's Twenty-fourth District last year, took the rostrum at 11:20 to deliver a blistering attack upon the Palestine policies of the Truman Administration.

The British and the Truman Administration, he said, are seeking to extend the present truce to "steal" a victory over the Jews by political means.

"I charge that Great Britain and the United States have to extend the truce in order to gain time, for the Truman Administration does not want to commit itself to an open anti-Jewish policy at this time, at least not until election day. Then, after elections are over would commence the affairs of making Israel submit to Anglo-American tutelage."

This would be accomplished, he said, by restricting Israel's territory, and keeping the southern part of the country as a military base for the British. Abdullah, he said, would be assigned Jerusalem as a capital of his enlarged state.

Israel's sovereignty would be restricted, he said, primarily in the domain of immigration.

Israel, he charged would be pressed into a position of dependence on Abdullah's state.

All this, he said, is planned after election day if either President Truman or his Republican counterpart wins.

Reminding the delegates he had just returned from Israel, Isaacson said the Grand Rabbi of Jerusalem and everyone in Israel had asked for their dear friend Henry Wallace.

Isaacson demanded that President Truman end the "infamous and unconscionable embargo" against Israel.

"You imposed that embargo, Mr. Truman," he shouted.

"The embargo has already resulted in the death of thousands of men and women and children fighting for their lives in Palestine.

"You alone can lift that embargo," he shouted.

"The time has come to put up or shut up."

He was interrupted by a howling burst of applause.

Again a minute later he was interrupted as he shouted:

"All the infamy of your own oil-soaked administration shall not conquer this heroic new state."

"Give it to him," delegates shouted.

Hisses winged through the huge convention hall as Isaacson spoke of the British policies in Palestine.

Isaacson pledged he would introduce on the first day of the special session legislation calling for the repeal of the draft.

This was the same hall in which the two major parties held their conventions, but there were changes, both in sight and sound.

Those names which brought polite splatters of applause from one and the other of the two major parties brought loud boos here tonight. . . . Mention of Defense Secretary James Forrestal. . . . Gen. William Draper. . . . Gen. Lucius D. Clay . . . and John Foster Dulles . . . all prompted boos and hisses.

Hanging in front of the hall over the speakers' rostrum is a new decoration.

A floodlighted star bearing pictures and quotations from Wallace, Thomas Jefferson, Abraham Lincoln, Franklin D. Roosevelt and George Norris.

Completely circling the horseshoe end of the hall is a blue-and-white banner reading "When the Old Parties Rot, the People Have a Right to be Heard Through a New Party."

The floor was well filled with delegates as during the conventions of either of the two major parties.

The balconies were perhaps a little more sparsely filled than during the other two of the nights keynote speeches were given, but scattered through every section were squads of determined rooters.

Elmer A. Benson, former Farmer-Labor Governor of Minnesota, chairman of the National Wallace-for-President Committee, opened tonight's convention. He introduced a number of speakers. They included Katherine Van Orden, party candidate in the Twelfth Congressional District of New Jersey and former president of the National League of Women Shoppers.

Phillip Morrison, an atomic physicist at Cornell University, described as one of the first to examine the Hiroshima-Nagasaki bomb area.

Walter Johnson, a farmer from New York Mills, Minn., whom convention publicity described as a sailor on a yacht "assigned to FDR who was Assistant Secretary of Navy at the time."

And Shirley Graham, a member of the executive committee of the New York State Wallace for President Committee, and author of "There Was Once a Slave," the life of Frederick Douglass, for which she received the Julian Messner award.

Miss Graham called for "peace without murder and military conscription." She wound up her speech with the Wallace battle cry "Jim Crow must go."

At a signal from Baldwin, groups scattered through the delegates arose to start a chant, "Jim Crow must go."

Harold Horn, veteran of five European campaigns, and candidate for Congress from New Hampshire's Second District, told the delegates the veterans had come home from the war to find they were here only on furlough. He said he didn't want to come home to be under a brass-hat government."

Miles Pennybacker of Norwalk, Conn., president of the Voltare Tube Co., called as a small businessman for the election of Wallace to keep small businessmen from being swallowed up by monopolistic big business.

Twenty-three-year-old Archie O'Neil, a West Virginia coal miner, and Frank Danowski, secretary of the National Polish Americans for Wallace, also spoke.

The Ohio delegation touched off a minor demonstration when it announced that by decision of the Ohio Supreme Court the new Wallace party had been placed on the ballot in Ohio.

Benson told the convention that the new party would represent the people's interests and would take up "the fight against the parties of special interests."

That, he said, explains why "many columns of print and hours of radio time are spent in inventing accusations against the new party."

Baldwin announced tonight that the Progressive Party will almost certainly be on the ballot in 44 States.

Of his native Virginia he said, looking at the mixed Virginia delegation, that it was a great thing to see a delegation from his State comprised for once of all first-class citizens.

Scrap Bombs, Repeal Draft, Party Urges

Philadelphia, July 23 (AP).—Destruction of all atom bombs, repeal of the draft law and peace with Russia! That was the cry today of Henry Wallace's third party in the semifinal draft of its 6500-word platform.

The platform, being whipped into final shape by the 74-member party resolutions committee, calls also for "full equality" for Negroes and other minorities.

It asks Government ownership of a large segment of the Nation's economy—at first the large banks, railroads and electric power and gas industries.

It demands a return to price controls to fight the high cost of living.

It promises "a greater New Deal."

It proposes a Federal bonus for war veterans "based on length of service."

In the "peace, freedom and abundance" platform, the party declares itself the heir of "Jefferson Jackson and Lincoln—of Frederick Douglass, Altgeld and Debs—of Wilson and Franklin D. Roosevelt."

Here are other things the preliminary draft proposes.

Russia—The New Party pledges "through negotiation and discussion with the Soviet Union, in good faith, to find areas of agreement to win the peace."

Disarmament—Work through the United Nations for a world disarmament agreement to outlaw the atomic bomb, bacteriological warfare, and all other instruments of mass destruction; to destroy existing stockpiles of atomic bombs; to establish United Nations controls, including inspection, over the production of atomic energy.

United Nations—"The new party will work to realize Franklin D. Roosevelt's ideal of the United Nations as a true world family of nations, by defending its Charter and seeking to prevent its transformation into the diplomatic or military instrument of any one power or group of powers."

Also, in the interest of peace, repeal the peacetime draft, and repudiate the Marshall Plan for European aid and the "Truman Doctrine." Establish in the United Nations a fund to promote international recovery.

Civil Rights—"Full equality" for the Negroes and other people and enactment of Federal antilynch, anti-poll-tax, antidiscrimination and fair employment practices legislation, and legislation abolishing segregation in interstate travel. Abolish the House Un-American Activities Committee and prohibit the FBI "from investigating or interfering with the political beliefs and activities of citizens." Abrogate President Truman's "loyalty purge order."

Monopoly—Public ownership "of key sectors of the economy wherever monopolies block expansion of the economy or deny the people the enjoyment of an abundance of goods and services at fair prices. As a first step, the largest banks, the railroads, the electric power and gas industries, and industries primarily dependent on Government funds or Government purchases will be placed under public ownership."

Labor—Repeal of the Taft-Hartley Labor Act and "restore labor's equality in collective bargaining by re-enacting the principles of the Wagner and Norris-La Guardia Acts. Grant employes in publicly owned industries the right to organize and to strike. A $1 an hour minimum wage for all workers.

Housing—An emergency Federal Housing program "to build within the next two years four million low-rent and low-cost dwellings for homeless and doubled-up families, with priority to veterans, a long-range program to build 25 million new homes in 10 years.

Agriculture—Price supports for all major crops; low-cost crop insurance; protect the family-size farm; help tenants to farm ownership; support co-ops.

Security and Health—"Extend Social Security protection to every man, woman and child in the United States, providing old-age pensions of $100 a month for all persons at the age of 60, disability and sickness benefits."

Taxation—Free from income taxes all families and individuals "whose income falls below the minimum necessary for a decent standard of living." Tax corporations "at steeply graduated rates to eliminate profiteering."

Education—Guarantee with Federal funds "every man, woman and child in America" the right of a good education.

Women—Legislation "to guarantee full economic and political equality to women."

Independent business—"Encourage and safeguard independent business by providing adequate working capital and development loans at low interest rates, granting tax relief, and giving independent and small business a fair share of Government contracts."

Youth—Guarantee to youth "the right to education and employment without discrimination. The New Party will lower the voting age to 18."

Economic planning — Develop, on the TVA pattern, the regional plans and river-valley authorities projected by Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Israel—Immediate full recognition of the new state, lifting of the arms embargo to permit shipment of arms to Israel; employment of economic and diplomatic sanctions against nations "carrying on or abetting aggression against the new state; prompt generous financial assistance."

Freedom of "colonial peoples—Grant independence to Puerto Rico.

Sen. Connally Says He Plans To Support Truman Ticket

Senator Connally (D., Tex.), an opponent of President Truman's civil rights program, announced yesterday he will support the Democratic ticket of Mr. Truman and Senator Barkley (D., Ky.).

"I have consistently supported the nominees of the Democratic Party in the past and I shall not deviate from that record now," Connally said in a statement.

Representative Bland (D., Va.) also said yesterday he will continue to give his support to the Democratic Party and vote for President Truman.

The dean of the Virginia delegation said in a statement he agrees with Senator A. Willis Robertson (D., Va.) who has announced he intends to vote the Democratic ticket.

Robertson said in his statement, however, that he has "no idea of accepting the interpretation of our Democratic platform with respect to a civil rights program which Mr. Truman has placed on it."

Bland's statement also said:

"I shall not change my allegiance now and especially when I believe that the policies, program and Administration of the Democratic Party when considered in the light of the party's record throughout its history and its consistent support of the public good rather than any peculiar specials interests has meant and means more for the welfare of all citizens of this Nation and the ultimate permanent peace of the world than any other platform, program or policy now before the American people."

In Roanoke, Delegate Ernest Robertson of Salem, candidate for House of Representatives in a three-way Sixth District primary, said he would not vote for the Truman-Barkley slate and would abstain from voting for any presidential candidates.

Robertson thus became the first Democratic congressional candidate to say openly he would not vote for Mr. Truman. Of others who have taken a stand all have said they would support the national party slate.

In a speech transcribed and broadcast over radio stations in Alexandria, Charlottesville, Harrisonburg, Fredericksburg, Lynchburg and Crewe tonight, Hart said he still was waiting for Senator Robertson to answer his challenge to a debate on Federal aid for education. Hart is an advocate of such aid.

Connally told reporters that in his opinion "Texas Democrats will support the national ticket in November" despite their opposition to Mr. Truman at the Philadelphia convention.

Texas was one of the Southern States which voted for Senator Russell (D., Ga.) for the top place on the ticket in protest against the President's civil rights recommendations.

The Texan said Mr. Truman and Senator Barkley "are the duly and legally selected nominees of the Democratic National Convention" and he added:

"The Texas delegation participated in that convention. It was instructed by the Democratic State convention at Brownwood to support the nominees of that convention."

Connally said, however:

"I am opposed to the so-called civil rights program advocated by President Truman and indorsed in the Democratic platform."

Martin Hutchinson Gets Back in Primary

Richmond, Va., July 23 (AP).—Martin A. Hutchinson, leader of Virginia antiorganization Democrats, pulled his forces back into the August primary election today as Senator A. Willis Robertson went on record with a pledge to vote for the Truman-Barkley slate in November.

The Richmond attorney threw his personal support in the primary behind Senator Robertson's opponent, Col. James P. Hart, jr., of Roanoke. He declared "the cautious, hesitant, and, at times, antagonistic attitude of Senator Robertson toward the Democratic national Administration and his apparent grudging and qualified support of President Truman do not appeal to me in the least."

"I infer from Senator Robertson's statement that he will personally vote for President Truman," Hutchinson said. "To me real support of the Democratic Party and its candidates mean something more than merely voting for the candidates of the party in the general election, hence, I shall support Colonel Hart for nomination to the Senate."

Governor Tuck has made no statement of his position, nor has Senator Byrd. Friends of Senator Byrd in Washington were quoted to the effect that he was not consulted by Senator Robertson and had nothing to say for the time being.

Hutchinson withdrew from the primary several months ago, with a statement that he would not participate in any primary election unless all Democratic candidates pledged themselves to support the national party nominees. He left the way open, by inference, to become a candidate for the Senate himself in the November general election. At the time of Hart's announcement for the Senate, Hutchinson repeated his refusal to participate in the primary.

New Arlington Voting System To Have Test

Arlington County's system of redistricted precincts will get its first test in the Democratic primary August 3.

The new system, which increased the number of voting places from 11 to 24, was ordered by Circuit Court Judge Walter McCarthy last March 10.

Need for the reform was shown last year when election returns were not known for nearly 30 hours after the polls closed because of the difficulty of counting ballots under the old 11-precinct system.

Electoral officials who have supervised the changeover feel the new plan will reduce congestion at the polls, and take care of population increase in the county for many years to come.

As reallocated, the county's voting precincts follow street and highway lines, or such natural geographical boundaries as streams. An effort has been made to keep the precincts within neighborhood boundaries in order to eliminate confusion.

Since the redistricting was ordered, Mrs. Walter Thompson, central registrar, assisted by other electoral board personnel, has been sending out check postcards to county residents to be sure that registration information now on county books is accurate.

In cases where the postcards have not been returned, and there is any doubt the information on official records is correct, it will be checked when the registrant votes next month.

Agriculture Asks Cut in Wheat Crop

By The Associated Press

The Agriculture Department recommended yesterday that farmers plant 71,500,000 acres in wheat for 1949—about 8 per cent less than this year's acreage.

With an average yield of 15 bushels an acre, the 1938-47 average, this would mean 1949 production of nearly 1,100,000,000 bushels. The July 1 estimate of 1948 wheat production was 1,241,751,000.

The department estimated that a harvest of 1,100,000,000 bushels next year would be sufficient for domestic, export and carry-over needs.

Beef Cattle Cut

Setting another farm goal, the department recommended a beef cattle breeding herd of 15,500,000 cows next January 1. This would represent a decrease of about 500,000 head below the total last January 1.

The department said the wheat goal is intended to bring about adjustments in areas of relatively low productivity without seriously affecting total production. Wheat acreage has increased sharply in recent years in response to war and relief needs.

"If farmers are to make the best use of the country's soil resources, however, a somewhat smaller acreage should be planted," the department announcement said. "Moreover, a better balance between soil-conserving and soil depleting crops will actually assure higher productivity over a long period of years."

Other Recommendations

The department urged farmers to provide for sufficient summer fallow and, in marginal areas, to plant grass seed on land which is not suitable for sustained production of crops.

Other considerations in arriving at the wheat goal were this year's increased carry-over, prospects that the 1948 crop will be the second largest in history, and the possibility of smaller demand because of improved crops in many importing countries.

The department cautioned that the wheat carry-over next year may be even larger. It said failure of Congress to ratify the international wheat agreement, which would have guaranteed a substantial export market for United States wheat for five years, "has cast doubt on our ability to maintain high-level production and exports."

To Supply Meat Needs

In setting the beef cattle breeding herd goal at 15,500,000 on farms next January 1, the department suggested better management, improved feeding practices and thorough culling "to put the cattle industry in better position to supply the meat requirements of the increased population."

A slaughter goal of 32 million head of cattle and calves was recommended for the year extending from July, 1948, through June, 1949.

While this recommended slaughter would mean a further decrease in breeding herd numbers, it would provide a larger quantity of beef and veal than would be available if cattle numbers were held at present levels or increased, the department said.

The recommendations are being submitted to State agriculture councils for consideration. State goals and final national goals will be announced after State review and recommendations.

The cost of living took the spotlight in the Nation yesterday with two dramatic developments:

1. The Bureau of Labor Statistics reported retail prices at an all-time high. On June 15, BLS said, it took almost $1.72 to buy what $1 would have bought in prewar days, from 1935 to 1939. Not only that, but they are still going up. Wholesale prices last Saturday also set new records—higher prices that will be reflected in retail markets almost at once.

2. President Truman announced that Former OPA Administrator Paul A. Porter will act as his cost-of-living adviser for the next few weeks—during his impending fight with the Republican-controlled extra session of Congress.

Outlines His Program

Porter met with the Cabinet yesterday, where Mr. Truman outlined the program he will submit to Congress Tuesday to halt the ever-upward spiral.

The BLS reported that on June 15 the consumers' price index, formerly called the cost of living index—stood at 171.7, compared with 100 in 1935-39 and 129.3 on VJ-Day, when price controls were still in effect.

The wholesale price index was 168.9 last Saturday, compared with 100 in 1926. The previous high in the wholesale index was 167 in 1920.

The BLS report gave Mr. Truman a powerful weapon to use with Congress Tuesday. It supports his warning at the last session that prices would continue to go up unless a program of controls he asked was enacted. Congress refused to consider his program.

That the cost of living will be one of Mr. Truman's chief arguments with Congress was apparent from several developments.

Confers With Leaders

Mr. Truman conferred Thursday night with 10 or 12 Democratic leaders in the first of a series of such meetings announced this week. It is believed living costs were high on the subject at the conference.

White House authorities early this week indicated that Mr. Truman will ask authority to control meat prices. There also are reports that he may seek authority to bring down other prices through Government subsidies such as were used during the war.

White House Press Secretary Charles G. Ross said that the Cabinet was in "complete agreement" on the President's proposals.

Republican leaders on Capitol Hill were reluctant to discuss the problem. Some, making sure their names wouldn't be used, predict little likelihood of any of Mr. Truman's anti-inflation proposals being enacted.

Unpaid Assistant

Porter, who has been practicing law in Washington since he left the OPA post, will serve as an unpaid presidential assistant. He will explain Mr. Truman's proposals to congressional committees. Porter suffered many a going-over in committee hearings when he was with OPA, but is an old hand at dealing with Congress on such matters.

The rise in living costs was paced by the steady rise in food prices. Retail food costs, BLS said, for families of moderate incomes in 56 large cities, on June 15 were 9.3 per cent above last June; 28.8 per cent above June 1946, just before price controls expired; and 74.1 per cent above August, 1939, the start of World War II.

Food prices went up 1.5 per cent in the previous month. Only exception to the rise were fresh vegetables and butter.

Rents Show Rise

Prices of fuel and house furnishings advanced six tenths of 1 per cent during the month from May 15 to June 15. Rents went up three tenths of 1 per cent, as a result of the GOP-sponsored "voluntary" 15-per cent increases and rent decontrol in some areas.

The Bureau of Agricultural Economics predicted that the prospects of a big corn crop eventually may bring milk, butter and cheese prices down, perhaps by January. Lower costs for feed for dairy cattle should bring a drop.

Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D., Wyo.) and Senator Carl Hayden (D., Ariz.) visited President Truman yesterday to discuss general congressional matters. After the meeting, O'Mahoney claimed increasing interest in his proposal that big corporations go through a "cooling off" period before announcing price boosts.

Murray Gives CIO Program

Another White House caller was Philip Murray, president of CIO. Murray presented CIO's legislative program:

1. A "freeze" on prices at "recent" levels, with corporate taxes to "curb the lust of huge corporations for exorbitant profits."

2. Passage of the Taft-Ellender-Wagner Housing bill for slum clearance and low-cost public housing.

3. Repeal of the Taft-Hartley labor law.

4. A national minimum wage of 75 cents an hour.

5. Federal aid to education, expanded social security and a national health program.

6. Civil rights, including anti-poll-tax, antilynching, antisegregation and fair employment practices laws.

Brown Criticizes Truman

Representative Clarence J. Brown (R., Ohio) criticized Mr. Truman for the present inflation spiral. The Republican Congress, Brown said, will do what it can to stop rising prices, but will act of its "own volition."

With the index of food prices already at 214.1 per cent of prewar, higher meat prices seemed assured. Livestock prices are going up to new records almost daily. Hogs yesterday averaged about 50 cents a 100 pounds above Thursday's prices.

Food Prices At Peak Here

hamburger, 62.4; veal cutlets, 96.5; pork chops, 81.7; sliced bacon, 78.5; whole ham, 67.1; salt pork, 61.1, and leg of lamb, 79.3.

The bureau's figures for Washington also showed that:

Cereals and bakery products were up .6 per cent for the period from May 15 to June 15, up 9.9 per cent since 1947, up 35.9 per cent since 1946, and up 69.1 per cent since 1939.

Dairy products dipped .7 per cent for the month but were still up 17.1 per cent over 1947, 44.5 per cent over 1946, and 97.5 per cent over 1939.

Eggs Up 4.9 Per Cent

Eggs jumped 4.9 per cent for the month and were 10.1 per cent higher than 1947, 33.5 per cent higher than 1946, and 92 per cent higher than 1939.

Fruits and vegetables increased 3.6 per cent for the month, and their prices were up 5.6 per cent over 1947, 18.2 per cent over 1946, and 111.2 per cent over 1939.

Beverages dropped .8 per cent for the month, but the prices still remained 12.2 higher than last year, 70.1 per cent higher than two years ago, and 119.1 per cent higher than 1939.

Fats and oils advanced 3.3 per cent during the month and the prices now stand 4.4 per cent higher than 1947, 53.1 per cent higher than 1946, and 151.6 per cent higher than 1939.

There was no change in the price of sugar and sweets which were selling at 1 per cent less than a year ago but 32.7 per cent more than in 1946, and 90.8 per cent more than in 1939.

Truck in Which Killers Tried to Escape

Associated Press WIREPHOTO

RIDE CUT SHORT—This is the drive-away trailer-truck, used to transport automobiles, in which the killers, John C. West and Robert M. Daniels, were trying to elude police when they were blocked at an intersection near Van Wert, Ohio, yesterday. West was driving and Daniels was riding in one of the cars on the trailer when the roadblock trapped them.

Murder Spree Ends in Death For One of Two Ohio Parolees

of law enforcement officers looped over northern Ohio.

Only a couple of hours earlier they had slain a 25-year-old Tiffin farmer, James Smith, as he sat beside his young wife in their car. The husband, en route home with his wife after an evening at an ice cream parlor, was killed when he objected to the men taking his driver's license.

The two-week manhunt ended as the drive-away, with West at the wheel and Daniels in one of the four cars on the trailer, pulled up to the road block. Sheriff Shaffer, Conn "covering" him with a submachine gun, asked West if he had any passengers.

Comes Out Shooting

West said he didn't have, but the sheriff told him to wait anyway. As Shaffer discovered Daniels crouched in the car, West came out of the cab shooting. He wounded Sergeant Conn and County Game Protector Frank A. Friemoth, 55, before Conn's bullet felled him.

Daniels, although he had three weapons beside him, put up his hands and crawled out. He said to the sheriff:

"Don't shoot! You've got me. Tell me what to do."

West died en route to Van Wert County Hospital. Daniels was put in the county jail.

Regaining some of his bravado after being placed in a cell, Daniels ignored a crowd of several hundred which milled around the jail with yells of:

"Hang the rat! Kill him now! Let us have him."

Later, when being photographed, one of the newsmen asked him to smile, but he snarled:

"Go to hell! I'm not smiling for any of you——."

Admits Part in Five Killings

Sheriff Shaffer said Daniels admitted participation in five of the six killings for which the pair had been sought in Ohio's most far-flung man hunt. He declined to sign a confession, the sheriff said, but admitted he was in on the triple killing of Farm Supt. John E. Niebel of the Mansfield Reformatory, with his wife and 21-year-old daughter last Wednesday; the Earl C. Ambrose slaying in Columbus, July 10, and last night's slaying of Taylor.

The sheriff quoted Daniels as saying West was the trigger man in all the shootings.

About the Niebel shooting, Daniels said:

"West beat the hell out of him. He (West) got a hard time from Niebel while he was in the reformatory."

(Daniels apparently changed his story retelling itfl)

Armed With Warrants

Columbus detectives, with murder warrants, were en route to Van Wert in an attempt to obtain custody of Daniels to answer for the Ambrose killing.

Ambrose was shot down in a two-gun attack in his tavern, during a holdup in which a woman customer was wounded seriously. Earlier that same night the two marauders had menaced 100 customers and escaped with $8000 in another Columbus night club holdup.

Patrons of the Ambrose tavern recognized the two youths ase the killers, setting off a man hunt which swept through 20 States, with five different law enforcement agencies aiding. The pair stayed under cover until last Monday, when they appeared momentarily at New Lexington, Ohio, seeking a hotel room.

They sped away from there in the gray Pontiac in which they had escaped from Columbus police, but turned up again early Wednesday at Mansfield where they abducted and killed the Niebel family, flaming the search into new intensity.

Body Found in Park

The Smith killing last night resulted in a search of the Tiffin area, the finding of the Taylor body in the roadside park, and the car of the killers parked nearby.

All main roads were blocked as patrol cars swept the area. But the killers were far beyond the guarded area near Tiffin, and were heading west, when they ran into the block at the intersection of Routes 224 and 627, six miles northeast of here.

Taylor, last of the murder victims to be identified, was en route from South Bend, Ind., to Welch, W. Va., with a load of automobiles. He evidently pulled into the roadside park to rest when accosted by the two killers who wanted his truck for the getaway attempt.

his being in pajamas. Deciding he wasn't, they whipped out their pistols and made him lead them upstairs where Mrs. Niebel and Phyllis were in their beds. All three were forced out of the house and into the killers' car, still in their night clothes.

"We only planned to take them into the country and beat them at first," Daniels told the crowd. "But as we drove through Mansfield and into the country we changed our minds. We decided to kill them all."

While the car was moving along, the three Niebels were forced to take off pajamas and nightgowns and throw them out the windows. The car was stopped on a dirt road, alongside a cornfield. The naked Niebels were forced out of it and into the field.

"I shot them all in the head," he said. "West shot Mrs. Niebel in the belly. I hated Niebel for four years. I'd have killed the entire family if I had lived long enough."

He referred to the Niebels' two grown sons. Neither was at home when the killers came.

Only when he referred to the State reformatory was Daniels vehement—the rest of the time his voice was wearily dispassionate. Not only did he hate Niebel, he said—he hated all the reformatory guards. He and West had planned to kill a particular guard—"Redman" Harris—he added, but had not "gotten around" to it.

The killers met while convicts in the reformatory.

Attributed to Daniels and West were the murderers of Earl Ambrose, a Columbus cafe owner; the three Niebels; James J. Smith, a farmer; Orville Taylor, a truck driver, and Frank M. Kreich, 52, Flat Rock, Mich., tourist camp operator on July 10. Daniels admitted them all except the last. When asked about it in the presence of the crowd, he replied: "That's a bum rap."

(Michigan State police later said Daniels and West were not involved in the Michigan case.)

Visited Mother in June

In Parkersburg, W. Va., West's mother, Mrs. Della West, said her son and Daniels visited her in June. They left on June 22 and she had not heard of her son until told today that he had been killed.

He behaved "perfectly" while at home, she said, even "going to church regularly."

"He kissed me good-by, just as he always did," she added.

In Columbus, Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Daniels sat in their home and told of their son's "trouble."

Mrs. Daniels, a middle-aged woman, slight appearing in a plain blue dress, twisted a handkerchief in her fingers.

"I want it all to be a closed book," the father said. "We raised our boy right. We did the best we could. We're good people."

"If it hadn't been for Dillinger and the way they almost made a hero of him years ago, when my boy was young, maybe my son wouldn't have been in trouble today. The time he spent in the reformatory didn't help, either."

It was 14 years ago that John Dillinger and his gang made crime a business.

Dillinger finally was shot to death by Federal agents outside a Chicago movie theater July 22, 1934. His henchman, Herbert Youngblood, was shot to death March 16 the same year in Port Huron, Mich.

None of the killings attributed to Daniel, and West, 22, made sense unless interpreted in terms of vengeance and an animal urge to kill.

Daniels had a police record dating back to 1941. Then he was sentenced to the Boys' Industrial School at Lancaster, Ohio, for automobile theft.

In 1943, Daniels was sentenced to the Mansfield Reformatory after conviction on an unarmed robbery charge at Waverly in southern Ohio. He later escaped from the Grafton Honor Camp, but gave himself up in Columbus and returned to the reformatory. He was paroled last September.

West was arrested three times in Cleveland in 1946. The third time he was turned over to authorities in Akron, where he was charged with grand larceny. He was sentenced to the reformatory on two counts. He was paroled last March 31.

Reformatory records showed that West had been classified "a moron" and Daniels, "a psychopathic personality." They had been paroled for "good behavior."

Volunteers Building Community Chapel

Volunteer workers are building a Baptist chapel, the first in the area, at 73d and F sts., Carmody Hills, Md.

The new church, to be called the Carmody Hills Baptist Chapel, is being erected by the people of the community and members of the Baptist Brotherhood of Congress Heights Baptist Church, Esther and Brothers pl. se.

Each Saturday members of the brotherhood journey to the site of the new church to continue their work on the project. At noon women of the community serve lunch to the workers. The foundation has been completed, and it is hoped to have the cinder-block walls up within two weeks.

The Rev. A. Lincoln Smith, pastor of the Congress Heights Church, which is sponsoring the project, believes the Carmody Hills venture may show that similar churches can be built by volunteer labor in areas where there are none.

He said that he expects the $6000 investment in the church to be worth about $20,000 when the building is completed.

The project began last summer, when members of the Congress Heights Church went to Carmody Hills, which is near Seat Pleasant, and held outdoor meetings for two weeks. Now, while the chapel is being constructed, weekly services are conducted outside by Harvey Rankin, lay preacher.

Members of the community and District churches have joined in defraying expenses for the chapel. Materials were sold to the church at cost and the land price was marked down, both by non-Baptists.

The contractor is giving his help free. In addition, the Metropolitan Baptist and Calvary Baptist Churches and the District of Columbia Baptist Convention have made contributions.

The church is expected to be ready for use within about five weeks. The property will be owned by the Congress Heights Church until Carmody Hills is ready to take over.

St. Luke's Church To Sponsor Block Party

St. Luke's Episcopal Church, 15th and Church sts. nw., will sponsor a block party July 27-31, Augst 2-5, from 6 p. m. until 11 p. m. each night. The party will be held in the parish house. On July 31 dinner will be served from 4 to 7 p. m.

Bay State Minister To Fill Pulpit Here

"Our Ally—the Unconscious Mind" will be the theme of the Rev. Robert M. Rice at 11 a. m. at the Universalist Church, 16th and S sts. nw. Mr. Rice is minister of the First Universalist Church, Arlington, Mass. The Moust Pleasant Congregational Church will participate in the Union Service.

Dr. Overholser To Preach Sunday At All Souls'

Overholser

Dr. Winfred Overholser, superintendent of St. Elizabeths Hospital and president of the American Psychiatric Association, will preach Sunday at 11 a. m. at All Souls' Church (Unitarian), 16th and Harvard sts nw.

He will speak on "Sanity Amid World Confusion." Dr. Overholser, who is a member of All Souls' Church, recently retired after a two-year term as moderator of the American Unitarian Association. The service will be conducted by Lawrence C. Staples, executive director of the church.

Dr. Overholser has been superintendent of St. Elizabeths since 1937 and before that was commissioner of the Massachusetts Department of Mental Diseases. Dr. A. Powell Davies, pastor of the church, will preach next Sunday.

Dr. Adams, Editor, In Pulpit Here

Dr. Carlyle Adams, editor of The Presbyterian Tribune, will fill the pulpit at the National Presbyterian Church, 1764 N st. nw. at 11 a. m. Sunday.

Dr. Adams, a graduate of Auburn Theological Seminary, attended Ohio State and George Washington Universities. He was with the United States Daily, now United States News, for one year and served as director of public relations for the National Education Association for three years. In September he will become pastor of the Madison Avenue Church in Albany, N. Y.

Guest Pastors To Fill Pulpit Of Dr. Rustin

Guest speakers will appear at Mount Vernon Place Methodist Church, 900 Massachusetts ave. nw., on Sunday and through the month of August.

Dr. John W. Rustin, pastor of the church, will return from his vacation early in September. In his absence, Dr. A. N. Warner, associate minister, will be in charge of services and will introduce visiting ministers.

At 9 and 11:15 a. m. and 8 p. m. Sunday the pulpit will be filled by Dr. Hiram C. Weld, minister of Elm Park Methodist Church, Scranton, Pa. In the morning his sermon topic is "All Belongs to You" and in the evening "Straight Paths for Our Feet."

Dr. Weld is a graduate of Simpson College, Indianola, Iowa, and Boston University. He studied at Heidelberg University in Germany, Oxford University, England, and the Institute for International Relations, Geneva, Switzerland.

The following are scheduled to speak at the church in succeeding weeks:

August 1, Dr. Lester Welliver, president of Westminster Theological Seminary; August 8, Dr. Warner; August 15, the Rev. Paul Hardin, jr., minister of Wesley Memorial Methodist Church, High Point, N. C.; August 22, the Rev. Thomas J. Hawkins, minister of Braddock Street Methodist Church, Winchester, Va., and August 29, Dr. Walter C. Gum, minister of Centenary Methodist Church, Richmond, Va.

Dr. Hastings to Preach On 'The Eternal Light'

Dr. J. Warren Hastings will preach on "The Eternal Light" at 10:50 a. m. Sunday at the National City Christian Church, Thomas Circle. During the past week he has been conducting evangelistic meetings at Mountain Road Christian Church, Bel Air, Md.

Building for Religious Needs Planned on Basis of Studies

By Martha J. Hall
Post Reporter

Denominational leaders in Washington are attempting to meet the religious needs of the city through careful planning rather than random church building.

Guiding them in this scientific church construction program is the Department of Research and Church Planning of the Washington Federation of Churches.

For the past five years the department has made studies of population growth and surveys of church affiliation in the city. Through these, it is able to suggest where churches are most needed, what type of plant is required, and to point out the needs of specific communities, John Halko, director, pointed out.

The city today is badly underchurched, Halko declared. In addition, many of the present churches were unwisely located, and are in areas where they can no longer meet the needs of their denominations, he said.

The population in the Greater Washington area has increased some 300,000 during the war years, Halko explained. He added that the Board of Trade expects another 300,000 to move into the area by 1970.

Much of this growth has been in areas where there were few churches before the war. The erection of huge housing and apartment developments in nearby Virginia and Maryland is a specific example.

During this period of rapid population growth, church facilities in all of the area were found to be woefully inadequate, Halko asserted. As long as the war lasted, the need simply could not be met.

Neither building materials nor the leadership for new congregations were available. Many Protestant churches began having several identical services on Sunday, while others put in public address systems so that services could be heard in other parts of the church building, he stated.

With the end of the war and building controls, Halko said, there came a boom in church building in the area. This boom is now in full swing.

The Baptists alone, Halko said, last year anonunced plans for spending over four million dollars for church construction and expansion. Other denominations followed, and today at least 100 churches are being built or are in the drawing-board stage, he said.

Two, or even three times the amount of money available for church building could be used at the present time, Halko said. All groups have received an excellent response from their pleas for building funds, and denominations have extended long-term loans to help, but there still is not enough.

Churches in the midcity area have had to make particular adjustments to the new population distribution.

Some are planning on complete relocation. Rather than attempt to remain in an area from which only a small portion of their membership is drawn, they are leaving old buildings for new parts of town.

Others have revised their programs to meet community needs. Youth activities, a greater appeal to newcomers and transients, and an attempt to be the denomination's representative church in the city, have been emphasized, he said.

In summing up, Halko stated that the building picture among the churches is still confused. Some churches hesitate to build because of high costs or insecurity about the future. Others are proceeding with their building programs and expansion in spite of these factors.

The federation, he said, is advising churches to go ahead with their plans. The need for expansion is too great to justify waiting for a doubtful decline in prices.

Sermon in Polish

The sermon will be preached in Polish at a mass at 11 a. m. Sunday at the Shrine of the Immaculate Conception at Catholic University. The mass is sponsored by the Polish Club of Washington, group 848, Polish National Alliance.

'If I Were 18'

"If I Were 18" will be the theme of Dr. George E. Schnabel at 8 p. m. Sunday at Albright Memorial Church(4th and Rittenhouse sts nw. At 10:45 a. m. he will speak on "Redemption From Unbelief."

Ex-Pastor's Son to Preach At Anniversary

The son of a former pastor of Fifth Baptist Church, 609 E st. sw., will preach at the ninety-first anniversary services at the church at 11 a. m. and 8 p. m. Sunday.

Dr. Alderson

He is the Rev. Ben R. Bruner, son of Dr. Weston Bruner, pastor of the church from 1904 to 1909. Dr. and Mrs. Bruner are expected to come here from Richmond for the anniversary service.

The church also has announced the appointment of Dr. James Alderson as minister of music. Dr. Alderson will serve as organist and choir director, and will officially begin his work on September 1.

The preacher Sunday is a graduate of the College of William and Mary and the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary. Before entering the ministry in 1942, he practiced law in Richmond, Va., and Atlanta, Ga., for nine years. He is now pastor of the First Baptist Church of Farmville, Va.

Dr. Alderson is a native of Durham, England, and received his doctor of music degree from Durham University. He was formerly concert organist to F. Loring Seely at Grove Park Inn, Asheville, N. C., and private organist to Mrs. George Vanderbilt at Biltmore House, Biltmore, N. C.

He conducted the college Glee Club at Georgia Tech and has served as minister of music in churches throughout the country. He comes here from Epiphany Lutheran Church in New York City.

'God Is My Helper,' Topic

"God is My Helper" will be the sermon topic of the Rev. James M. Singer at 9 and 11 a. m. at Luther Place Memorial Church, 1226 Vermont ave. nw.

Sunday CHURCH EVENTS

It will be Christmas in July at 9 and 11 a. m. at Chevy Chase Baptist Church, 5671 Western ave.

Christmas gifts and the offering at the services will be used to support Miss Elizabeth Mooney, a member of the church who has been a missionary in India for the past year and a half. Miss Mooney is principal of a Baptist girls' school at Balasore, near Calcutta. The pastor, Dr. Edward O. Clark, will speak on "God's Secret" at the services.

A descendant of the first rector of St. John's Episcopal Church, Lafayette Square, will preach there at 11 a. m. He is the Rev. Richard H. Wilmer, jr., former rector of St. John's Church in Mount Rainier.

Dr. Wilmer is a graduate of Yale and the General Theological Seminary and served as a Navy chaplain during the war. He recently returned from two years in England, where he took his Doctor of Philosophy degree at Oxford.

The monthly all-musical evensong will be held at the Washington Cathedral, Massachusetts and Wisconsin aves. nw., at 4 p. m. A group of special anthems will replace the customary sermon at the service. Richard W. Dirksen, associate organist and choirmaster, will be at the organ and will direct the men's choir.

Dr. Stephen Gill Spotiswood, minister of John Wesley A. M. E. Zion Church, 14th and Corcoran sts. nw., will preach his last sermon before going on vacation at 11 a. m. He will speak on "The Price of Security."

Dr. Connell to Talk On Prayer Over National Hookup

The Rev. Dr. Francis J. Connell, rector of Holy Redeemer College, 3112 7th st. ne., will speak on the "Church of the Air" over WTOP at 10 a. m. Sunday.

Fr. Connell

His subject will be "The Power of Prayer." The Carmelite Student Choir from Whitefriars Hall will also appear on the Nation - wide broadcast.

At 10:30 a. m. the Most Rev. Geoffrey Fisher, Archbishop of Canterbury, will speak from London on the second half of the program in the first of four broadcasts on the forthcoming World Council of Churches.

From New York, Dr. Henry Smith Leiper, associate general secretary of the World Council, will discuss the purpose and significance of the meetings.

At Wesley Church

The Rev. C. Stanley Lowell, pastor of Wesley Methodist Church, Connecticut ave. and Jocelyn st. nw., will preach on "Learning to Think About God" at 11 a. m. Sunday.

Catholic Action Schedules Summer School Aug. 9-14

The annual summer school of Catholic Action will be held at Catholic University August 9-14, it has been announced.

Washington is one of eight cities in which the school is being conducted. It is staffed by the faculty of the Queen's Work, St. Louis, Mo.

Daytime sessions will be from 9:15 a. m. to 4:30 p. m., with a Community Mass at 8:30 a. m. Evening sessions, for those who cannot attend during the day, will begin at 8 p. m. on the 9th and will continue through the 13th.

Tuition for the full day school will be $12.50, $6.25 for three full days, $1.50 for one morning and afternoon, and 75c for a single session. The night rate is $5.00 for the full week, $1.50 for one evening, and 75c for a single class.

The school, which has been conducted for the past 10 summers, will be attended by priests, sisters, high school and college students, and members of the sodalities and other religious organizations interested in Catholic Action.

General theme of the one-week school is "Action Now," taken from a recent address by Pope Pius XII.

Registration will take place on the first day of the school, August 9. Local general chairman for sessions is Mrs. Joseph A. Egan, president of the Sodality Union of Washington. Subchairmen are the Rev. John P. Smith, the Rev. Joseph Kerr, and the Rev. Charles W. Nelson.

KKK Initiates 450, Backs 'White Hope'

By William Tucker

Stone Mountain, Ga., July 23 (U.P.).—The Ku Klux Klan initiated some 450 new members tonight in a full-dress ceremony on Stone Mountain and Grand Dragon Samuel Green shouted the South will fight any attempts "by Yankee bayonets" to enforce racial equality.

Denied the use of the actual mountaintop, the Klan roped off a cowpasture on the southwestern slope and held perhaps its most publicized meeting.

About 2000 Klansmen and several thousand others found their way to the meeting down a dusty red road. Klansmen in robes directed traffic.

The actual initiation dragged on for an hour while photographers snapped the ritual before a monster cross of metal tubing, flaming from pints of coal oil strung along its arms.

Green ha dadvertised that 1000 would go through the initiation but it was apparent there were fewer than 500.

Green's speech at the end of the ceremony put his followers in the camp of Georgia gubernatorial candidate Herman Talmadge.

Prohibition

State Drys Open Drive, Dabney Says

Roanoke, Va., July 23 (AP).— Virginius Dabney, editor of the Richmond Times-Dispatch, today said "a quiet campaign is in progress to carry Virginia into the prohibition ranks."

"Very little is being said about it at this stage, but two State-wide dry organizations have been formed in the past two years," he told a luncheon meeting of the Virginia Press Association.

Winner of the 1947 Pultizer prize for distinguished editorial writing, Dabney said these organizations speak mainly of "local option, education, total abstinence and temperance." But, he added, "there can be little doubt that their goal is another State-wide prohibition law."

The speaker said the situation today resembles that which existed in the State 40 years ago.

"At that time," he said, "the drys were operating on the local option principle, just as they are doing now. There was no announcement then that State-wide prohibition was the goal."

Policeman Award To Be Skipped For June Work

There will be no award for the best police work done in June, as members of the Police Award of Merit Committee unanimously agreed none of the suggested police accomplishments seem exceptional enough to meet award standards.

In a letter to Acting Police Superintendent Floyd A. Truscott, the committee noted they are "particularly anxious that the original standards set shall not be lowered at all," and thus preferred not to name a policeman of the month for June.

The Award of Merit group, which consists of six newspapermen and Superintendent Robert J. Barrett, again urged the public to submit the names of any policemen who have performed unusual or outstanding service.

Federal Workers Here Gain 3300

There were 206,100 Federal employes working in Washington as of July 1, an increase of about 3300 over the previous month, the Civil Service Commission reported yesterday.

The increase was largely due to added personnel in the national military establishment, the Veterans' Administration, Department of Agriculture, Department of Commerce and the Economic Cooperative Administration.

Another factor was the transfer of a number of Bureau of Employes Compensation workers from New York to Washington.

The total Federal payroll contained 2,086,000 civilians, an increase of about 24,700 in one month This compares with 2,128,600 a year ago and the peak figure of 3,770,000 just before VJ-Day.

July 1 showed 1,855,000 Federal workers inside the continental United States, an increase over the previous month of 28,800.

Truman Leaves For Cruise

President Truman left yesterday for a weekend cruise on the Potomac River to work on the message he will deliver to Congress Tuesday.

Mr. Truman left the White House about noon (EST) and lunched aboard the Presidential yacht, Williamsburg. He expects to return about 3 p. m. (EST) Sunday.

The Willamsburg will pick up members of Mr. Truman's staff Saturday afternoon at the Washington Navy Yard. They will aid him in work on his message to Congress and other duties.

Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross and Samuel I. Rosenman, New York attorney, are among those expected to join the President today. Rosenman, former special counsel to Mr. Truman and the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, has been enlisted in an unofficial advisory capacity, to help with campaign speeches.

900 Guardsmen To Camp Sunday

More than 900 Army ground force troops will make up the first contingents of District National Guardsmen to depart Sunday for their annual two-week training period at Camp Pendleton, Va.

Guard officials said most of the troops will be members of the 260th antiaircraft artillery group. Other units will include the 104th ordnance maintenance company, the 370th signal radar and maintenance company, and the 257th Army band.

The rush of enlistees following enactment of the draft law brought the local guard unit nearly to full strength, it was said. Last year only 290 men attended the first postwar training period.

The headquarters staff of the District National Guard unit will depart from Camp Pendleton after the first week for a week's duty with air units of the Guard at Dover, Del.

Good Company, Morning Nip, Is Formula of Ex-Slave, 106

The Washington Post

John W. Washington on His 106th Birthday

Avoid bad company and live a good life generally—this was the formula for longevity set forth by a former slave on his 106th birthday yesterday.

"If you play with dogs, you pick up fleas," John Wesley Washington philosophized as he reminisced in his home at 1117 Fairmount st. nw.

This, and an occasional toddy, has enabled him to reach his present advanced age in comparatively good health, he believes.

Sitting in the front sunparlor of the modest home that thrift enabled him to buy when he came to Washington in 1937, he reflected that he "was never drunk but once."

"That was down in Jackson, Miss., near where I was born. I was a member of a volunteer fire company.

"One day we had a big fire and we knocked the head off a keg of whisky. I was drinking it by the cup. When I woke up I was inside my brother's house. He told me they found me lying on the ground in the snow.

"But if I'd not been full of whisky I'd have had pneumonia.

"That was the last time, though. A man should take little toddy before breakfast; it gives him a good appetite. But no drinking!"

Washington practices what he preaches. A neighbor brings him a pan of hot rolls each week and the preacher comes and reads the Bible with him. He eats "one or two good meals' each day and walks two or three blocks each night.

"I am making out as good as I can expect and enjoying myself. Nothing to complain about, just waiting on the Lord," he said.

Washington was born on the Col. Jess Perkins' plantation 10 miles from Jackson, and remembers the colonel coming home from the Civil War with a bullet-riddled arm. After the war he sharecropped for a time, then worked for a building contractor and eventually sold real estate in Jackson before coming to Washington.

He figures he has shaken hands or met most of the Presidents beginning with Ulysses S. Grant, and thinks President Truman is "a good Christian man."

Washington is for Dewey, however, "because the Republicans are better at restraining the Southerners."

them until a decision is handed down."

In a prepared statement, Beverly C. May, general manager for AB&W, said his company has "no quarrel" with ICC and "desires" to obey the order "until otherwise ordered by proper authority."

In its complaint Wednesday, Capital Transit asked the court to void the ICC order and give PUC authority to determine what streetcar and bus fares should be charged on Capital Transit lines.

It questioned ICC's authority to set rates for Capital Transit between Washington and Virginia points because CTC vehicles no longer operate in Virginia.

It also asked the court to enjoin ICC, the Attorney General, the United States Attorney here and others from taking action against it until the case is decided.

Firemen Urge Rating for All Promotions

Local 36, International Association of Firemen (AFL), yesterday urged abolition of all noncompetitive promotions in the District of Columbia Fire Department.

A committee, to be appointed by Capt. L. F. Price, president of the local, will present the resolution to Fire Chief Murphy and District Commissioners.

The resolution charged that noncompetitive promotions above the rank of captain make it possible for the fire chief to dole out advancements as political "plums."

It recommended the substitution of promotions based on average service, intelligence and efficiency —"a system now used for lower bracket promotions."

Dual meetings were held to permit day and night working firefighters to attend.

New Order Gives Choice Pentagon Parking to Rank

In future you'll have to rank to get a choice parking space at the Pentagon.

The Army says there'll have to be some changes made because certain Naval offices are moving into the Pentagon, and because there has been an increase of about 3000 other personnel in the past six months.

A check showed "the most desirable lanes are heavily overcrowded, with some as much as 100 per cent overloaded, in contrast with the 20 per cent overload normally allowed."

The Pentagon has north and south parking areas, and the latter is the favored one.

Beginning Monday, all personnel below the rank of captain (Army), lieutenant (s.g.) (Navy), and P-2 or CAF-9 (civilian) will be moved from the choice spaces.

Almond Rules SCC May Hear Transit Case

Richmond, Va., July 23 (AP).—Attorney General J. Lindsay Almond, jr., today said the State Corporation Commission has full authority to preside in the Citizens Rapid Transit Co. rate case even though the commission itself is operating the State-seized Newport News bus company. In a letter to the Governor, he said the challenge of the commission's authority was "without merit."

The point was raised by Lee Ford, Newport News attorney representing the Peninsula Shipbuilders Association, at a rate hearing Monday. The commission considered the uni on attorney's objection and then recessed the hearing un til July 26.

Group Sets Chest Goal

predecessor of the Community Chest Federation, $4,518,601 was raised in 1943, and $4,862,896 the next year.

The following allocations were urged for 1949:

Alexandria Chest	$129,286
Arlington Chest	122,922
Fairfax Chest	60,668
Montgomery Chest	171,000
Prince Georges Chest	101,919
Washington United Community Services	2,314,425
Hospitalization Fund (net)	350,000
Contingency Fund	50,000
Retirement Fund Reserve	75,000
Community Chests of America	15,000
Headquarters Expense	302,950
Shrinkage Reserve	315,000
Total	$4,509,170

In 1948 funds, Alexandria was allowed $110,961; Arlington, $95,292; Fairfax, $49,309; Montgomery, $133,027; Prince Georges, $92,654, and Washington, $1,866,765.

Federation officials said these fund proposals, normally not disclosed until a goal is set, are being announced to give the public an indication of the needs. The federation's executive committee can either raise or lower them.

Earlier this week, it was announced the budget committee recommended a 97 per cent boost in federation fund allocations to 14 area hospitals, to pa for treatment of indigent and semi-indigent patients who do not qualify for public assistance.

The Hospital Council of the National Capital Area had said it would have to launch its own fund drive unless the current year's appropriation of $432,179 was greatly increased.

A total sum of $1,081,000 was recommended for this fund, reduced by a $230,000 credit in funds to be recouped from patients, or a net of $851,000 which was "rounded off" to $850,000.

The budget committee proposed a budget of $130,053.50 for the Health Security Administration, which certifies hospital care arrangements. This $130,053.30 would also be recouped from patients' payments, and does not figure in the required funds drive.

The Washington United Community Services is the newly organized successor to the Washington Community Chest, combining that agency and the Council of Social Agencies.

The contingency fund listed in the proposed budget is for use of special emergency needs. The retirement fund benefits Chest and agency employes, who are not eligible for Social Security Act benefits.

Funds for the Community Chests of America, Inc., representing one-third of 1 per cent of the goal, go to the national office for year-round research, planning and counseling, while the shrinkage fund is to cover losses in noncollection of campaign pledges.

Montgomery Seeks 3 Million For 5 New Schools, Additions

Completion of 5 new schools and of additions to 15 others in Montgomery County is called for under a proposed three-million-dollar school bond issue to be sold in September.

Work on some projects already has begun.

Agreement on details of the construction program was reached Thursday at a meeting of the school board. A breakdown of the program was turned over yesterday to Montgomery County commissioners.

The new schools to be financed include: Flower Avenue Elementary, 10 rooms; Damascus High, 12 rooms; Forest Glen Elementary, 9 rooms; a Negro elementary, 7 rooms, and a Negro high, 10 rooms.

Of the three million dollars, Richard Carpenter, assistant school superintendent, said $2,413,758 is to be spent for new construction. The remainder will go towards purchasing school sites, planning and reconditioning.

Additions are slated for the following elementary schools: Potomac, Westbrook, Glenmont, Kensington, Colesville, Alta Vista, Bradley, Parkside, Rockville, Sherwood, Pleasant View. Junior and senior high schools to receive additions are: Gaithersburg, Lincoln Park, Takoma Park, Montgomery Hills.

Winchell Signs $1000-a-Minute Radio Contract

New York, July 23 (U.P.).—The Kaiser-Frazer Sales Corp. announced today that it would sponsor Walter Winchell's Sunday evening broadcasts beginning January 2, 1949.

A two-year contract was signed today.

Winchell for the last 15 years has advertised Jergens lotion.

It was reported Winchell's fee for two years will be $1,350,000—about $1000 a minute during the time he is on the air.

Crown Zellerbach Raises Newsprint $4 a Ton

San Francisco, July 22 (AP).—Crown Zellerbach Corp. announced today an increase in its price of newsprint of $4 a ton to all customers on August 1.

The current San Francisco and Los Angeles port prices are $96 a ton.

Court Upholds Conviction in Assault Case

The Municipal Court of Appeals yesterday affirmed the conviction of John S. F. Slaughter, 39, on charges of unlawful entry, indecent assault upon a 2-year-old girl and assault upon the child's father.

Slaughter had been given a total of 930 days in jail and $175 in fines.

The defendant contended on appeal that he was deprived of his right to counsel of his choosing and to have witnesses testify in his behalf, and stated his case was prejudiced because the prosecution introduced evidence of his conviction of another crime without also introducing evidence that he had been pardoned for it.

The Appeals Court found these charges to be baseless.

Auto Gray Market

Some persons have seen in our editorial of last week an implication that used-car dealers alone are to blame for the gray market in automobiles. This is not, of course, the case. Used-car dealers are implicated to the extent that they participate in schemes to purchase new cars for immediate resale. The real culprit in such deals, as we endeavored to point out, is the person who buys a new car for the avowed purpose of reselling it to a used-car dealer at a handsome profit.

There is reason to believe that new-car dealers have a considerable share of the responsibility for the exorbitant prices of used cars. The National Capital Used-Car Dealers Association, which represents a majority of such dealers in Washington, reports that the average markup on used cars handled by its members is less than 10 per cent. However, many new car dealers, whose markups run around 25 per cent, also have a lucrative sideline in used cars.

Some unprincipled dealers have been able to maintain a pretense of avoiding profiteering by charging only list prices for new cars—plus what they are able to tack on in the way of "extras"—while allowing only a pittance for the trade-in. Thus such dealers are able to make a cleaning by reselling the trade-in at the market price—often $300 to $500 above what they have allowed.

The repurchase option on new cars, which was upheld in court the other day, is no check against this type of mulcting. Barring forbearance by the car-hungry public, the most effective means of curtailing this practice would be a self-discipline promoted by those reputable dealers who realize that business carried on in this fashion is built on sand. The gougers are going on the time-proved theory that the public quickly forgets.

Red Roundup

The arrests of the seven Communist leaders on secret indictments returned by a Federal grand jury poses anew the dilemma of any democratic society which seeks to protect itself against this elaborate international conspiracy. The two "horns," or fatal alternatives, of the dilemma might be expressed thus:

(a) If the Communists are permitted the same liberties as other citizens they will exploit these liberties to the detriment or destruction of the social organization which has made them possible; and yet—

(b) If the liberties of Communists, as such, are abrogated or curtailed, the liberties of all citizens will be imperiled.

In other words, there is apparently no way of moving against the Communists which, if admitted as precedent, could not later be employed against some other suspected or unpopular minority, given certain conditions of popular panic or hysteria. And it has been demonstrated that these conditions can easily be created through the instruments of propaganda which are now at the command of governments and of powerful pressure groups.

That communism is an international conspiracy, and that its purpose is to overthrow the existing order of society, is something that cannot be doubted in view of the published doctrines of Lenin, the real father of communism, and of the Theses and Statutes of the Third International, or in view of the concrete evidence contained in the Report of the Canadian Royal Commission.

However, if it was the purpose of the Government to make a test case for the courts, as we ourselves have from time to time suggested, one arrest would have sufficed as well as a half dozen. Moreover, out of the various statutes on which a test case could have been based, it was decided to make it on the basis of a conspiracy to overthrow the Government by force and violence as defined in the act of June 28, 1940. Our preference would have been the act requiring registration of agents of foreign principals. That Messrs. Foster, Dennis, Williamson, Satchel et al. would cheerfully overthrow the Government if they could, none but the most infatuated fellow traveler ventures to doubt. But that, barring a condition of complete anarchy, they could ever have the slightest opportunity of seizing power in this country, no intelligent person can believe. They are marked men and have been so for years and their every move is known to the authorities.

It is equally clear that these fellows are not the real leaders of communism in the United States, but merely its facade. The real leaders are the direct representatives of the Kremlin operating under cover. The Report of the Canadian Royal Commission demonstrated very clearly that it is not the overt, or "legal" Communist Party, as it is represented by men like Foster and Dennis, that is to be feared, but the submerged, or "illegal," party which usually operates under a mask of bourgeois respectability. Even if Mr. Foster and his companions were convicted and given the maximum penalties provided by the law—that is, fines of $10,000 apiece and prison sentences of 10 years each—it would scarcely interfere with the operations of the illegal party and would certainly not remove the insidious menace it offers.

All this being so, it is difficult to escape the suspicion that the purpose of the wholesale arrests is not so much the protection and security of the state as the exploitation of justice for the purposes of propaganda. And if Mr. Foster and his companions and followers succeed in turning the trial into a farce, the Government will have only itself to blame.

Soviet "Retaliation"

General Clay yesterday effectively disposed of the newest Russian excuse for the blockade of Berlin. Marshal Sokolovsky had sought to "explain" the blockade (he since is reported to have denied the "explanation") as an answer to American insistence since the beginning of June that Russians entering the America zone should have American visas. General Clay told a different story at his press conference. Before June, the American military mission at Potsdam and the Soviet mission at Frankfurt had had passes enabling them to enter the respective occupation zones at any point. Suddenly the Russians imposed a restriction that the passes would be honored only at Helmstedt. The American Military Government instituted a like restriction, General Clay emphasized, only after the Russian provocation. At no time during conversations with Marshal Sokolovsky, he added, was this mentioned as a reason for the blockade.

It is plain from General Clay's explanation that the Sokolovsky charge is merely another propaganda thrust, seized upon as a convenient pretext for the scarcely concealed aim of throwing the Westerners altogether out of Berlin. It is this intimidation that is noxious. A halt had to be put to it somewhere, though it was unfortunate that it had to be Berlin, the argument over which has done more to arouse German nationalism than anything that has been done since Roosevelt's off-hand enunciation of the unconditional surrender formula at Casablanca. For this reason we do not join in the applause that the Germans in Berlin have elicited in many newspapers in America and which General Clay echoed. German enthusiasm is not necessarily German cooperation. This is clear from a report from western Germany that the Ruhr steel owners have blandly informed the British authorities that they will no longer cooperate in dismantlement and have removed their representatives from the mixed committee which is supervising this work. It is evident that in more ways than one the crisis in Berlin is going to bedevil Western policy in Germany.

This is in great part traceable—and here the French are responsible—to the hesitation over coopting Germans from the lander in Trizonia into the OEEC in Paris. To make the Germans good Europeans was much more important than to make them good democrats. But French fears, on top of American security preoccupation and British traditionalism, have deflected Europeanization. In this connection it is ironical to recall the first comment of the man who has just resigned the French Foreign Ministership, Georges Bidault, after the liberation of France. As the head of the French underground he visited a hospital for wounded German prisoners. "I wish you good health," he said, "as future citizens of a united and democratic Europe." Or Winston Churchill two years later at Zurich: "The ancient states and principalities of Germany, newly joined together into a federal system, might take their individual (our italics) place among the United States of Europe." Let us hope that courage will get abreast of vision in the crucial months ahead, and that there will be no "Too Late" sign to hang over the pro-Europe effort in Germany.

Blunders, however, are certainly not the Western prerogative, and, if it has looked sometimes as if the Westerners were over a barrel in Berlin, the Russians have put themselves out on one limb after another. A centralized Germany is not to satellite liking; that is certain. The effort to push a pro-German policy down the throats of the satellites was probably back of the capture of Czechoslovakia by the Czech Communists. But, as we see from Tito's example, a Communist in his own queer way can also be a nationalist, and Tito's defiance is likely to encourage more of the same dissidence among the satellites. Moscow, indeed, has its hands full, and there seems to be as much desperation as aggression in its policies. With one hand it is bent upon worldwide sabotage of ERP, which threatens to debunk the thesis of the historical determination of capitalistic collapse, and with the other it is trying to consolidate its peripheral empire, preparatory to attaching Germany to the Soviet kite.

In the circumstances, time, if we can surmount the present crisis, may be shifting to our side. There is good reason to believe, from General Clay's remarks yesterday, that we may succeed. The fleet of additional C-54s being rushed to Berlin will permit the release of many of the smaller C-47s and will double the tonnage which the British-American air lift is able to bring to that beleaguered city. Moreover, General Clay gave reassurance that the new goal of 4500 tons daily will be sufficient to provide minimum food needs and enough coal to meet absolute essentials even during the winter. While we resist coercion, yet show ourselves willing to talk to the Russians, Soviet troubles are bound to mount in Yugoslavia, Czechoslovakia, Poland and (athwart the iron curtain) Finland. Thus a combination of firmness and prudence applied to the Soviet may help the satellites in resisting complete absorption, just as retreat under fire would hasten it.

Courts And The Press

The excesses of sensationalism in the Heirens and Hauptmann cases are too fresh in memory for there to be any blanket exculpation of the press for its reporting of crime news. Nevertheless, the issue in the Baltimore press-gag rule which a committee of judges would extend to the whole State of Maryland is not whether the press has abused its freedom or even occasionally impeded justice, but whether the severe restrictions imposed on crime reporting would not result in even greater abuses. The regulation under which five radio stations were cited for contempt in the James case represents an overreaching of the power of the court. As former Federal Judge Justin Miller noted, it is in effect the old English court rule with regard to contempt which the Supreme Court has indicated "does not have proper application under the Constitution of the United States."

The press, like the courts, is a creature of society. The two institutions are not mutually exclusive, but interdependent. Together they are the guardians of our liberties, the courts as instruments of a government of law and the press as the instrument of the public's right to know the facts. In this sense the press (and radio) performs a public trust. There is confidence in the courts because the press is free to scrutinize operations of the courts and to report instances of dereliction, favoritism and incompetence when they arise. Society thus relies on the press no less than on the courts for its protection. It was a deep understanding of this relationship, as the people in the dark places of Europe will testify, which led Thomas Jefferson to observe.

> Were it left to me to decide whether we should have a government without newspapers or newspapers without a government, I should not hesitate a moment to prefer the latter.

Gov. Mortimer R. Proctor of Vermont placed the issues in a contemporary setting when in 1945 he vetoed a bill to require secrecy in the proceedings of juvenile courts. He said:

> A prohibition against publicizing juvenile cases could result in improper or illegal commitments being innocently or secretly made. Such a prohibition, instead of protecting or shielding the juvenile, might operate to his disadvantage . . . The public should know how our juvenile courts, our probation and enforcement officers are functioning, and it is only through the spoken or written word that such knowledge may be brought to the public attention.

It is this right of the public to know about the functioning of its institutions which has been eclipsed in the zeal of the Baltimore court to protect the rights of the accused to a fair trial. The protection of the accused is of course basic; but as this newspaper has already noted, judges have always had the right to cite the press for contempt in instances of "clear and present" danger to the impartial administration of justice. The fact that this power has seldom been used indicates that "clear and present danger" is not easily proved. It is part of the duty of judges to take precautions against the influencing of jurors and to instruct them strictly as to the evidence they are to regard. But it is fatuous to assume, as the Baltimore rule assumes, that jurors lead a monastic existence and can be insulated from the outside world. This merely puts a premium on ignorance or irresponsibility.

Secrecy as invoked by the Baltimore court is a two-edged weapon which can operate to the disadvantage of some defendants wrongfully accused or to the favor of other persons whom politicians desire to protect. Not the least of the harmful effects of the mantle of clandestinity imposed in Baltimore can be to undermine the faith of the people—both in the press and in the courts themselves.

Pan-American Routes

Domestic airlines naturally have an interest in preventing Pan-American Airways from extending its routes within the United States. To this extent some of their arguments must be discounted. Nevertheless, it seems to us that they present a good case that the granting of domestic routes to Pan-American would not be in the public interest even though such new lines might augment the service Pan-American offers to overseas points.

Pan-American now operates international routes in all directions. It seeks to connect 13 gateway cities with a network of lines within the United States. But the additional cities which it wants to include are already served by a variety of domestic carriers. The addition of another major competitor thus would increase the already manifold financial difficulties of the carriers operating within this country. It is noteworthy that all but one of the airlines whose routes would be duplicated by Pan-American have submitted applications for increases in mail pay. Pan-American, on the other hand, is in strong financial position, largely because of the virtual monopoly it enjoyed until recently in international air traffic. Interestingly enough, its effort to cut in on domestic traffic is the direct opposite of the position it has taken in favoring a single "chosen instrument" for all international operations.

Pan-American would have more of a case if domestic airline traffic had expanded. The fact is, however, that 1948 traffic is under 1947. The decision before the Civil Aeronautics Board thus becomes primarily one of economics. In this connection even the single restricted Miami-New York route recommended by a CAB trial examiner seems unwise. The CAB has a dual function which includes both the improvement of air service and the promotion of a strong air transport industry through a policy of regulated competition. Service to the public could hardly be improved in the long run by creating a condition that would make even more precarious the existence of airlines already in the domestic field.

Centralization

The writer of the July 16 letter, "Faith in Freedom," undertakes to point out the difference between socialism and communism. . . . The defect in the reasoning of those who would promote the general welfare through a system of government operating according to the ideas of Socialists is that they are apparently incapable of realizing that both socialism and communism result in the centralization of power in government, and that the result of such centralization of power is the destruction of human liberty.

Louis Kossuth, the then expatriated Premier from Hungary, in a brilliant address delivered at a congressional banquet in Washington in 1852 said: "With self-government is freedom, and with freedom is justice and patriotism. With centralization is ambition, and with ambition dwells despotism.

"Happy your great country for being warmly addicted to the great principle of self-government. . . . Upon this foundation you have developed to the living wonder of the world. Happy your great country that it was selected by the blessing of the Lord, the prove the glorious practicability of a federative union of many sovereign States, all conserving their State's rights and their self-government, and yet united in one. . . .

"Upon this foundation your country has grown to prodigious power in a surprisingly brief period. . . . Your principles will conquer the world. . . . The lesson you give to humanity will not be lost, and the respect of the State rights in the Federal Government of America and its several States will become an instructive example for universal toleration, forbearance and justice to the future states and republics of Europe."

During the 97 years since Kossuth made his prediction, the picture has completely changed. We have traveled down the same road, which has but one terminus. With the laudable purpose of improving the general welfare, we have created a completely centralized Government, from which there can be but one result: the complete overthrow of the liberties of the people!

New York Divorces

You recently made a plea for a Federal divorce law. As a victim of the vagaries of a State's divorce laws, I am heartily in agreement. But your editorial missed another point. It failed to call attention to New York's archaic and medieval divorce law that makes perjury mandatory, collusion a necessity and flouting of the law a virtue!

Under New York law, adultery is the only means whereby a couple may secure a divorce. Because many unhappy couples, residing in New York, cannot afford the luxury of Nevada trips or Florida sojourns, it becomes necessary for them to indulge in legal histrionics, where the husband or the wife spends an evening discoursing the weather with some bored co-respondent, while hired Peeping Toms later attest under oath that the great State of New York had had its sovereignty and dignity threatened by "adultery."

Then the lawyers present their arguments; the divorce is granted and everyone presumably is happy—except the stupid individual who agreed to lend his name to such indignities and who is perforce branded an adulterer and forced to pay a price far in excess of the alimony squeezed out of him. Further, the New York decrees denies the victim the right of remarriage—and I quote—"during the lifetime of the plaintiff except by express permission of the court! What if the court says "No" to such a plea? Must the victim enter a monastery and thus expiate his sins in celibate solitude?

Thus we have the spectacle of a great State—the Empire State, if you will—encouraging its officers of the law to connive at collusion, condone perjury and permit offenses against the law that, in many respects are far more heinous than the "crime" of beseeching for "justice" against a marriage that has failed. Berlin Face-Saving

The partitioning of Germany is an accomplished fact—partitioned by the Western powers. If this was a blunder, it was a blunder of our diplomats. Since Berlin is now the center of Soviet territory I can't see what purpose we can have in remaining there. Since before the war was over, certain individuals and groups have been trying to promote a war with Russia. They are mostly Russophobes who have such an inordinate fear or hatred of Russia that they would risk war with Russia in order to destroy her.

We would only be staying in Berlin to save face. The danger of an incident is too great. They have no right to risk war over anything so unimportant.

Crime Whipping Boys

At a recent meeting of the D. C. Recreation Board, the secretary is alleged to have remarked, "As a Negro woman, I resent that every time someone has been murdered the immediate thought is that a Negro committed it."

This may be thought by some but not by all. This is a very bad practice not only because of the injustice to Negroes but because of the effect upon non-Negroes. It tends to give a feeling of security to non-Negro delinquents.

"The "whipping boy" practice is almost as bad for the morale of the ones who employ it as it is for the whipping boy himself. When the wrong person is accused and punished, then the real culprit is free to roam at large and is able to prey upon the public with further crimes.

Negligent Sanitation

What has happened to the health campaign in Washington? My observations of night clubs, restaurants and theaters show a great laxity in proper sanitary conditions and the observance of health rules for the protection of the public. How can these public places afford fancy floor coverings and fixtures and yet not afford to keep a clean kitchen or rest room, so that rats and cockroaches are running around? If the people who are guilty of these negligences do not realize their moral obligation to the public then why haven't the health inspectors enforced the legal obligation and imposed fines where these conditions exist?

I think it is about time a rat-exterminating campaign is started in the city and property owners warned to eliminate any unnecessary debris and conditions of filth from their homes.

Through Soviet Eyes

The following is from an article, "Brutalization," by Yury Zhukov, published in the Russian magazine Literaturnaya Gazeta (Literary Gazette) of December 31, 1947. A translation was printed in Soviet Press Translations, a publication of the Far Eastern Institute, University of Washington, in Seattle, April 1, 1948. Mr. Zhukov was in New York City in the fall of 1947.

"God, along with big guns and the atomic bomb, has been allotted a quite definite place in the designs of those planning a third world war. This is why the masters of American advertising are employing every means to raise the stock of the American God in the eyes of the rank-and-file American. In Washington, for example, on Sunday, you can buy whisky only in church. If an American feels like having a drink, he trudges willy-nilly to the priests, and together with a bottle of whisky they hand him some sort of jolly prayer or show him a lewd religious film full of attractive angels. On the other hand, the people you couldn't drag to church are attacked by an army of thousands of prophets, fortune-tellers, palmists, and sorcerers, who have multiplied amazingly in America, especially in the postwar years.

"Thus the facts indicate that here, on a continent where industry has been developed so powerful and where technology has been raised to such a high level, obscurantism, medieval nonsense, and hysteria are coming back to life and creeping from every crevice. The American is taught to fear black cats, the number 13, and Friday. He is taught to believe in signs, and to be a fatalist.

"What is this, anyway—a chance epidemic? Tribute to an absurd fashion? No, it is enough to look at what happened 10 years ago in Germany to be convinced of the real meaning of these trends. All this happened before. It happened in Berlin before the war. There, too, they went in for astrology. There, too, they preached fatalism and superstition. All these are the component elements of the Fascist system of rearing the obedient soldier—the more savage and stupid he is, the better it is for those who look on him as an obedient tool.

"The American Legion is an organization that has been mobilized to corrupt the judgment of veterans of the World War. Its military units recall the units of storm troopers in Germany, and Legionnaires receive approximately the same training that Hitler's storm troopers received in their day. When the Legion convention opened in New York, the police were given a special order from high up: to wink at the behavior of the Legionnaires. As a result New York was given over, as they say, to pillage and plunder during these days, by these unleashed fascist housebreakers.

"Thus proceeds the process of brutalization that inevitably accompanies the growth of fascism, as the lessons of history have shown. It would be a dangerous oversimplification, of course, to represent the case as if a direct parallel could be drawn between America of 1947 and Germany of 1933-1939. But it would be just as dangerous to underestimate the importance of all those symptoms that have been discussed here."

Monogamy Ground Swell

By Malvina Lindsay

One World, One Wife

MEN THROUGHOUT the world who have the desire and the means, as well as the legal right, to marry several or even several hundred wives simultaneously may well be alarmed over what the one-world movement is doing to polygamy.

One example of this is the recent decision of the United Nations Trusteeship Council to investigate the household setup of the latter-day King Solomon—the King of the Bikom Tribe in the British Cameroons. The Bikom King, first reported to have 600 wives—only 100 less than Solomon—now is said to possess a mere 110. Complaints have been made by a missionary group that part of these were acquired by compulsory child marriage. The Trusteeship Council has denounced the marriage customs of the tribe, and next year is sending a mission to look further into the matter.

Next year also another body in the U. N.—the Commission on the Status of Women—will take its avowed views on the "dignity and worth of the human person," and its frank discussions of women's rights closer to polygamy territory. This will be one of a series of regional conferences it plans to hold. By means of these the commission hopes to encourage and interest women in isolated regions in improving their lot. It especially hopes to get women's groups and leaders in so-called backward areas to working to improve the status of their sex.

THE COMMISSION makes no bones about standing for monogamy, the "dignity of the wife," freedom of choice for women in marriage, and the equal rights to dissolution of marriage—ideas that would be upsetting to the head of a harem. It has, of course, no power to impose its views on any nation, but it can stir up plenty of talk about them, even in remote areas.

This is a strategic time for such technique. For a ground swell of opposition to polygamy is developing among women in places where it is practiced. This opposition has been quiet and adroit, in the Eastern feminine manner, and its extent is not generally realized.

Prototype of the gentle, silky feminine leader of the East is Princess Malia Soenario of Indonesia, who recently made a tour of the United States alone—a daring social adventure for a Moslem woman. The petite princess, exuding Oriental charm in her silks, laces and jewels, showed a trace of guile in her expressive eyes as she explained that Indonesian women would not think of trying to abolish polygamy by presuming to change the rules of their Holy Koran. Rather, they would educate their sex, improve women's social and economic condition and then—well, then women would have a "strong and independent position with their husbands."

The princess freely declared that monogamy and the right of divorce and alimony were the "battle cry" for the emancipation movement among Indonesian women. Polygamy, she said, was almost nonexistent among the Western educated class of her country. And she added that so eager were many Indonesian mothers to see their daughters educated that they made the greatest of sacrifices to that end.

POLYGAMY is also on the skids in other parts of the world, notably the new Dominion of India which has a long history of plural marriage. The Province of Bombay was the first to pass a law for monogamy. Women leaders of India are sure their new constitution will contain such a law, also a declaration of equal rights for men and women, and probably a minimum age—say 16—at which girls can marry.

Economics has also dealt a blow to polygamy, especially in nonagricultural regions where wives cannot earn their keep as farmhands. Few city or town men can support more than one family. But in primitive regions, where wives can double as draft horses or otherwise help in farm pursuits the plural marriage system works to husbands' advantages.

But here again one-worldism is threatening social custom. Transportation has brought to remote places pictures, printed matter, oral legends and live tourists to portray how Western monogamous women live. This is causing wide curiosity about and much envy of the American woman. It is causing younger women to set out for cities, older ones to get "dangerous" ideas. In fact magazine advertisements may do as much as the U. N. Charter's pledge of "equal rights to men and women" to stir up global feminism.

Wages And Prices

Often it is reported in the news that a union such as the automobile workers has won so many cents an hour increase in wages. Then following is an announcement of a price increase of the cars, probably from $25 to $300 per car.

The same news appears in reference to the steel industry. Why should not a good reporter give his thoughtful readers a break, and in the case of the auto increase in wages and prices, indicate the average number working hours that go into the making of cars? That would give readers a chance to figure whether all the price raise was justified by the wage increase. SIMON GROSS.

Wallace's Stage Managers

PHILADELPHIA.—At this third political convention to be held in Philadelphia there can be few surprises. The ground has been too carefully prepared from the first day, now more than six months ago, that Henry Wallace gave his consent to lead a third-party movement.

Childs

The resentment of non-Communist liberals and radicals at the domination of the Communists and fellow travelers may boil up. And there is reason to believe Wallace would welcome such a protest, which would show that the convention is not too tightly stage-managed.

But otherwise the program will move on toward the climax in Shibe Park when Wallace and his running mate, Senator Glenn Taylor of Idaho, appear before a crowd that is certain to be wildly enthusiastic. This is a propaganda show, and the propaganda is aimed not so much at the present as at the future.

The shrewd stage managers are aiming at 1952. They do not believe, as Wallace says he believes, in the future of American capitalism. They see in inflationary prices and the trembling uncertainty of the stock market the symptoms of a new crash and depression, and they want to be ready to lead millions of dissatisfied Americans in another political direction.

These stage managers are something new on the national political scene. With one or two exceptions, they have never before engaged in the rough-and-tumble of American politics and they never held elective office. Behind a barricade of mimeograph machines these dedicated men and women have carried on a propaganda warfare.

THIS IS not said to belittle their influence. In organized labor, before Philip Murray of the CIO decided on a showdown, the power they exerted was far out of proportion to their numbers. Almost the only substantial labor support for the Wallace party comes today from the United Electrical Workers.

The most conspicuous stage manager is C. B. Baldwin, one of the few former associates of Wallace in the New Deal, beside him in the present venture. A Virginian, he has an easy surface manner that belies his intense energy and organizing capacity, as does his smooth, boyish face.

Almost as important in some respects as Baldwin, himself, is his new wife, the former Lillian Traugott, who was in Europe for the Office of Strategic Services for part of the war. Mrs. Baldwin is thoroughly familiar with the politics of the Left both in Europe and this country.

The individual who has made himself invaluable to Wallace personally is Lewis Frank, jr. Soft-spoken, a brilliant intellectual, Frank is always at hand to help in the preparation of a speech or to discuss with the third-party candidate his doubts and difficulties.

The son of a wealthy paperbox manufacturer in Detroit, Frank might almost be a character out of one of the highly successful plays of Lillian Hellman with their sharply drawn villians, their pathetic victims and their heroes. Miss Hellman is one of the "big names" that lend prestige to the party and who presumably also comes through with generous contributions.

ONE OF the few officeholders active in the party is Representative Vito Marcantonio of New York City. Marc, as he is called by almost everyone, must be rated as one of the four or five top managers of the party. He knows a lot about practical politics and he has a demagogic skill in stirring a crowd.

Between Marc and another active manager, Lee Pressman, a rivalry is said to have grown up. Pressman, who resigned as counsel for the CIO when Murray forced a showdown over Wallace, is running for Congress on the third-party ticket in a Brooklyn district. He has an aggressive personality and a powerful intellect.

Paul Robeson, the Negro singer and a member of the executive committee, is high on the list. So is Clark Foreman, who was formerly the active force in the Southern Conference for Human Welfare. Another former CIO executive taking a leading part in the Wallace movement is John Abt.

Perhaps the major theme of the convention is peace with the Soviet Union. This is sounded at a moment when relations between the two nations, at the point of greatest friction in Berlin, have deteriorated so that alarmist talk of war is heard frequently.

The dedicated men and women working for the third party know this very well. Berlin is a kind of lurid backdrop for what happens here. If war with the Soviet Union should come, the FBI would move at once to confine thousands suspected of allegiance to world communism rather than to the United States. And it is no secret that some of those who would be confined are here at this convention. That is part of the drama just offstage, but you would never suspect it watching the stage managers go about their work.

NLRB Holds Union Guilty In Boycott

The National Labor Relations Board, ruling for the first time on an unfair labor practice case against a union under the Taft-Hartley law, yesterday unanimously held a New York liquor workers union guilty of an illegal secondary strike and boycott.

The union is Local 1 of the AFL Distillery, Rectifying and Wine Workers International Union, also known as the Wine, Liquor and Distillery Workers Union. The charges were filed by the Schenley Distillers Corp. and the Jardine Liquor Corp., one of the six principal New York City distributors of Schenley products.

The board found that the New York local had engaged in a pre-Christmas boycott of Schenley products, to support a strike by Local 38 of the same union at the Frankfort (Ky.) distillery of the George T. Stagg Co., which is owned by Schenley.

The Frankfort strike began last November 13. Employes of three of the New York distributors struck December 4, and employes at the three other distributing firms refused to handle Schenley products. The strike was halted December 12 by a temporary restraining order issued by a Federal district judge.

The NLRB ordered the union and its agents to "cease and desist from engaging in, or inducing the members of Local 1 to engage in, a strike or concerted refusal in the course of their employment to perform services for any employer, where an object thereof is to require any employer or other person to cease doing business with Schenley."

If necessary, the board's order can be enforced by contempt proceedings.

The NLRB refused to permit Schenley and Jardine to withdraw their charges after settlement of the labor disputes from which the case grew. The withdrawal requests were made after the NLRB trial examiner had issued his report finding the union guilty.

The local has an estimated membership of 3000.

Parole Board Acts to Rejail Capone Men

The Federal Parole Board yesterday acted to return to prison three additional former Capone gangsters whose paroles last year prompted an investigation by a House committee. Similar action had previously been taken against a fourth man.

Two of the men were arrested in Chicago and started on their way to the Atlanta, Ga., Federal Penitentiary. The Parole Board said a warrant had been issued for the arrest of another of the group in Los Angeles. All of the warrants charged violation of parole by "association with persons of bad reputation."

The actions disclosed that the paroles of last August involved five men rather than the four whose releases were investigated this spring by the House Executive Expenditures Subcommittee.

Bribe Knowledge Denied

Members of the subcommittee said they wanted to find out if any political friendships or money payments figured in the clemency. Members of the Parole Board and representatives of the Justice Department who were called to testify asserted they had no knowledge of any such factors in the cases.

The investigation involved the paroles of Charles (Cherry Nose) Gioe, Louis (Little New York) Campagna, Paul (The Waiter) Ricca, also known as Paul Delucia, and Philip D'Andrea.

Gioe and Campagna were the men picked up at Chicago today and started for Atlanta.

In response to an inquiry, the Parole Board at first said through the Justice Department information service that the warrant issued for service at Los Angeles was for D'Andrea. However, the department later corrected this to say it called for the arrest of John Roselli, who was paroled at the same time as the others last fall, but whose name did not figure in the congressional inquiry.

D'Andrea Reported Ill

Department officials said that D'Andrea, reported to be seriously ill at his home in Lincolnshire, Ill., had a record of good behavior and that no warrant had been issued against him in connection with his continued parole.

The group was convicted in New York several years ago of extorting more than one million dollars from the motion picture industry and given 10-year prison terms. They were paroled after serving about one third of their terms.

Ricca was picked up in Chicago on the "association" charge several weeks ago, but obtained release on $10,000 bond pending a hearing in Chicago Federal Court on September 20.

The Justice Department said the warrant sent to Los Angeles two days ago for the arrest of Roselli charged in addition to undesirable associations a failure to register as a convicted felon in Los Angeles and Palm Springs, Calif., as required by city ordinances in those places.

Status of Communist Meeting Causes Row

Whether an open or closed hearing should be held on charges Communist propaganda is contained in Montgomery County school textbooks was disputed yesterday.

Franklin T. Miles, Chevy Chase attorney who brought the charges, said yesterday he would refuse to attend the August 9 hearing if it is not open to the public.

The Miles charges are to be heard by a combined county and school board committee and members have indicated the session would be closed.

N. Y. Theaters Hot in Strike Of Engineers

New York, July 23 (AP).—Air-conditioning equipment of some New York movie theaters was shut down today by a strike of 200 operating engineers.

The temperature was 75 as the walkout began but the humidity was a dripping 87 per cent.

Many large Broadway houses were affected, including the Paramount, Loew's State, the Strand, Capitol and Criterion. However, the Radio City Music Hall remained cool; a union official said it had come to terms last night.

The striking engineers, members of the AFL International Union of Operating Engineers, seek a 25 per cent wage increase. They rejected a management offer of $7 a week boost in prolonged negotiations. The present scale is $70.15 for a 40-hour week.

Frank G. Daly, business manager of Local 30 of the union, said the strike was against the Skouras, Loew's and RKO circuits as well as several large independent theaters. The union said 130 theaters might be affected.

A Loew's spokesman said that blowers had been put in operation at his organization's large Broadway houses.

East Coast Shippers Grant Pay Increases

New York, July 23 (AP).—Bethlehem Steel Co. today reached a wage agreement with a CIO union representing 28,000 employes at its nine East Coast shipyards. The union would have been free to strike at midnight tonight if agreement had not been reached.

Neither the Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers nor the company would announce officially the terms of the settlement.

A source close to the conferees said the agreement included a 9-cent hourly wage boost, made up of a 7-cent increase to existing hourly rates plus another 2 cents for "vacation credit."

The company said average pay is now $1.65 per hour, but the union claims it is $1.50 an hour. The union had demanded a 13-cent increase.

Nation-Wide Smelter Strike Is Averted

Salt Lake City, July 23 (AP).—A Nation-wide strike by American Smelting & Refining Co. employes, set for midnight tonight, was cancelled today by union officials.

Al Skinner, regional director of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (CIO), announced that all major issues between the company and the union had been settled and the strike, set for 14 operations of the company in 10 States, called off.

The agreement provides a 12-cent hourly wage increase and other major benefits, the union announcement said. More than 8000 workers are affected.

Taft-Hartley Act Revision Move Starts

By The Associated Press

A fresh move developed in Congress yesterday to change the Taft-Hartley Act so union shop elections would be unnecessary.

Just the same, charges of bypassing the act's union shop requirements continued against John L. Lewis and the United Mine Workers. A National Labor Relations Board trial examiner, after two days of testimony, recessed his hearing until Monday.

Lewis may be called as a witness at that time to explain why he insisted on retaining the union shop provision in his new July 1 contract, even though it collided with the Taft-Hartley Act. Lewis has fought the act and refuses to sign the non-Communist affidavits which would make him eligible to ask for an NLRB election as laid out by the law.

Closed for 10 Days

Steel company "captive" mines were shut down for 10 days in a strike over the issue. Other operators agreed to Lewis' terms, but the steel companies complained to the NLRB. They asked for an injunction, but Justice T. Alan Goldsborough brought about an out-of-court settlement ending the strike without a court order.

The complaint, taken up by General Counsel Robert N. Denham, is being aired before Examiner William R. Ringer.

The congressional move to amend the act—and in effect make the charges against Lewis useless—came from one of the law's authors, Representative Hartley (R., N. J.).

Hartley said experience of the first 11 months under the act had proven the union shop elections to be costly and the results were nearly always overwhelmingly for the union.

Hartley also suggested that employers might be required also to submit affidaviats disavowing communism before they could use NLRB macinery.

At yesterday's hearing, Examiner Ringer permitted a written statement to be submitted by Joseph E. Moody, president of the Southern Coal Producers Association. Moody explained steps he took to try to persuade Lewis to make the union shop provision effective only after Lewis complied with the act. But the union gave 10 reasons why it would not sacrifice the union shop. The principal one was that it had worked too hard to get it to permit it to be knocked out of the contract now.

Welly K. Hopkins, attorney for the UMW, said he would decide over the weekend whether to ask Lewis and other top union officers to testify.

Most of yesterday's testimony was by Harry M. Moses, negotiator for the steel companies in dealing with Lewis. He explained the background of the dispute and the companies' refusal to violate the act.

Join Canada, Newfoundland Voters Decide

St. John's, Newfoundland, July 23 (AP).—Incomplete, but apparently conclusive, results showed today that Newfoundland has voted to join Canada.

With more than 142,000 of the 176,297 eligible votes counted from Thursday's referendum, the score stood:

For union with Canada, 72,756.
For self-government, 69,550.

The remaining returns were expected to come from prounion districts.

The Canadian government was expected to wait at least a week before commenting on the results.

Several months ago Canadian Prime Minister W. L. MacKenzie King said Canada was interested in Newfoundland joining the dominion only if the people of Newfoundland indicated beyond misunderstanding that was what they wanted.

The narrowness of the vote left the question open whether Newfoundland's 320,000 inhabitants had fulfilled that condition.

Dewey-Warren-Beall Club to Be Formed

Plans to organize a "Dewey-Warren-Beall Club" in Montgomery County for the November election were announced yesterday by the county Republican State Central Committee.

Representation from all county Republican clubs is being sought and campaign committees will be announced in the near future, according to A. R. Lofstrand, jr., head of the county's legislative delegation.

The Gallup Poll

People Believe Schools Better, But Score Lack of Discipline

By George Gallup

Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J., July 23.—Here in the United States 6 out of 10 people think Junior and Sis are getting a better schooling than their father and mother did. People in three British Commonwealth nations—England, Canada and Australia—have an even stronger feeling that education is better today than when they went to school.

But, in contrast to the optimism of English-speaking peoples, the citizens of the Scandinavian countries, and Holland, Italy, and France, are more inclined to be pessimistic about the progress made by their educational systems. This is particularly true of France, where half the population thinks the quality of education has declined since they were students.

The survey was conducted simultaneously in the 11 nations, all using this question:

Do you think children today are being educated better or worse than you were?

	Better	Worse	Same	No Opinion
Canada	74%	12%	10%	4%
Australia	78	9	9	4
Britain	64	19	11	6
U. S. A.	59	26	10	5
Finland	54	21	17	8
Norway	44	30	16	10
Sweden	26	37	29	8
Denmark	21	45	21	13
Italy	20	40	23	17
France	12	50	27	11
Holland	10	46	27	17

In each nation the most universal complaint about present-day education is the lack of discipline. This criticism covers many parental dissatisfactions, such as "too much freedom," "should be taught better manners," "receive no training in assuming responsibility" and "character traits are neglected."

Educators here and abroad probably would argue that many of these complaints should be aimed at the home as well as at the school, that parents have just as big a job to do in child training as teachers. Many of the people surveyed likewise put the major blame for poor discipline on the fathers and mothers themselves.

Comments about the lack of discipline training ran high in all countries, higher than any specific criticism of the subjects taught, although this point also was raised by many people. Americans, when asked to name their main criticism of education today, follow the pattern noticeable in all the countries. In order of frequency mention these are the complaints they registered:

1. Lack of discipline, lack of fundamental character training.
2. Criticism of subjects taught and their presentation.
3. Criticism of parents for lack of interest and control.
4. Too many extracurricular activities.
5. Schools inadequate and overcrowded, old textbooks, etc.
6. Criticism of teachers, qualifications, shortages, competency, etc.
7. Teachers underpaid.

It is interesting to note that no large differences were found in the United States in the views of voters who had a higher formal education and of those whose education stopped at grammar or high school.

U. S. Air Force Recalls Col. Balchen to Duty

Oslo, Norway, July 23 (U.P.).—Col. Bernt Balchen, famed Arctic flyer, has been recalled to duty with the U. S. Air Force at an undisclosed base, Norwegian Airlines announced.

Balchen, a former pilot for Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, and an American citizen, had been working here since the war as managing director of Norwegian Airlines.

Denies Wartime Rate Conspiracy

William T. Faricy, president of the Association of American Railroads, yesterday assailed as "wholly false" testimony before a House committee that the railroads organized a committee during the war for the purpose of holding up rates charged the Government.

In a letter to Representative Bender (R., Ohio), Faricy also defended railroad men who went into military service during the war and later returned to their railroad posts.

Bender is chairman of an Expenditures Subcommittee which conducted an investigation of alleged multi-million-dollar overcharges by the railroads on Government business.

The testimony to which Faricy took exception was given July 7 and 8 by James E. Kilday, transportation chief in tthe Justice Department's antitrust division, and by Thomas F. Proctor and Frank I. Barton, Postoffice Department officials.

Faricy said the committee actually was created at the request of Joseph B. Eastman, director of the Offic eof Defense Transportation, and approved by the Department of Justice.

The railroads' spokesman also said it is "untrue' that the Government agencies were compelled to handle rate matters with the committee and could not deal directly with the railroads.

First American Jets to fly the Atlantic—
U. S. Air Force
Lockheed F-80's!

The United States Air Force and Lockheed have collaborated in the establishment of an impressive list of world's records.

Now, another record is added to the roster.

The USAF, flying Lockheed F-80 Shooting Stars, has just completed the first jet crossing of the Atlantic in American history.

These Lockheed F-80 planes, powered by the Allison "400" engine, are standard equipment for the United States Air Force.

Lockheed Aircraft Corporation congratulates the Air Force on this historic achievement, and is proud to have had a part in making it possible.

Tigers' 7-Run Spree Ends Nat Streak

This Morning

—With Shirley Povich

IT'S FASHIONABLE NOW to pick the Boston Red Sox to win the American League pennant and Stout Steve O'Neil, manager of the Detroit Tigers, is in vogue with the times. "How you gonna beat 'em?" queries Mr. O'Neil, who reads the papers faithfully and has noted the nine-game winning streak of the Boston club.

POVICH

"They've just started to move," says Stout Stephen, "and all they have to beat are a couple of clubs that are falling apart, and the Athletics. The Red Sox could be on top before the week is out and they may never be caught."

Did he mean the Indians and Yankees were falling apart? "No, not quite that, but something like it," said O'Neil. "I mean Lou Boudreau and Bucky Harris are having a tough time holding 'em together, like jockeys on tired horses that are trying to outlast a solid horse full of run. The Red Sox are full of run now, and they've been winning without Ted Williams."

Then he liked the Red Sox? "Sure, I have to like them. They're like the old Yankees, with all that power down the line. They're the only club in the league that can win with bad pitching, and they're an under-rated ball club."

UNDER-RATED? "SURE, THEY ARE. People forget about the Red Sox. They've got more good ball players than any club in the league. They have a polished player in every position except first base and young Goodman is doing all right there. Fellows like Doerr and Stephens and Pesky don't make many mistakes, and neither does Dom DiMaggio or Spence or Tebbetts.

"Those mistakes beat you. I mean the little things, like the game we lost recently because my first baseman was playing close to the bag to hold a pitcher on with two out, when he should have been playing deep. A manager can't watch everything. The Red Sox are the only club in the league that don't give ball games away. The rest of us, and that goes for the Yankees and Indians, beat ourselves too many times."

O'Neil doesn't even rate the Yankees as a power club. "With DiMaggio hurting, they're not pinning your ears back at all. There are too many easy outs on the Yankees nowadays. The worst thing that has happened to the Yankees is Joe Page's slump. Their pitching isn't much better than Boston's and with Page ineffective this year, it may be worse. DiMaggio can't take that kind of a club to the pennant."

THE INDIANS COULD STILL win it, if Feller came around and started pitching the kind of ball he used to, but O'Neil isn't sure that will happen. "The best evidence that Feller doesn't have it this season is what those hitters are doing to him. I don't care whether a pitcher's name is Feller or Johnson or Grove, if he isn't putting that good stuff on the ball the hitters will find it out quickly."

The only club with good pitching among the first four is the Athletics, O'Neil says, but he repeats that Boston's power will tip the scales. "Cleveland has good relief pitchers but any time you have to use relief pitchers you're in trouble and that happens to the Indians too often. It's the same with my club—not much pitching, but I do think our man Trucks is throwing the fastest pitch the league.

O'Neil doesn't see any reason why the A's couldn't beat out the Yankees and Indians for second place and give the Red Sox the hardest time of it. "There's no substitute for good pitching unless it's the kind of hitting Joe McCarthy has at Boston, but there are things about the A's that make you like them aside from Connie Mack."

STOUT STEVE'S particular favorite with the Athletics is their shortstop, Eddie Joost. "He's a wonder, and the making of the whole infield. Boudreau is the only man who does a better job than Joost defensively and there are days when Joost is the better man. Bad hops don't make any difference to Joost it seems. He's one of the reasons for that good Philadelphia pitching. It ought to be a pleasure to pitch in front of him."

With Williams back in the Boston lineup, O'Neill expects the Red Sox to go winging out front. "He's not an inspirational player like DiMaggio, and the Red Sox don't need him like the Yanks need DiMaggio. You can see they've been winning without him for two weeks. But what a help a fellow like Williams can be to a club nevertheless. Instead of winning those games 7 to 5, they'll win 'em 11 to 5."

As for his own, fifth-place Tigers, O'Neill doesn't quite rate them a pennant threat. "Take the best points of the Red Sox and A's—Boston's hitting and the A's pitching—and you might say they don't apply to our Detroit team. We'd be a threat if we had hitting, if we had pitching and didn't make so many mistakes."

Bosox Rout Chisox, 13-1; 9th in Row

Boston, July 23 (AP).—With Slugger Ted Williams back in the lineup after missing 15 games, the Boston Red Sox won their ninth straight start with a 13-1 decision over the Chicago White Sox today to pull within a game and half of the top-place Cleveland Indians.

Those American League leaders come here tomorrow for a three-games series.

Lefty Mickey Harris pitched a five-hitter as the Red Sox made a five-game sweep. The lowly Chisox escaped a shutout in the fourth inning when Luke Appling walked and Pat Seerey and Mike Tresh singled.

Williams, showing but little sign of the torn rib cartilage that sidelined him, got two hits out of four tries, including a seventh-inning two-bagger with the bases loaded.

Bobby Doerr, however, won the individual batting honors by banging out his eighteenth homer of the season, against Ike Pearson in the eighth, as well as a double and a single.

The Red Sox pounded three Chicago pitchers for 13 hits that totaled 19 bases.

Wight, however, really met his doom in the second inning, when the Bosox salted away the game by scoring thrice on Doerr's double, a passed ball, an infield out, a single by Birdie Tebbetts, a walk to Harris and Dom DiMaggio's two-bagger.

A's, Browns Halted; Yanks Rained Out

Rain halted the St. Louis-Philadelphia game last night after 2½ innings and the A's weren't a bit sorry. The Browns pounced on Dick Fowler for six runs in the first inning and led the second-place Mackmen, 6-0, when the game was washed off the books with Eddie Joost on first and none out in the last half of the third.

The Cleveland-New York day game also was postponed because of rain.

Rivals Watch . . .

U. S. Olympic Stars Bring Down House

London, July 23 (U.P.).—Rival competitors from a dozen nations burst into thunderous applause today after watching the American swimming and diving teams turn in a brilliant exhibition during practice for the Olympics.

Even workmen completing preparations at Wembley Stadium stretched out their lunch hour to watch the Yanks in action.

The divers drew special attention. Miller Anderson of Ohio State, wearing a nose plug, practiced his back somersault at length because he felt he was hitting the water with too much impact. He drew many a hand from the onlookers. Sam Lee got off five perfect full twisters.

Most of the men swimmers stressed form rather than speed as they loafed through their distances.

Chlorine Eyes

The women swimmers, including the Univeristy of California's celebrated Ann Curtis, complained that there was too much chlorine in the water. It reddened their eyes. They planned to ask British officials to lower the chlorine content.

The women divers, wearing sleek nylon suits of a type not yet seen in rationed Britain, were the hit of the show today. Victoria Draves of Los Angeles, Zoe Ann Olsen of Oakland, Calif., and Patricia Elsener of San Francisco all drew loud applause from the workmen in the stands.

Over on Uxbridge's cinders, the Yank track and field team was hard at work once again—with some top-notch performances for the effort.

Mal Whitfield of Ohio State ran a 440-yard trial, opening up late to finish well under 50 seconds. Bob Chambers of Southern California stepped off an 800-meter test against the watch.

Boosts Brazilians

Bill Albens of Elizabeth, N. J., who is entered in the hop, step and jump, turned in some excellent practice leaps. But later he revealed that the Brazilians with whom he jumped today were the best he'd ever seen in the event.

The weight men were hard at it, except for Fortune Gordien, Minnesota University discus star.

Gordien made his first workout mild today with the comment, "It's just another track meet. Either you're on or you're off."

Americans weren't the only ones on the track today. Jamaica's Herb McKenley, a University of Illinois lad, stepped up his training and Souther Africa's veteran Dennis Shore did some practice starts in the sprints along with Mel Patton and Barney Ewell of the United State.

Austin Clapp of Los Angeles, coach of the United States water polo team, put his crew through a skull practice, rehashing last night's 8 to 5 defeat by the British Plaistow Club in a practice game.

Camera Trouble

The Yank wrestlers have a pre-Olympic dual meet scheduled with Great Britain, and Coach Art Griffith of Oklahoma A. and M. gave the boys a few final hints tonight.

The big trouble with the women's gymnastic team was the photographers. "Can't keep 'em away," moaned Coach Joe Salzman of Elizabeth, N. J., as a dozen cameras clicked while pretty Mrs. Laddie Bakanic of New York City worked out. She wore a skin-tight costume with a gold turban.

Complaints about the food served the Yanks dropped off to nothing today after Charles Ornstein of New York's Hotel Paramount, who has charge of the cuisine, indoctrinated the British cooking staff on American methods of preparation.

Second helpings were approved for the heavier men.

Washington won the first game, 12-2, at Ebbets Field in Brooklyn in the home-and-home series

Cards Blast 15 Hits, Whip Braves, 7 to 5

St. Louis, July 23 (AP).—The St. Louis Cardinals bombarded Johnny Sain and Nels Potter for 15 base blows tonight as they downed the league-leading Boston Braves, 7 to 5, before 20,000 fans.

Although hit freely, Al Brazle went the route to post his seventh victory.

Dodds Busy on Vacation

Little Falls, Minn., July 23 (AP).—Gil Dodds, the flying parson who is vacationing here with his family, has had very little time for vacationing thus far.

He has averaged about four public appearances a day. Last night he spoke before about 500 persons at the Little Falls High School. He said he is turning over money raised to send him and Mrs. Dodds to the Olympic games in England to the Boston cancer fund.

Brooklyn vs. Washington

George Sisler Will Be Here For All-Star Game Tuesday

George Sisler, one of baseball's greatest first basemen, will be on hand for the Washington-Brooklyn junior All-Star game at Griffith Stadium Tuesday night, 8:30 o'clock.

Sisler managed the "Brooklyn Against the World" team in a game at Ebbets Field recently when the Washington youngsters handed the junior Dodgers a 12-2 pasting.

Catcher Sal DeGiorgi, whose exploits in Brooklyn didn't go unnoticed by Dodger scouts, will sharpen his batting eye with the 14 other members of the Washington All-Stars at 11 a. m. today on the West Ellipse.

Brooklyn's ivory hunters have been after DiGiorgi since he bounced a 343-foot double off the left field wall at Ebbets Field that just missed being a homer.

DeGiorgi, Pitcher Eddie Kline and First Baseman Dave Zatz led the 15-hit attack that gave Washington its one-sided triumph. In addition to pitching six-hit ball, Kline drove across three runs. After fanning the first time up, Zatz cracked out four successive singles.

The Brooklyn All-Star aggregation hasn't taken its defeat lightly.

Representing the cream of the Brooklyn and Long Island scholastic crop, the metropolitan team thought Washington was going to be a pushover. Now that they've had a rude awakening, the Brooklynites will be that much harder to beat.

Proceeds from Tuesday night's game will go to boys and girls activities in the District. The game is sponsored by The Washington Post in conjunction with the Brooklyn Eagle and the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Tickets on Sale

Coan Homer Is Wasted in 11-5 Defeat

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

Hold that Tiger was the Nats' mission yesterday, but they failed to accomplish it and dropped the series finale to Detroit, 11-5.

For the exclusive gathering of 2217 fans, the high spot of the afternoon came in the third inning when Gil Coan lofted his fifth home run of the season over the right-field fence.

For the Tigers, however, the big moment was the fourth inning when they batted over seven runs, enough to insure them a victory which snapped a Nat winning streak of three games.

Handed a 4-1 lead when the Nats pounded starter Stubby Overmire, Mickey Haefner couldn't stand prosperity and was belted out in the Tigers' fourth-inning rampage, yielding seven of the 12 hits the Bengals collected.

Swinging from their heels and knocking Haefner and Milo Candini back on theirs, the Tigers smashed out three doubles and three triples in their assorted offense.

Trucks Stops 'Em

Against four Detroit pitchers, the Nats managed seven hits, none against Virgil Trucks in the last three and two thirds innings. For his stout performance in which he set down in order the 11 Nats who faced him. Trucks was awarded the decision, his ninth and fifth straight.

Pat Mullin started and ended the Detroit landslide, clubbing a Haefner pitch into center for a triple. Two walks and five base hits later, including two doubles, Mullin grounded out to end the inning, but not before seven Tigers had paraded across home plate and Haefner had strolled to a shower.

Catcher Bobby Swift singled in one run, Jimmy Outlaw batting for Overmire, doubled in another; Johnny Lipon's single produced the third; George Kell's double accounted for two more and Vic Wertz's single fetched the sixth and seventh.

One Hit, Two Runs

The Nats rubbed out a one-run Detroit lead with two in the second. Earl Wooten's single and Wertz's error were responsible for the first run. Haefner's infield out enabled the second to scoot over.

Al Kozar and Coan fired two shots in the third off Overmire and the Washington advantage quickly rose to 4-1. Kozar rammed a king-sized triple into right-center and Coan followed with his home run.

Washington's retaliation against the Tigers for that seven-run round was a meek one-run splurge, fashioned on two walks, a wild pitch and Yost's fly.

After that, the Nats were stilled, getting only one more hit, that a double by Candini against Al Benton. When Benton threatened to walk away the Tiger lead in the sixth, he was excused in favor of Trucks, who was the stopper the Bengals needed.

To put their triumph into the deep freeze, the Tigers pounced on Candini for single tallies in the sixth, seventh and eighth.

IN SHORT—Detroit's unwillingness to play at night cost the Nats (and the Tigers, too) an estimated 25,000 customers. The daylight series drew only 8394 in three days . . . Catcher Al Evans will be out for about 10 days. He lost two fingernails from a foul tip off Wertz's bat Thursday . . . Bobo Newsom was a press box and radio booth visitor yesterday.

Bums Outlast Pirates, 4-3, For 8th in 10 Under Shotton

Pittsburgh, July 23 (AP).—The fast-stepping Brooklyn Dodgers maintained their second-place position in the National League tonight by defeating the Pittsburgh Pirates 4-3 before a crowd of 33,702.

Pee-Wee Reese and Tommy Brown homered for the Dodgers, both circuit blows coming with the bases empty.

It was the eighth win out of 10 starts for the Dodgers since Burt Shotten replaced Leo Durocher as manager.

Erv Palica, relieved by Hank Behrman in the eighth, was credited with the win. Mel Queen, who gave up all four runs, was charged with the defeat.

In the bottom half of the ninth, the Dodger infield made two errors on one play but Behrman pitched his way out of trouble with only one run scoring. With Danny Murtaugh on first by virtue of a single and with one out, Brown threw high to second on a bounder by Frank Gustine. Jackie Robinson then threw high over first and Gustine went to second and Murtaugh to third. The latter scored on an infield out and Behrman got Johnny Hopp on an outfield fly for the final out.

Reese's homer came in the third and in the fifth the Dodgers counted twice on a walk, Marv Rackley's triple and an infield tap which Robinson beat out for a single. Their fourth run came on Brown's homer in the eighth.

Olympic Flaf Missing

Richmond Park, England, July 23 (U.P.).—The official Olympic flag was reported missing from this training camp today.

It was there at sundown last night. It was gone at dawn this morning.

Gil Bogley, Johnsen Win

Gil Bogley, Landon schoolboy playing in his first men's tournament, and veteran Dr. Dave Johnsen upset Don Leavens and Jim Thackara, 6—4, 6—3, yesterday in the semifinals of the District of Columbia doubles tennis tourney at Kenwood Country Club.

Thackara and Leavens, rated second and fourth among District singles players, bowed before the fancy footwork and power of the rookie-veteran pair. The winners will meet Barney Walsh and Hugh Lynch in the finals today at 2 p. m.

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS

Notes in Whisky Bottle May Have Been From Snider

Miami, Fla., July 23 (AP).—A barnacle-encrusted whisky bottle containing five notes signed "Al S" found on the beach near Hallandale today will be checked by the Coast Guard on the off chance they might be a clew to the fate of Jockey Al Snider, lost at sea with two fishing companions last March.

Found by James R. Payne of Hallandale as he was strolling along the beach, the notes were written partly in charcoal and scratched with a sharp instrument.

"Help. One dead. Low water. No joke. 71 West Pine Key," one of the notes read.

Coast Guard officials said the "71 West Pine Key" apparently meant 71 miles west of Pine Key, focal point of one of the biggest air-sea searches in south Florida history after the trio disappeared.

The Coast Guard said it is doubtful that the search will be resumed on the strength of the notes.

Fonder Scores Grand Slam

Fonder won the 25-lap feature race in 5:54.95 minutes and also won one 12-lap and one 15-lap qualifying trial.

Lloyd Christopher of Miami, Fla., finished second in the feature race in front of Len Duncan of Stamford, Conn. Charley Miller and Shorty McAndrews were in a dead heat for fourth place, an uncommon event in midget auto racing.

Anything Can Happen

2 Men On When Lights Go Out But Bases Loaded When They Come On in Sooner Loop

Oklahoma City, July 23 (AP).—It isn't always baseball, but Sooner State League fans have fun.

For instance:

During a contest between Seminole and Ardmore in the class D loop, the lights went out with Seminole runners on third and second.

When the lights came on, the bases were loaded!

Only after protests from Ardmore fans did the arbiters awaken. Manager Hugh Willingham galloped off first to the dugout ahead of the mob.

The eight-team loop is feeling its way through its second season and anything can happen from a fan being made manager for a night to a wedding at home plate.

There's a little baseball now and then, but the crop of youngsters making up the loop sometimes get overzealous.

There was the case of John Rapacz, the University of Oklahoma's Big Seven football center who caught for Lawton part of this year.

The quick-tempered Rapacz had been having trouble with the arbiters from the first. Finally he was given a fine.

Rapacz protested: "I put one hand gently on an umpire and they sock me $50. The other day a guy knocked down an umpire and it cost him only $10."

In the opening game of the season, Duncan Owner-Manager Otto Utt ran out to third base protesting a decision.

Umpire Bob Price didn't like the interference and ordered Utt out of the park.

"You can't do that to me," Utt screamed, "I own the park."

He and his team both lost.

At Pauls Valley, Manager Dutch Prather had always wanted to take over the public address system. With the club in last place, fans wanted to take over the team.

So a swap was arranged. Prather took to the mike for one night and fans selected Scott Worley, a Pauls Valley businessman, to pilot the club. Pauls Valley still lost.

A condemned man was given 30 minutes more of life because of the loop. Hugh T. German, sports editor of the McAlester News-Capital, was assigned to cover an execution at the penitentiary.

The game was set for 8:15 p. m., the electrocution for 10 p. m. German couldn't get the game started early, so he phoned the warden, asking for a half-hour postponement.

Warden Clarence Buford consented. German witnessed both.

Kay, Barnes Golf Victims

Atlanta, July 23 (AP).—Ben Hughes of Portland, Oreg., defeated Oliver Kay of Toledo, Ohio, 4 and 3, and Moke Ferentz of Long Beach, Calif., defeated Charley Barnes of Atlanta, 2 and 1, today in the semifinals of the National Public Links golf tournament.

The Hughes-Kay match was a contrast between the veteran Hughes, an accountant in private life, and newcomer Kay, a member of the University of Miami Florida golf team.

After completing this morning's 18 holes with a 4-up lead over Kay, Hughes' victory was never in doubt.

However, the Ferentz-Barnes match was close, the lead seesawing nearly the entire distance. The advantage never went over two holes for either golfer.

Wheelchair Nimrod Wins Shodt Event

Munday, Haas Lead With 132s

Reading, Pa., July 23 (AP).—Rod Munday, making a bid to keep the $15,000 Reading Open title at the York Country Club and handsome young Teddy Haas, jr., were all even at 132 after the second round today.

The 36-year-old Munday, playing in his second big tournament this year, played perfect golf through the first 36 holes of the 72-hole grind. His two-day card showed an eagle, 10 birds and 25 par holes, tough golf to beat.

Munday might have been sitting on top of the heap tonight if it weren't for a heart-breaking eighteenth hole, where he drove into the rough and approached into a trap.

Haas, runner-up in the $10,000 New Orleans Open and winner of the recent Peoria (Ill.) Open, bogeyed the fifteenth and duplicated this disastrous effort on the sixteenth. Still he also came home with the 5-under-par 67.

Like Munday, the New Orleans, La., golfer had tied the Berkshire Country Club course mark of 65 in the first round.

Defending Champion E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, Little Rock, Ark., and Johnny Palmer, Badin, N. C., who were tied for the lead with Munday and Haas after the first 18 holes, both slipped slightly, but still were in position to have plenty to say about the $2500 first prize.

Less Admiration

Miller Tells Hursey How To Ring Bell

Boxing Commission Chairman Heinie Miller yesterday gave Smuggy Hursey, who fights Tommy Bell here Monday, this advice:

"Stop admiring Bell and you have a good chance of whipping him."

Miller watched Hursey workout at the Liberty A. C. gym yesterday and came away impressed with the "new" Hursey. Miller also saw Bell box three rounds. He had this to say about the one-time top notcher:

"A good fighter and in great shape. He's one of the cleverest boxers in the business today and he can hit hard with either hand."

Recalling the Bell-Hursey fight here last September which Bell won, Miller said:

"Bell did things in that bout that I haven't seen a fighter do since Joe Gans. He was superb that evening. I do believe, however, that if Hursey (Washington middleweight) will quit admiring the fellow and go in there and drive for all he's worth I concede him a good chance of winning."

Both Bell and Hursey are to conclude training with public workouts at the Liberty Club today, Bell at 1:30 and Hursey at 3 o'clock.

The preliminary card for the Griffith Stadium event was completed yesterday, Promoter Goldie Ahearn announced. In a special six, Bantamweight Johnny Arduini of Washington meets Lew Yonkers, Roanoke, Va., in a return go. Each won a decision previously.

Tommy Bennett and Bob McQuillar face in another six. Fourrounders bring together: Billy Gray vs. Red Gaddis, featherweights, and Puggy Lyons vs. Jimmy Hawkins, welterweights.

Mrs. Werber Wins Trophy

Mrs. William M. Werber of Columbia Country Club yesterday won the Times-Herald Cup in the Women's District Golf Association's Class B tournament at Congressional Country Club.

Mrs. Weber was declared the winner after Mrs. G. R. Levy of Prince Georges Country Club, whose 74 tied Mrs. Werber for low net honors, declined a play-off, announcing that she planned to move into Class A competition.

Mrs. Levy's card of 91—17—74 was then declared the low gross winner. Mrs. Weber posted twin 48's on the par 39—37—76 course while Mrs. Levy toured in 48—43—91.

Mrs. William Welch of Manor was placed second in the low net competition after her 92—17—75 was declared winner over the 94—19—75 scored by Mrs. Kay Dyer of Prince Georges.

Mrs. R. H. Rife of Washington received fourth place with a 103—26—77 in front of Mrs. Dwight Avis of the host club, 104—27—77.

Other finishers in the order named were Mrs. R. D. Young of Washington, 97—19—78; Mrs. Estelle Smith of Prince Georges, 100—22—78; Mrs. Joseph Kerr of Kenwood, 98—19—79; and Mrs. Virgil Myers of Manor, 104—25—79.

Bull Lea Colt Pays $9.40; Roberts Up

Monmouth Park, N. J., July 23. Baylor O. Hickman's Valhalla, reveling in the sloppy going, scored a front-running and easy victory in the 6-furlong Hirth Purse, today's fifth race here.

With Porter Roberts up, Valhalla crossed the winning line three lengths ahead of Oriole, which closed with a rush through the stretch to beat Mityme a neck for second.

Mityme had forced the winner's pace and hung soon after passing the sixteenth pole. Pennant Day closed some ground to be fourth in the field of seven.

It was a damp afternoon for the estimated crowd of 12,500. There were almost continuous downpours, accompanied by thunder and lightning, from just before the first race until the fifth event was run.

Valhalla ran 6 furlongs through the slop in the good time of 1:12 1-5. While he did not close the favorite, the son of Bull Lea had a good following and paid $9.40.

Stymie at Monmouth Tops Big Turf Day

From coast to coast top-flight thoroughbreds will shoot for generous purse money today.

Despite being only a $25,000 added affair, the Monmouth Handicap will hold the spotlight because of the scheduled appearance of Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' famed Stymie.

Mr. Money Bags, with career earnings of $909,835, aims to move closer to the million-dollar mark. Carrying top weight of 129 pounds, he faces 11 rivals, including W. L. Brann's Gallorette, the leading money winner among all-time mares.

At Chicago, Fervent will carry the colors of Calumet Farm in the $56,700 Arlington Handicap. In California, Hollywood Park will offer the $50,000 Sunset Handicap with Shannon II and On Trust due to renew their feud in a field of 10.

Bob Morris' 66 Sets Record at Fairfax

Bob Morris shot a five-under par 66 to set a course record yesterday at the Fairfax Country Club as Morris' Naval Gun Factory team tied Agriculture, 3-3, in a Federal Golf Association match.

Morris' mark supplants the 69 record held by Stanley Collins. Playing with Morris were teammate Jerry Hart and Dennis Hevner and Hickman Green of Agriculture.

Mrs. Goetz, Mooney Tie for Low Net

Mrs. Edward Goetz scored a 46—16—30 to tie Mrs. C. M. Mooney for low net honors yesterday in the Friday tournament at the Washington Golf and Country Club. Mrs. Mooney's score was 48—18—30. Runnerup was Mrs. Gordon Simmonds with a 40—8—32.

Less Admiration

Miller Tells Hursey How To Ring Bell

Boxing Commission Chairman Heinie Miller yesterday gave Smuggy Hursey, who fights Tommy Bell here Monday, this advice:

"Stop admiring Bell and you have a good chance of whipping him."

Miller watched Hursey workout at the Liberty A. C. gym yesterday and came away impressed with the "new" Hursey. Miller also saw Bell box three rounds. He had this to say about the one-time top notcher:

"A good fighter and in great shape. He's one of the cleverest boxers in the business today and he can hit hard with either hand."

Recalling the Bell-Hursey fight here last September which Bell won, Miller said:

"Bell did things in that bout that I haven't seen a fighter do since Joe Gans. He was superb that evening. I do believe, however, that if Hursey (Washington middleweight) will quit admiring the fellow and go in there and drive for all he's worth I concede him a good chance of winning."

Both Bell and Hursey are to conclude training with public workouts at the Liberty Club today, Bell at 1:30 and Hursey at 3 o'clock.

The preliminary card for the Griffith Stadium event was completed yesterday, Promoter Goldie Ahearn announced. In a special six, Bantamweight Johnny Arduini of Washington meets Lew Yonkers, Roanoke, Va., in a return go. Each won a decision previously.

Tommy Bennett and Bob McQuillar face in another six. Fourrounders bring together: Billy Gray vs. Red Gaddis, featherweights, and Puggy Lyons vs. Jimmy Hawkins, welterweights.

Mrs. Werber Wins Trophy

Mrs. William M. Werber of Columbia Country Club yesterday won the Times-Herald Cup in the Women's District Golf Association's Class B tournament at Congressional Country Club.

Mrs. Weber was declared the winner after Mrs. G. R. Levy of Prince Georges Country Club, whose 74 tied Mrs. Werber for low net honors, declined a play-off, announcing that she planned to move into Class A competition.

Mrs. Levy's card of 91—17—74 was then declared the low gross winner. Mrs. Weber posted twin 48's on the par 39—37—76 course while Mrs. Levy toured in 48—43—91.

Mrs. William Welch of Manor was placed second in the low net competition after her 92—17—75 was declared winner over the 94—19—75 scored by Mrs. Kay Dyer of Prince Georges.

Mrs. R. H. Rife of Washington received fourth place with a 103—26—77 in front of Mrs. Dwight Avis of the host club, 104—27—77.

Other finishers in the order named were Mrs. R. D. Young of Washington, 97—19—78; Mrs. Estelle Smith of Prince Georges, 100—22—78; Mrs. Joseph Kerr of Kenwood, 98—19—79; and Mrs. Virgil Myers of Manor, 104—25—79.

It's the Pasture For Armed, Maybe For Rest of Life

Chicago, July 23 (AP).—Armed, famed golden gelding of racing, is on his way back to the green pastures of his Kentucky birthplace to rest, probably until the end of his life.

At the age of 7 his brilliant turf career appears to be ended.

Armed, proclaimed the "horse of the year" after his outstanding 1947 campaign, today was shipped from Arlington Park to Warren Wright's farm at Lexington, Ky., to rest for the balance of the season. Ben A. Jones, manager of the Calumet Farms' racing interests, decided to retire Armed rather than to risk injury by racing him.

Armed became the world's leading money winning gelding by earning $773,750 in six years of racing. His most impressive season was last year. He won $376,325, principally in defeating Assault in the mile and a quarter special match race at New York's Belmont Park and winning the Arlington Handicap, Whirlaway and Stars and Stripes Stakes and Washington Park Handicap in Chicago.

Armed started six times this season and failed five times. His only victory was in a 6-furlong sprint at Gulfstream Park last January.

Kurland's Team Wins

Perth, Scotland, July 23 (AP).—A team led by big Bob Kurland of the Bartlesville (Okla.) Oilers defeated Cliff Barker's Blues, 57 to 42, in an American basketball exhibition here tonight.

One on the Aisle—

Tchaikovsky's Surely Spinning

By Richard L. Coe

"SONG OF MY HEART," at the Little, is even more nauseating than I feared it would be, one more pass at a fast buck via Tchaikovsky's music.

The music, which is the least one expects of even a Hollywood portrait of a great composer, you get in chopped-up bits and pieces and the story is a mess of cliches and bold inaccuracies.

Not that a perfectly screenworthy story could not have been worked out of the numberless fascinating incidents of the composer's life. Of none of the great composers is so much known, through his own letters and diaries, as about Tchaikovsky. Many incidents of his life would have made dramatic screen material without touching on any of the psychological troubles which would prove unacceptable to the screen.

As it is, one finds the gooey sticky yuckum about genius and love, love at the mawkish Hollywood level. Tchaikovsky's marriage, which lasted a few days to a nymphomaniac named Antonina Ivanovna Milyukoff, and against which his brother, Modeste, warned him, becomes a foolish little idyll to a gal named Sophia, whom Gale Sherwood portrays as a simpering coed of Hollywood High. The fabulous correspondence between the composer and the widow von Meck, who was nine years older and never met him, is replaced by a teary alliance with an imperial princess who drops in at his deathbed with the cheerful news that the Czarina may yet okay their liaison. Though he died at 53, two years after his historic concert at the opening of Carnegie Hall, which an economical production simply alludes to, you are given to understand he brooded over his lost love in years of trouping around the Continent.

That all these blatant falsehoods about a man's life are known to be exactly that by its writer-director, Benjamin Glazer, is explained in a sagey introduction. This comes from a Russian officer in the Persian Gulf Command of the recent war, who tells his American equals that a lot of what they have heard about Tchaikovsky is all bosh; that in his trunk he has all of Tchaikovsky's letters and diaries and that furthermore his father was the composer's valet. (As it happens, two brothers served the composer in that capacity and in his diaries Tchaikovsky often refers to them.) Palming off these bold fictions on a Russian officer is the lowest form of circumventing criticism.

Had all this, even, turned out to be fairly interesting, there might be some slight excuse for it. But it's dull and boring, to boot. The humor is deadly (valet taking snuff), and someone's had the inane idea of having the upper crust speak unblemished English (Cedric Hardwicke, who should be ashamed of himself, being party to this thing) and the servants struggle along with thick accents which, presumably, pass for Russian.

Better at the Watergate

The music includes snatches from the more familiar works, but only the more sure-fire sections. (You get the first movement and the final few pages of the No. 1 concerto.) And though the Swan Lake is being danced on the stage, the camera position makes you feel that you've got one of the last standing-room tickets at the Met.

The picture was made by a Hollywood company which patronizingly calls itself "Symphony Films," and unless someone finds a way of stopping them they'll probably tackle more composers with their puerile, presumptive imaginations. This is just the sort of phony biography that gives Hollywood its bad name and makes anyone with the slightest knowledge of the barest facts hope that none of your dimes and nickels will encourage such nonsense.

So if you're Tchaikovsky-minded this weekend, you'll do far better to hear his music as he wrote it at the National Symphony's Watergate concert Sunday night.

"SONG OF MY HEART." Symphony Films production, produced by Nathaniel Finston and J. Theodore Reed. Written and directed by Benjamin Glazer. Musical adviser, Modest Altschuler; Photography director, Roland Totheroh. At the Little.

MUSIC CRITIC PAUL HUME, who has seen "Song of My Heart," has read and "heartily approves" the above . . . What's more, he adds, such a picture does music more harm than good, gives people completely false ideas of both the composers' works and their lives . . . As you know, Mr. Hume knows his subject backwards, a writer, teacher and singer who commands remarkable respect . . . Here we're giving you two reviews for the price of one; two, count them, two.

COUNTRY NOTES: John Wright is one of Olney's ushers and this week his parents are more interested than usual in the theater's play. . . . For Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Wright of Norbeck knew Rosemary Taylor back in Tucson, the setting for her semibiographical story, "Chicken Every Sunday." . . . Star Sidney Blackmer has to be on his toes these nights. . . . Last week, elsewhere, he played "Years Ago," and next week, also elsewhere, he's to do "All My Sons." . . . And in all three plays he has similar cues. . . . Like "Where's suchnsuch?" or "How do I get there?" . . . The other night he told one of his "Chicken" fellows how to get to a spot in "Years Ago." . . . Olney's downtown ticket agency still is at Ballard's, 1300 G st., despite changes in the store management.

TODAY: John Mills arrives at the Hippodrome in an Eric Ambler suspense tale, "The October Man." . . . Tonight's 'Gay Time" at Constitution Hall," is headlined by Grandpa Jones; seats at Ballard's. . . . Last performance tonight for the W. S. Gilbert-non-Sullivan comedy, "Engaged," at Catholic Univeristy. . . . Freddie Slack and his orchestra, a favorite since its recording of "Cow Cow Boogie," inaugurating a Saturday night cruise series on the SS Potomac. . . . Sailings at 9:45 p. m. and 12:30 a. m. from Seventh st. and Maine ave. sw. . . . And don't forget, there's a Sunday night performance of "Oklahoma!" at the National.

WEEKEND INSPIRATION—Virginia Mayo, the Goldwyn lass who recently completed a musical at Warner's, "The Girl from Jones Beach," a girl who'd be welcome on any beach

5 Days of Campaign to Curb VD Here Triple Clinic Calls

"It was terrible . . . they found out at school . . . neighbors too," sobbed the mother. "That was years ago—and the doctor who treated her said she was cured.

"Now my girl is 20," continued the anxious parent, "And I want her to be examined, to make sure she really is healthy."

The worried mother was pouring out the tragic story of how her school-age daughter contracted gonorrhea.

The mother had called Metropolitan 4600, the District Health Department's venereal disease information number. The Health Department clerk told her the address and hours of a District clinic where her daughter could be tested, free.

The mother had learned about the VD information telephone number from one of the 350,000 pamphlets being distributed throughout the city in connection with the current campaign to curb gonorrhea.

Although the drive was only launched last Monday, calls to Metropolitan 4600 have already increased from an average of about 30 a week to more than 80 the past five days.

During the day, calls are answered by a patient, sympathetic brunette, a Health Department clerk at the Municipal Center. After 4:45 p. m. they are answered by nurses at the Rapid Treatment Center at Gallinger Hospital.

After a broadcast about venereal disease over radio station WTOP Thursday, from 10:30 to 11:30 p. m., Gallinger nurses were so swamped with calls they were unable to answer them all.

Most callers simply state that they want to know where they can have a test made. Others, in halting, pained words, stammer out their tragic stories. A woman who phoned recently said she never faintly suspected she was sick—not until she went to a hospital to give blood for transfusions for a critically ill sister. They said her blood was not healthy blood; she had syphilis.

Meanwhile, doctors at the free District VD clinics report a steady increase in the number of individuals asking for tests and treatment. Many state that they first became aware that they might have symptoms when they ran across one of antigonorrhea pamphlets.

Two High Officials Quit Posts With IRO

Frankfurt, Germany, July 23 (AP).—Two high officials resigned today from the International Refugee Organization (IRO), which cares for displaced persons in Germany.

They are Paul D. Edwards of Aberdeen, S. Dak., chief of IRO operations in the U. S. zone of Germany, and Sutherland Denlinger, New York newspaperman, his public information officer.

Builder Accused in U. S. Suit

The United States attorney's office yesterday filed suit in District Court charging a builder with failing to meet specifications on priority housing here, and with overcharging 12 homeowners a total of $1971.

The builder named defendent is Feinstein & Co., 927 15th st. nw., together with Edward F. Brennan and J. Fred Porter, officers of the concern. The suits were brought at the instance of the Office of the Housing Expediter.

According to John P. Burke, assistant United States attorney, who filed the suits, the homes were located at 1610, 1614, 1618, 1622, 1626 and 1630 Fort Davis pl. se., and at 1638, 1641, 1645, 1647, 1651, and 1655 40th st. se.

The suit says that the Office of the Housing Expediter approved specifications of the houses in September 16, 1946, at set prices varying between $10,650 and $12,700. But it was charged specifications were not met, reducing the value of the houses between $105.94 and $205.94 each.

Burke said that the houses lacked screens and screen doors, as specified.

1000 Nurses Here Seek Pay Raises As Costs Rise

Appeal Discloses Many Are Facing Serious Financial Difficulty in D. C.

Pay increases for nearly 1000 nurses employed in private hospitals throughout the Washington area have been asked by the Graduate Nurses Association of the District, Mrs. Alice Bell, counsellor-registrar said yesterday.

The request, presented to the National Capitol Hospital Council, covers working hours, overtime pay, guaranteed salary increases and retirement benefits. It reached the council at a time when rising costs and fixed incomes have brought most of them to the edge of serious financial difficulty, it was said.

What They Ask

The nurses' pay increase requests are as follows:

Staff nurses: For day duty, $145 a month with complete maintenance; $180 with two meals and laundry; $205 without maintenance. For night duty, $10 extra a month, and for evening duty $15 more a month.

Hospital head nurses: Pay, $215 with complete maintenance; $225 with two meals and laundry, or $250 without maintenance.

Supervisors and instructors: With complete maintenance, $215; with two meals and laundry, $250; without maintenance, $275.

Assistant nursing directors, educational directors and evening and night supervisors: Pay, $240 with complete maintenance, $275 with two meals and laundry, or $300 with no maintenance.

Directors of nursing: With complete maintenance, $340; two meals and laundry, $375, or no maintenance, $400.

8-Hour Day Sought

The association also asks for an eight consecutive hour day for staff nurses and a 44-hour week; a guaranteed salary increase of $5 a month after a year of service for the first two years and overtime pay at a rate of $1.25 an hour or compensatory time off within two weeks of the overtime.

Mrs. Bell said that the requested salaries with full maintenance are nearly that now being paid by most hospitals and it is in the categories of less than full maintenance that the requests represent increases.

Robert Bryant, executive secretary of the hospital council, has appointed a council to study the association's request. It will be compared with salary and working conditions in the area, Baltimore and Richmond.

Court Rebukes Judge Casey Over Delay

The Municipal Court of Appeals criticized a trial judge yesterday for taking more than a year to decide a simple contract suit.

The suit was brought by Victor Eberhard, architect at 1020 20th st. nw., against Jacob Mehlman and Max Spar, trading as Modern Liquors, 1201 9th st. nw. The suit, for $718 in claimed fees, was filed in August, 1946, heard in February, 1947, and decided in February, 1948. Modern Liquors won it.

The trial judge was Walter J. Casey of Municipal Court, who refused to comment on the delay in rendering his decision or on the lambasting by the appeals court.

Although the upper court found Judge Casey slow, it refused to set aside his decision.

Speaking for the appeals court, Chief Judge Nathan Cayton said:

"No doubt losing litigants (and for that matter successful ones, too) would have greater confidence in court decisions, and less reason to complain, if decisions were not so long delayed. This is especially true in a case like this, in which there were no legal issues, and consequently no research work to be done, and the single factual situation was far from intricate."

In commenting on a claim by the losing side that the delay that the judge might not have been able to recall the facts of the situation, the upper court said:

"Almost certainly, in the course of a year, a judge would lose much if not all the atmosphere of a trial, and his memory become dimmed as to those important (if sometimes intangible) factors which enable him accurately to judge and decide the issues."

"Nevertheless, though we cannot and do not approve the long delay in the decision of this case, we cannot say that the circumstances so tainted the finding as to require the granting of a new trial, or that it was an abuse of discretion to refuse it," the court concluded.

Story, 303 11th st. sw., apparently had set out to visit his cousin at Springfield, Va., 11 miles from town, when a policeman picked him up on Highway Bridge about 9:30 a. m. yesterday. All he wore was shorts. He remained unidentified until he was reported missing along about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon

CAA Hints Move Against Power Plant

Condemnation Action May Be Used to Keep Stacks to 162 Feet

The Civil Aeronautics Administration probably will condemn air rights over an Alexandria power plant unless the city permits lowering of the plant's smokestacks, CAA Attorney John M. Hunter indicated yesterday.

Hunter hinted strongly at such action at a meeting in Alexandria between Mayor William T. Wilkins and CAA and Braddock Light & Power Co. officials. The conference was called to discuss minimum height of stacks on the company's 50-million-dollar plant, now under construction just south of Washington National Airport.

CAA could take the condemnation action under a bill enacted by Congress last spring. The act authorizes CAA to acquire air rights within the approach zone of the airport to remove safety hazards. The condemnation would limit height of the stacks to the CAA around height of 162 feet.

Mayor Wilkins, speaking for the Alexandria City Council, turned down the CAA request that minimum height for the stacks be reduced from 195 to 162 feet. The entire council, meeting with the same group in March, had given a similar decision.

Hunter told reporters after yesterday's conferences he felt some agreement could still be reached in the controversy.

CAA officials said stacks over 162 feet high will be a menace to planes approaching in bad weather. Engineers, however, have advised the city that gases from the plant will create a nuisance unless the stacks are 195 feet high.

Hunter told Wilkins new traffic patterns have been devised to keep planes over the Potomic River and away from Alexandria entirely, except in bad weather when they may be guided in over the plant site, thus eliminating the nuisance of low flying planes.

Fire Damages Hahn Store

A fire believed to have started in the motor of an air-conditioning unit caused some damage at the William Hahn & Co. shoe store at 14th and G sts. nw., about 10 o'clock last night. Arthur Hahn, supervisor of Hahn stores here, and two other employes taking inventory, discovered the fire in a ground-floor stockroom.

400 Firms Under Fire On D. C. Tax

Campaign Begun Against Concerns Failing to Obtain Licenses for 1948

The District yesterday began cracking down on approximately 400 firms which have failed to obtain licenses to operate unincorporated businesses.

Tax officials swore out a warrant in Municipal Court against Alva J. P. Barrett of Barrett Transportation & Storage Co. on charges of failure to file an application for a 1948 unincorporated business license.

Record of 400 Firms

"We have a record of about 400 such businesses which haven't obtained licenses," said Walter C. Thompson, chief examiner for the District unincorporated business tax. "We intend to prosecute all those that we can. It's the beginning of a long pull."

Under the tax laws, operators of any unincorporated business which grosses more than $10,000 a year are required to obtain a $10 license and file a tax return.

Thompson said action against those which haven't obtained licenses "doesn't necessarily mean they haven't filed a return."

Tax officials, however, are proceeding with their audit of approximately 8000 unincorporated tax returns for 1947. In many cases, Thompson indicated, auditors differ with operators on the amount of taxes due.

"Deficiency Notices"

About 20 to 25 "deficiency notices" have been sent to persons who, examiners believe, should pay a higher tax, he said. If the person agrees to pay, he may sign a waiver and settle for the increase within 10 days. If not, he may file a protest with the tax officer and be granted a hearing.

In cases where tax officials hold, after the hearing, that the higher tax still is justified, the person must pay the tax, but may then appeal to the Board of Tax Appeals, Thompson explained.

Tax officials also said approximately 200 corporations in the District have failed to renew their licenses in 1948. Legal action will be taken against them if they do not respond to notifications sent by the tax office.

'Tea' Code For Whisky, Police Say

Police broke a secret code to get evidence to charge three persons in a Chinese restaurant with illegal sale of whisky, according to information filed yesterday in Municipal Court.

The code word for "whisky" was "tea," the papers stated.

The case, was presented by Pvt. Frank J. Manthos, the policeman who has branched out from sex investigations to liquor investigations.

Manthos charged that he went into the Mai Fong Restaurant, 717 H st. nw., on July 20 and asked for a "coke and a cup of tea." He got the coke, but the cup contained whisky, it was charged. The bill for the liquids ran to $1.20, he said. The "tea" was poured out of a pitcher, it was alleged.

Held under $500 bond for jury trial September 9 on charges of illegal keeping and selling of alcoholic beverages in the "tea" sale were Woo Yuen, 33, of 717 H st. nw., King S. Der, 26, of 717 H st. nw., and Ella Mae Loar, 37, waitress, of 1126 8th st. nw.

In other liquor-keeping-and-selling cases, Esther Showell, 23, and Alvin Jeter, 43, both of 1768 U st nw. were held under $500 bond for jury trial September 9. Jeter also was charged with operating a lottery.

Policeman Saves Man Poised for Leap Off Bridge

Police Pvt. Melvin F. Wesley, 37, yesterday rescued a 25-year-old man poised on the rail of Sousa Bridge for a suicide jump into the Anacostia River.

The man who said he was despondent over separation from his wife was identified as a Union Station employe. He was admitted to Gallinger Hospital for observation.

A couple driving over the bridge saw the man climb the bridge railing and called the policeman.

Lectured by Judge

D. C. Youth Who Shot Out Eye Of Girl Put on Probation

An 18-year-old youth, who inadvertently shot out an eye of a girl here with an air-rifle pellet, was given a fatherly lecture by Judge John P. McMahon of Municipal Court and placed on a year's probation yesterday.

He is Harry Carlson of 1125 Chicago st. se. He was charged with illegally discharging an air rifle on May 12, when the girl was hit.

According to police, Carlson was firing at cigarette butts in a fence in the alley at 2239 Shannon pl. se, when a stray pellet hit the left eye of Katherine King, 15, of 2231 Shannon pl. se. The eye had to be removed, it was reported.

Carlson appeared to be near tears yesterday when he came before Judge McMahon.

McMahon said he had reviewed the case thoroughly and had concluded that it was Carlson's "enthusiasm to fool around with firearms which caused this tragic accident. Sending you to jail won't restore this poor girl's eye."

He then placed the youth on probation, warning him that he must not play with guns during the probation period.

Radio Men Join Fight On Gag Rule

Broadcasters Say Baltimore Issue Is Threat to Basic Freedom of Press

Through its president, the National Association of Broadcasters announced yesterday that it is glad the American Newspaper Publishers Association has joined in the fight against the so-called "Baltimore press gag."

Justin Miller, former Federal judge and now president of NAB, said:

"The prompt reaction of the ANPA to such a threat to the fundamental liberties of radio and press adds to our assurance that justice will be done in this matter.

"The NAB is pleased that even so unfortunate an affair with its overtones of constitutional violation has made it possible for this association and the ANPA again to make common cause. It emphasizes once again that the basic freedoms are really indivisible."

Because of the Baltimore court code concerning crime news, five Baltimore area radio stations and a radio commentator have been cited for contempt for their handling of the Eugene H. James case.

James, 31-year-old Baltimore janitor, confessed the murder of two 11-year-old girls recently after his arrest in Baltimore. He is to be tried in Baltimore September 20 for the murder there of Marsha Brill. He has also been indicted by the grand jury here for the Rock Creek Park slaying of Carol Bardwell.

The radio stations and commentator are to answer to the contempt charges October 1.

Wilson Youth Death Ruling Undetermined

Still undetermined yesterday was the question of whether the death of 19-year-old Charles Franklin Wilson Thursday should be recorded as a traffic fatality.

Wilson, whose home was at 1333 10th st. nw., received his fatal injuries Wednesday when he fell to the street from a moving streetcar after reportedly forcing open the center door.

Dr. A. Magruder MacDonald, District coroner, said he has not issued a certificate in the death yet and has scheduled an informal conference with Detective Sergt. Emmett Waters of the Accident Investigation Unit, and witnesses today at the morgue. He will decide then whether to call an inquest, he said.

Lean Toward Traffic Death

Although Dr. MacDonald has made no official ruling, he said he could not see how the death could be called anything but a traffic death since the streetcar was moving at the time. Dr. Christopher J. Murphy, deputy coroner, said Thursday after an autopsy that the death would be classified as a traffic fatality.

On the other hand, Inspector Arthur E. Miller, Traffic Division head, said that under the classification system used by the division, the death could not be attributed to traffic.

Under the standards set by the National Traffic Safety Council and used by the Traffic Division a death is not considered caused by traffic when no vehicle other than a streetcar is involved. By adhering to the standards of the NTSC Washington traffic figures can be accurately compared with those of other cities in the country, Inspector Miller said.

Expectant Mother Hurt

In traffic accidents yesterday an expectant mother was among three persons injured when a taxicab collided with a streetcar at 16th st. and Benning rd. ne.

Most seriously injured was Mrs. Elmira Washington, 28, 17 46th st. se., a passenger in the taxi who was at the time en route to obtain a hospital permit for her confinement, police said. She was admitted to Gallinger Hospital in serious condition with head injuries and possible internal injuries.

The accident occurred, police said, when the taxi swerved to avoid a truck making a left turn and rammed headon into the streetcar. The impact jammed the front part of the taxi under the streetcar, they said.

The taxi driver, Margaret Williams, 27, 17 46th st. se., received head, leg and internal injuries and another passenger, Evelyn Mathews, 27, 208 44th st. se., suffered a fractured leg. Both were admitted to Casualty Hospital.

Police identified the operator of the streetcar as Everett W. Crismond, 50, 2214 N. Kenmore st., Arlington.

Alban Towers Owners Seek Higher Rentals

Owners have filed petitions seeking higher rents for 226 apartments at Alban Towers, 3700 Massachusetts ave. nw., the District Rent Control Administration revealed yesterday.

The proposed boosts would hike monthly rents for one-room-and-bath apartments from $50 to $55, for seven-room-and-bath units from $145 to $159.50, William A. Richardson, rent control secretary-docket clerk said. No date has been set for public hearing of the case, he said.

Gallinger Ban On Red Cross Blood Lifted

Ruhland Acts After Threat on Permitting 'Mixed' Transfusions

District Health Officer George C. Ruhland yesterday rescinded a controversial order issued by Gallinger Hospital's chief of staff prohibiting the use of blood furnished by the Red Cross for transfusion.

The chief of staff, Rear Admiral P. S. Rossiter, (USN ret.), issued the order on July 16, shortly after the District Red Cross blood center announced that race origin of blood and plasma would not be designated.

Dr. Ruhland's action yesterday came after his office had received a phone call from an unidentified man who threatened to "take him across the river and fill him full of lead" if he dared to allow "mixed blood" transfusions, he reported.

In his order to Dr. Alvin R. Sweeney, superintendent of the municipal hospital, the health officer declared "there is no reason known why pooled blood may not be administered to humans." As far as policy is concerned, he added, "this is not properly in the sphere of the authority of the chief of staff."

Dr. Ruhland later said he was concerned at some of the "erroneous notions" about blood apparently held by some people.

"Giving transfusions is like feeding a patient, through the vascular system," he declared.

He stressed that his order was not to be interpreted so as to neglect efforts to keep up the hospital's own blood bank.

Mexico Agrees To Extradite Girl Wanted in Forgery

The Mexican government announced last night it has agreed to the extradition of blonde and tempestuous Deejaen Jane Bacon, 25, who is wanted here in Washington on a forgery charge.

Miss Bacon

The Mexican Foreign Office has notified the United States Embassy and the State Department, and a police officer will be sent to Mexico City to return the girl here.

Miss Bacon went to Mexico shortly before the grand jury here indicted her in February, 1947, on a charge of fraudulently signing the name of Cornell N. Shelton to $9574 worth of checks. Shelton, her former fiance, who is a TWA pilot, denied he had given her verbal authority to sign his name to checks.

Arlington Jury Acquits Youth Of Rape Charge

An Arlington County jury last night acquitted a 17-year-old youth charged with rape of a 15-year-old ninth grade Arlington schoolgirl.

The jury returned its verdict after 40 minutes' deliberation. During the day the jury heard nearly 20 witnesses, including the girl and the defendant.

The youth pleaded his innocence on the witness stand, although the girl testified earlier she had been seized by him and dragged into a field near her home, where, she said, he twice attempted to rape her.

Ruhland Rebuff

D. C. Forbids Hospital Gag On Polio Data

An attempt by the Health Department to stop Children's and Gallinger Hospitals from making public statistics about infantile paralysis and Rocky Mountain spotted fever cases was stopped yesterday by Commissioner John Russell Young.

The request was withdrawn by Health Officer George C. Ruhland following a telephone conversation with Young. Young made no comment.

Request Explained

Dr. Ruhland said "we manifestly cannot control these institutions if they want to give out this information."

He said the request, made by Dr. James G. Cumming, head of Preventable Disease Bureau, was designed to stop "confusion" in reports of the number of polio and tick fever cases here.

He denied there was any intention by the Health Department to withhold the true picture of the prevalence of the diseases.

"We want to avoid confusion," Ruhland declared. "If various institutions give random reports, it's bound to add up to confusion."

How "Confusion" Arises

Hospitals are required by law to report all cases of polio or tick fever to the Health Department. The "confusion" arises, the health officer said, because reports reach the public before they are entered on official Health Department records.

In some cases, he explained, newspapers count cases twice, receiving them first from the hospital and, later, again from the Health Department. He said it would be more "reliable and dependable" to have the information released officially through the Health Department.

Despite withdrawal of the request, Dr. Ruhland said he would "prefer" to have the hospitals let the Health Department make the information public.

Colliflower Elected Carroll Forum Trustee

Other newly elected officers of the 8-year-old Catholic forum are: William H. Collins, president; Dr. Leo F. Stock, first vice president; Alfred A. McGarraghy, second vice president; the Rev. Dr. James A. Magner, executive secretary; James J. Nolan, treasurer; Margaret V. Hughes, corresponding secretary.

Lenieney Plea Denied

Heavy Prison Terms Given Four on Burglary Convictions

Four burglars were given heavy prison terms yesterday by Justice Alexander Holtzoff of District Court.

Arthur W. Hunt, 44, a British citizen, was given two to six years for two housebreakings at the Remington Rand Institute, 1808 Adams Mill rd. nw., where $791 in property was stolen.

Upon a plea for leniency based upon a claim that Hunt faced deportation, Justice Holtzoff commented that Hunt had once left the country but had returned despite the deportation threat. Hunt claims to be a marine engineer.

Ruth N. Martin, 25, and Andrew A. Hall, 38, of 605 N st. nw., were each given 20 months to 5 years' imprisonment for breaking into a room at 1928 1st st. nw., and stealing clothing. Both had previous felony records.

Wallace J. Cowell, 19, 1841 Stanton ter. se., was given 20 months to 5 years for burglary of $20.96 at 1628 11th st. nw.

Premier Bars 13 Drivers in Auto 'Racket'

Association Says Cars Bought Went To 'Gray Market'

Thirteen taxicab drivers have been barred from membership in the Premier Cab Association because new cars they bought through the organization went to "gray market" operators for resale.

The membership ban was revealed yesterday by Russell A. Sellers, association vice president, after one Premier driver who admitted receiving $100 to buy a car for another man was found guilty of failing to apply for a title within five days, as required in the District.

This driver, Frank C. Weaver, 313 11th st. se., has asked for a new trial through his attorney, Thomas J. Ahern, who declared yesterday Weaver had been "used as a tool" in the transaction.

The motion for a new trial is scheduled for hearing August 6 before Judge Walter J. Casey in Municipal Court. Judge Casey reserved sentence Thursday when he found Weaver guilty on the title count and Weaver was released under $100 bond.

Meanwhile, Leonard Kaplan of the Kaplan & Crawford Co., which supplies cars for the Premier association, said his complaint against Weaver would be followed, if it is successful, by similar action against a dozen other drivers.

Kaplan and Sellers said, meanwhile, the dealer and the cab association had agreed that titles and other papers for automobiles bought through the association hereafter will be issued directly to the association, rather than to the drivers, and that the drivers will not receive the papers until 12 months after purchase, or longer if payments for the cars are incomplete.

Teachers of 18 Countries Meet

Forty-five teachers from 18 countries will complete the first week of a four-week educational seminar at the University of Maryland today.

Sponsored by seven national organizations, the seminar is designed to promote an interchange of educational ideas, and so far has consisted principally of a series of conferences centering on educational methods used in various lands.

Foreign countries represented include Austria, Belgium, Burma, Canada, China, Denmark, Finland, France, Germany, Great Britain, Greece, Italy, Luxembourg, Malta, Norway, the Philippines and Poland.

Prosecutor Wins Delay In Shooting At Brass Rail

Defense Intimates U. S. May Be Basing Its Numbers Inquiry On Cafe Fight

A defense attorney stated in District Court yesterday that he "is beginning to believe" the Government may be basing its numbers-racket probe on the "Brass Rail Shooting Case."

Attorney Bernard Margolius made this statement in fighting a continuance of the shooting trial after Assistant United States Attorney Charles B. Murray said that he expected to call 33 Government witnesses at the trial.

Two persons are charged with shooting each other with intent to kill last January near the Brass Rail restaurant at 7th and S sts. nw. They are Charles H. Nelson, 39, of 1803 H st. ne., and Henry M. Leake, 39, of 104 R st. ne.

Put Off to September 20

Despite Margolius' charge, Justice James W. Morris set the trial tentatively for September 20. It was previously set for Monday.

Murray, in asking for the continuance said that there were but 32 jurors available. He said he doubted that a jury would be obtained from this number since the defense is allowed 10 peremptory challenges the prosecution gets 6, leaving but 4 challenges for cause.

Murray also said that he believed that the cases of defendants now in jail for failure to make bond should be tried before the Brass Rail case, where the defendants are not in custody. There are 14 jail cases, still on the calendar.

Margolius said that he was baffled by numerous references in news stories tying in the present case with the gaming probe. Also, he said that he could assign no reason for the Government's calling Nelson and Leake before the special gambling grand jury.

"Perhaps if this case is dismissed the entire gambling probe will blow up," Margolius asserted.

Three Get Jail Terms

Meanwhile, Justice Alexander Holtzoff gave two out of three numbers writers appearing before him jail terms for gaming.

They are:

Ralph A. Frazier, 48, of 3756 Grant st. nw., who was convicted of numbers-lottery operation at 1234 9th st. nw., received 30 to 90 days in jail.

Arthur H. McGant, 41, of 2715 13th st. nw., was given two to six months for numbers-writing in the storage room of the Woodley Park Towers on Connecticut ave. nw.

Car Loan Firm Admits Laxity In Its Records

Operators of a District auto loan company yesterday admitted failure to keep business records up to date, as required by law, but blamed the situation on lax employes.

William R. Lichtenberg, attorney for Auto Loan Service Co., Inc., 638 Pennsylvania ave. se., admitted the charges made by District License Superintendent Chatham were "right" but said the company already had taken steps to see that books henceforth will be kept according to law.

The Board for the Revocation of Business Licenses took the case under advisement following a public hearing at the District Building.

Nottingham told the board he had difficulty in gaining access to the records, both on July 2 and 7. On the latter date, when the records were produced on demand, they were found to be incomplete, he testified.

Area News in Brief

Furniture Hurled From 13th Floor

Furniture fell on F street at 14th last night from the thirteenth floor rooms of the National Press Club in the building of the same name.

Two leather upholstered chairs and a table splintered on the sidewalk as pedestrians scattered.

Nobody among crowds hurrying to the last show at nearby movie houses was hurt by the barrage.

Only evidence in connection with the mystery was the discovery on a balcony above the thirteenth floor of chairs and tables similar to those smashed on the sidewalk. Two panes in a partially opened window on the F st. side of the building were cracked.

Wreck Probe Shifted

Investigation of the Baltimore and Ohio train wreck near Laurel June 16 in which one person was killed and 53 injured shifted yesterday from Prince Georges to Anne Arundel County.

A. Gwynn Bowie, State's Attorney for Prince Georges County, said he had learned the derailment occurred across his county's line in Anne Arundel County. He said he would make available to Anne Arundel County authorities all the facts at his disposal.

James C. Morton, State's attorney for Anne Arundel County, said he had been notified only "informally" of this fact. He said he would prosecute if there were evidence of criminal negligence.

Injuries Puzzle Police

Police have been unable to explain critical injuries suffered early yesterday by John L. Cox, 35, of 3825 S. 9th st., Arlington.

Cox, a sheet metal worker, was found at about 6:10 a. m. at the bottom of a 15-foot concrete areaway on the 13th st. side of the Benjamin Franklin postoffice on Pennsylvania ave. nw.

At Emergency Hospital, where his condition was considered critical, Cox was found to have suffered a fractured hip and possible fractured skull.

Rent Charge Faced

Mrs. Doris R. Frankfort, 37, of 1513 28th pl. se., was charged in Municipal Court yesterday with violation of the Rent Control Act here. According to the charge, she caused the eviction of Mr. and Mrs. William J. McCarthy and two children from an apartment at the 28th pl. address, on the claim that she needed the place for her own use and occupancy. But Mrs. Frankfort did not use the apartment, according to the charge. She was held under $300 bond for jury trial August 19.

His Wish Granted

Police at the Ninth Precinct were more than a little taken aback at 2 a. m. yesterday when Donald K. Dumlop, 22, of Wheeling, W. Va., walked into the station and announced:

"I want to be locked up because God has told me to go to prison and teach the Gospel."

Pvt. J. T. McCary obliged, and then sent Dumlop off to Gallinger Hospital in a patrol wagon for mental observation.

Aid for Objectors

Committee members of the Washington Pacifist Fellowship will be available to counsel conscientious objectors to the draft on the legal and moral implications of their stand, the fellowship announced yesterday.

Members of the committee, which will be at Fellowship Headquarters, 1734 F st. nw. every Saturday from 2 to 5 p. m. until August 14 are: Philip Meighan, 707 Mount Vernon pl. nw.; Roland Austin, jr., 3 Rock Creek Church rd., and Roger Scattergood, 2600 Upton st. nw.

To Face Trial Board

Pvt. Paul O. Federline, 31, a Montgomery County policeman suspended since last June 25, will be tried on charges of drinking while on duty at a police trial board hearing set for July 30 in Rockville Courthouse.

5th Fairfax Fever Case

Fairfax County's fifth case of Rocky Mountain spotted fever this year was diagnosed yesterday at Arlington Hospital.

Latest victim was a 7-year-old Annandale girl who was admitted to the hospital last Sunday. Her condition was reported slightly improved over a previous report of "poor."

Raise $36 for Hospital

Enterprising youngsters in Chillum Heights have collected $36 by selling trinkets donated to them by neighbors. The children, whose ages range from 7 to 11, will donate the money to the Children's Hospital Monday.

Evidence Salvaged

Second Precinct Police grabbed quickly when Obie (Sleepy) Stinson, 39, of 1104 3d st. se., tried to swallow something after he had been arrested and taken to the station.

Stinson had been arrested at 4 a. m., at 6th and N sts. nw., after James Johnson, 22, of 1324 6th st. nw., complained Stinson had struck him over the head. Two charges were entered against Stinson—assault and violation of the Marihuana Tax Act.

Police Annoyer Held

Police announced yesterday they had apprehended a woman who bombarded the police radio dispatched over an emergency line with 20 false reports since Monday.

She is Miss Florine Fitch, 27, a housemaid for Dr. Paul F. Douglass, president of American University. She was committed to Gallinger Hospital for mental observation after she was arraigned in Municipal Court on one of the false-report charges.

The complainant was D. F. Manning, Police Headquarters radio dispatcher. He said a woman caller, later identified as Miss Fitch, made the calls, saying friends of hers were missing, that a woman was foaming at the mouth, and that disorderly conduct was occurring in the bushes on the American University campus.

All the reports proved false, police said, and a call made by the woman Thursday was traced.

8-Hour Coal Fire Fight

Firemen worked more than eight hours yesterday afternoon and last night putting out a smouldering fire in 30 tons of coal in a bin at the Junior League Building, 2001 Massachusetts ave. nw. The fire was finally extinguished by removing the coal in small lots and wetting it down. It was believed spontaneous combustion started the fire.

Downtown Tract for Sale—At $3,000,000

The Washington Post

AS IT LOOKS NOW—The Washington Post yesterday published an artist's conception of how the Washington Gas Light Co.'s 6½-acre tract in downtown Washington might look if properly developed. But here is the way it looks today, with the company's gas manufacturing plant being dismantled. The plant was made useless when the company converted to natural gas. The site is bounded by Rock Creek pkwy., Virginia and New Hampshire aves. and F st. The asking price is three million dollars with no takers reported so far

Planners Favor Apartments On Virginia Avenue Tract

Federal and District planning officials yesterday looked with favor on proposals for a "fine-type" apartment development on the Washington Gas Light Co.-owned 6½-acre tract at Virginia and New Hampshire aves.

The tract, which adjoins the Rock Creek-Potomac Parkway, is being offered for sale at three million dollars, for possible use as a large-scale apartment development.

Although the area is presently zoned as "industrial," which would also permit housing construction, John Nolen, jr., director of planning for the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, said the Government would be opposed to an industrial plant there.

Nolen, who is also a member of the District's Zoning Advisory Commission, said, "we would expect to see a nonindustrial use, harmonious as an approach to the proposed Government building area which is south of F st. and down to Constitution ave., bounded on the west by the Potomac River."

He said the area was zoned for industrial use under the Zoning Plan of 1920, but conditions have changed considerably with development of the parkway in that sector and Government expansion plans.

Dismantling of the present plant on the tract, used for production of manufactured gas and no longer required with the gas company's conversion to natural gas, is under way.

The company will retain two gas storage tanks, in the sector just beyond the tract, near New Hampshire ave., Everett J. Boothby, vice president and general manager, said yesterday.

Several real estate men and others said these tanks make the nearby tract somewhat less desirable for an apartment development.

"It could be the best residential area in town if it were not for those tanks," said Robert O. Clouser, director of planning for the Zoning Commission, and chairman of the Zoning Advisory Council.

Va. Condemns Alexandria's Bail System

A Virginia State audit of the Civil and Police Court of Alexandria yesterday criticized the policy of local police officers in accepting cash bonds from criminal case defendants.

The report, signed by State Auditor J. Gordon Bennett, described the practice as "against public policy" and added that no authority for it could be found in Alexandria's charter or in State law.

The auditor noted that desk officers at police headquarters, none bonded, had collected $8077 in January, 1947, and nearly $18,000 during the first three months of last year, the money being deposited by defendants as cash bonds for Police Court appearances.

Bennett recommended that such bonds be deposited only with a bonded officer of the court. He also urged that the court's substitute judge be bonded, in accordance with State-wide practice.

The auditor commended Civil and Police Court Judge James R. Duncan and Clerk of the Court Douglas W. Stanton, jr., for the "excellent manner in which the records have been prepared." The records showed that cases handled by the court nearly doubled in two years, from 6611 in 1945 to 12,923 in 1947. The 1945 figure includes juvenile and domestic relations cases, now heard in a separate court.

Alexandria's City Council is expected to take up the auditor's report at its meeting Tuesday night.

Arkansas P. & L. Issue Registered With SEC

Arkansas Power and Light Co. yesterday registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission a proposal to offer $7,500,000 of first mortgage bonds, due 1978.

The bonds will be offered at competitive bidding, which will determine the price and interest rate. The proceeds will be used for construction and other purposes.

Dash, Color Mark Ballet Presentation

By Paul Hume

Another enormous audience gathered at the Watergate last night, intent upon two of the world's greatest dancers.

Nora Kaye and Igo Youskevitch, now of the Ballet Theater, were stars in a program of dash and bright sound. Franz Allers, noted as a ballet conductor, led the orchestra.

Kaye has become justly famed for her great portraits of such Tudor characters as Hagar and the fiancee in Lilac Garden. Her emergence as a classic star has been more recent but as sure as her early brilliant successes. In Blue Bird and Black Swan sequences with her gallant partner, as well as in solo variations to a Delibes waltz, she reasserted her clear claim to stardom in a world peopled chiefly by Markova and Danilova.

Youskevitch is even more remarkable in classic dancing. He has no equal in the easy perfection of every movement. A plasticity of gesture combined with a superb technique marks all that he does. The fire of the Ribbon Dance proved a shining foil to the grace of his work in the Tschaikowsky excerpts.

Both dancers proved the self-sufficiency of their art by confining their work to the narrow space in front of the orchestra. Thus their achievements were more outstanding because they depended solely upon pure technique without the advantages of either scenery or spatial relationships in depth.

Allers handled the orchestra fluently in the ballet music, and added competent if uninspired readings of familiar music by Smetana, Offenbach, Wagner and Strauss. His delineation of Barber's moving Adagio for Strings was, however, quite penetrating and made a grateful interlude in otherwise glittering fare.

The evening was all to short for an audience which cheered all it beheld. We could have done with more dancing, but could not have asked for anything finer than we received.

Sunday: All-Tschaikowsky, with Ruth Diehl and James Pease in vocal excerpts from "Eugen Onegin," plus Romeo and Juliet.

Air Line Seeks Half-Fare Family Flying Period

Flying is getting to be a family affair—or fare.

American Airlines wants to put in a "first of the week family fare plan" on its routes, making it possible for wives and children 21 years of age or less to fly at half fare on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of each week.

The airline has announced it will ask the Civil Aeronautics Board for the fare reduction, which would permit a husband purchasing a full fare ticket to take his wife and children along at half rates. Either parent could take the children at half fare.

C. R. Smith, chairman of the airlines board, said the action was designed to broaden the air transportation market and increase income by making it possible for more people to travel.

Msgr. Fannon Dies at 76 After Long Illness

Msgr. John F. Fannon, 76, pastor of the Church of the Nativity in Brightwood for the past 18 years, died yesterday after a long illness.

Msgr. Fannon was born in Mount Savage, Md., and was educated at St. Charles College and St. Mary's Seminary in Baltimore. He was ordained in the Cathedral of the Assumption by James Cardinal Gibbons, Archbishop of Baltimore, in 1906.

Upon ordination he was sent as pastor to St. Mary's Church in Newport, Md., and was next assigned as assistant pastor of St. Mark's in Catonsville, Md.

In 1922 the late Archbishop Michael J. Curley appointed him pastor of the St. Stephen's Church in Bradshaw, Md. After eight years at this post he became pastor of the Brightwood church.

Msgr. Fannon was credited with building the parish Church of Our Lady of Sorrows, in Takoma Park, Md., and considered the erection of the present Church of Nativity, at 13th and Peabody sts nw. one of his greatest achievements.

After 39 years of priesthood, Msgr. Fannon was created a domestic prelate with the title of Right Rev. Msgr., by Pope Pius XII, February 14, 1945.

The body will lie in state in the rectory at 6000 Georgia ave. nw., until Monday at 4 p. m. when it will be transferred to the church. The Most Rev. Patrick A. O'Boyle, Archbishop of Washington, will pontificate at a solemn requiem mass 10:30 a. m. Tuesday. The Most Rev. John M. McNamara, auxiliary bishop of Washington, will deliver the eulogy. Responses will be sung by the priests' choir of the archdiocese of Washington.

On Tuesday evening the body of Msgr. Fannon will be transferred to St. Patrick's Church in Mount Savage, Md., and funeral mass will be said there Wednesday at 10 a. m. Burial will be in St. Patrick's Cemetery.

Msgr. Fannon is survived by four brothers, Patrick, Michael, Joseph and Lawrence and sister, Mary, all of Mount Savage.

Colonel Killed During Belvoir Demonstration

Col. Thomas A. Adcock, 56, of College Station, Tex., was killed instantly Thursday afternoon when a fragment from a demolition demonstration struck his head, Fort Belvoir officials said yesterday.

They said Colonel Adcock, temporarily assigned to Fort Belvoir with an ROTC engineer unit, was with a group of observers on the demolition range.

Although the group was considered to be at a safe distance, an unidentified fragment from the explosion struck Colonel Adcock, the official said. Nobody else was injured.

Arlington Girl's Body Recovered By Harbor Police

The body of Felecia Geraldine Daniels, 21, of 1813 N. Cameron st., Arlington, was recovered by harbor police at about 10 a. m. yesterday from the Pentagon lagoon about 50 feet from the Mount Vernon Memorial Highway.

Police began dragging the lagoon after Patrick Alexander, 38, of 737 N. Columbus st., Alexandria, found a girl's pocketbood, clothes and bicycle on shore.

The body was identified at the morgue by the girl's mother, Mrs. Lida Daniels. Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald has not yet issued a death certificate.

Police Searching For Missing Crane Operator

Police were searching yesterday for Edward F. McClure, 48, of 7387 Allenton rd., Friendly, Md., who has been missing since last Monday, shortly after he reported to his work as a crane operator at the Washington Navy Yard.

McClure

McClure left the Navy Yard shortly after 8 a. m., saying he did not feel well and was going home. He is 5 feet 6 inches tall, weighs 280 pounds and was dressed in dark striped trousers and a light shirt. He was driving a black Willys sedan, 1942 model, with Maryland tag No. 421-536.

McClure's family said he might be suffering from amnesia since he had such an attack about 25 years ago.

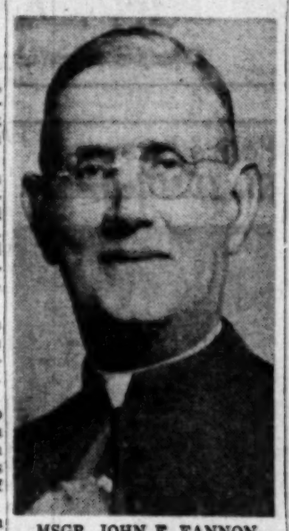
County Taxicab Fee Refunding To Await Ruling

Montgomery County cab drivers will not be refunded about $10,000 in permit fees paid the county treasurer until it is definitely established in court whether the taxicab ordinance is illegal.

Public Utilities Agent Albert E. Conradis said yesterday such a policy had been adopted following a conference between him and County Attorney F. Barnard Welsh.

Lawyers representing the drivers recently requested that all permit fees paid in be refunded following a County Circuit Court ruling which, in effect, found the cab ordinance unconstitutional.

Pastor of Church Of Nativity Dies



MSGR. JOHN F. FANNON

C. N. Gregory Dies, Retired Realty Man

Charles Nelson Gregory, 72 retired Washington real estate man, died yesterday at Georgetown University Hospital after a long illness.

Mr. Gregory was born in Alexandria, Va., and was educated in the public schools there. He married Miss Mabel Maley of Washington in 1907, and they made their home at 3811 Warren st. nw.

In 1936 he moved with his family to 2426 N. Washington blvd., where he lived until the time of his death. Mr. Gregory was a member of the Arlington Methodist Church.

He is survived by his wife, a daughter, Mrs. Evalyn Heim of Fairfax, Va., and a son, Charles N. Gregory, jr., of Arlington, Va.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 2 p. m. at Pearson's funeral home, Falls Church, Va. Burial will be in Presbyterian Cemetery in Alexandria.

Killed in Italy

Sergt. Clore Rites Today In Virginia

Sergt. Walter Marion Clore, 20, Army infantryman, who was killed in Italy in January, 1944, will be reburied today in Clore Cemetery, Dunavunt, Va., at 1 p. m.

Sergt. Clore

Sergeant Clore entered the Army on Armistice Day, 1942. He was a veteran of the North African, Tunisian, Sicilian and Italian campaigns. He was twice commended for bravery and was awarded the Purple Heart.

Born in Spotsylvania County, Va., Sergeant Clore moved with his family to Fairfax County, where he attended the Mount Vernon High School. Before entering the Army he was employed by the Richmond, Fredericksburg & Potomac Railroad and the Naval Torpedo Station.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lee Clore; a sister, Mary Ellen, and a brother, Robert Gordon. They live at 1014 Vernon st., Alexandria, Va.

Emerson Brooks

Trenton, N. J., July 23 (AP).—Emerson Brooks, 87, founder and president of the Boy Rangers of America and a pioneer in the automotive industry, died today.

Brooks founded the Boy Rangers in 1924, when he severed all his business connections. The organization, open to boys of pre-Scout age, now has 200,000 members in 40 States, and several foreign countries.

Brooks was president of Brooks-Ostruck Co., New York, which turned out the first American-made bodies for Rolls Royce and Diana cars.

Brooks was treasurer of the Automobile Club of America, now known as the American Automobile Association, and a charter member of the Aero Club of America.

Alfred Decker

Chicago, July 23 (AP).—Alfred Decker, 76, founder and board chairman of Society Brand Clothes, Inc., died today of a heart ailment.

Decker, an immigrant from Germany at the age of 13, began his career as an office boy in a clothing concern.

John Edgar Bean

John Edgar Bean, 63, employe of the Public Roads Administration since 1917, died Tuesday night in Georgetown University Hospital following a heart attack suffered Monday.

Mr. Bean was born in Washington and attended schools here. He joined the National Guard, and then in 1912 moved to Austin, Tex., for two years, while there he married Gussie Swain in 1913.

Mr. Bean returned to Washington in 1915, managing his own auto garage for two years. In September, 1917, he started work as a mechanic for the Public Roads Administration. For the past 20 years he had been staff photographer there and was to have retired this year.

Besides his wife, he leaves a daughter, Mrs. Joan Cox of 1250 N. Quinn st., Arlington, and a son, George T. Bean of San Francisco. Funeral services will be held 10 a. m. Monday in St. Agnes' Catholic Church in Cherrydale.

D. W. Griffith, Film Pioneer, Dead at 73

Hollywood, July 23 (AP).—David Wark Griffith, who gave films the close-up, pictures of more than one reel, and the renowned "Birth of a Nation," died today at 73.

Mr. Griffith

The pioneer director and star-maker succumbed under an oxygen tent. He suffered a cerebral hemorrhage Wednesday night.

Griffith had been inactive for many years in the industry he helped develop. In his heydey he brought to prominence such players as Mary Pickford, Dorothy and Lillian Gish, Blanche Sweet, Mae Marsh, Owen Moore, Alice Joyce, Jack and Lottie Pickford, Richard Barthelmess and Constance Talmadge.

Roster of His Films

His movies included "Hearts of the World," "Broken Blossoms," "Way Down East," "Orphans of the Storm" and "America." His last was "The Struggle" in 1931.

"But "The Master," as he was known, said after retirement: "I never liked the movies when I was working in them. Directing was always a chore. Believe it or not, I always considered it a temporary thing, a sort of springboard. My lifetime ambition has been to write."

His epochal "Birth of a Nation," filmed in 1915, is still shown occasionally and stands as the third biggest movie grosser in history.

"Birth" Made 10 Million

It cost a mere $110,000 to make—barely enough for a low-budget picture today—but returned more than 10 million dollars during times when theater admissions were much lower than current prices.

This is exceeded only by "Gone With the Wind," which cost 3½ million dollars to produce and was reported a year ago to have rung up 32 million dollars, and "Duel in the Sun," which cost five million dollars and has returned 21 million dollars.

Griffith's father was a captain of Confederate cavalry in the Civil War. David grew up perplexed about the causes of the conflict. Though it emerged as a movie, he had planned originally to write it as a novel, a dispassionate analysis that would "present the case of the Southern States."

The flashback, soft-focus photography, poetic composition, and movie realism originated with Griffith. He induced Douglas Fairbanks, sr., to quit the stage for films.

Griffith was born in La Grange, Ky., the son of Col. Jacob Wark Griffith and Margaret Oglesby.

He was a reporter for the Louisville Courier-Journal at 17, but turned to stage acting a year later. Between infrequent engagements, he worked in a Tonawanda, N. Y., iron works, scraped rust in the New York subway, and wrote poetry.

In 1904 he went to work as a movie actor at $5 a day for the Biograph Studio. Soon he directed a one-reel series called "The Adventures of Dolly."

At Biograph he met and married Linda Davidson, an actress. They were divorced in 1936. The same evening he wed Evelyn Marjorie Baldwin of New York. Last year the second Mrs. Griffith, then 33, divorced him.

With Fairbanks, Miss Pickford, and Charlie Chaplin, the director in 1911 formed United Artists Corporation, to produce their own films. Eventually he sold his interest and retired. He joined Hal Roach in an advisory capacity in 1940.

Tree Memorial To D-Day Victim To Be Dedicated

A maple tree planted as a living memorial to Pfc. Robert N. Shotton, stretcher-bearer who was killed on D-Day on the Normandy beaches, will be dedicated at Walter Reed today by the American Legion of the District.

Pfc. Shotton

Ceremonies honoring Private Shotton, 32, whose mother, Mrs. Anne G. Shotton, lives at 2512 Wisconsin ave. nw., will be held at 9:45 a. m. today in the flagpole area of the hospital. Owen C. Holleran, department commander of the District American Legion, will make the dedication.

Pfc. Shotton, a graduate of Central High School, was a member of the 500th Medical Collection Company. Funds for his memorial were collected by members of the 500th, shortly after his death on June 6, 1944, and entrusted to the Legion.

Kansan to Preach

Dr. Emory W. Lucock, of the First Presbyterian Church in Wichita, Kans., will speak at the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church Sunday at 11 a. m.

Alice Would Feel at Home With Third Party Members Gathering in Philadelphia

By Mary Van Rensselaer Thayer

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., July 23.—Admission to Philadelphia's current political clambake is strictly through a mirror. Everything is Alice in Wonderland style at this "founding convention of the new party"—candidates were nominated in advance, the party platform on which they'll stand politically is still in the making and the temporary chairman, slated to deliver the keynote speech, hasn't as yet been tapped.

Around the Bellevue Stratford headquarters informal attire is de rigeur, sweat shirts, open collars so prevalent it is practically certain anyone buttoned and tied is a reporter. Due to the high tariff, neither bar nor dining room are well patronized though Lee Pressman, Wallacite platform committee secretary, in wide spreading open collar, sat toughly stiff on a banquette.

Out in the lobby, topping the ballroom entrance, where Stassen and Truman likenesses beamed successively, Wallace and Taylor are framed in gold starred blue pennants labeled "Peace, Abundance, Prosperity."

Most interesting lobby exhibit is a large screen thumbtacked with new party literature purchasable individually for a dime or 15 cents. Leaflet titles make curious reading: "If You Hate War But Love Peace, Work With Wallace"—"Henry Wallace Says Increase Wages Out of Profit"—"Call a Cop"—"The Wallace Plan Versus (Hoover) (Ditto Dulles) (The Marshall Plan)"—"Women Who Work for Wages Support Wallace, He Supports You"—"The Old Parties Talk Civil Rights But Act Jim Crow."

Detectives Look Over Visitors

OUTSIDE the hotel all is fairly quiet—obvious plainclothes men are stationed under the marquee giving incomers expert onceovers. Sole commotion was caused by an aged gent who orated against prayer, gave out tracts balancing a cat on his shoulder while a mongrel hugged his shins. An ordinary citizen summed the situation neatly: "This may be the City of Brotherly Love to you," he growled sourly, "but to me it is the city I live in."

Upstairs in a conference room one of the prominent Wallace ladies was giving her definition of a Liberal. "A Liberal," she purred smoothly, "is someone who tries to get more and more of the good things of democracy for the underprivileged who don't know they're underprivileged."

In an adjoining room a staff of women were unsnarling the convention housing situation. Hotel rooms would be out of many's reach. Last May they appealed throughout the city for voluntary hosts. Over four hundred addresses were filed and convention visitors are billeted in order of application. Down in the Western Union dispatching room a young feminine delegate pleaded for permission for her boy friend to sleep on a hard bench. "It's OK by me, lady," said the Western Union man, "we close at 2, open at 7, so he won't get much sleep."

Delegates' Situation

THE DELEGATE situation is unique. Since there was no way to designate delegates, any one who showed up Thursday and anted up a dollar could register as New Party delegate. Toward evening the delegate situation tightened. A doctor from outlying Pennsylvania, feeling no pain whatsoever, tried to register but was turned down. In the lobby he staged a compensatory act by exhibiting a series of war wound scars to anyone interested.

Fortunately bullets targeting the medico landed in anatomically respectable spots.

Guiding Wallacite characters are fascinating and many are more than well heeled. Cochairman of the national committee is Mrs. Anita McCormick Blaine of Chicago whose comfortable living is due to her family's association with John D. Rockefeller—there is charming Mrs. Clifford Durr, sister-in-law of Associate Justice of the Supreme Court Hugo Black, who is chairman of Virginia's Progressive Party; Mrs. Paul Blanchard, who does likewise in Louisiana; Mrs. Elinor Gimbel, widow of a New York department store executive, who reputedly has been "angeling" to the tune of $10,000 and who is national chairman of Women for Wallace, and petite, chic Mrs. Lawrence Steefel, who is vice chairman of Minnesota's independent voters. Jo Davidson, the bearded sculptor once the white haired boy of wealthy New York and Paris' Bohemia, is another cochairman along with singer Paul Robeson and Rexford Guy Tugwell. Treasurer is Clark Foreman, liberal professor and long time advocate of civil rights, whose current job is manager of Washington's Dupont Circle Movie Theater.

Mrs. Wallace Prefers Farm

Philadelphia, July 23 (AP).—Quiet, good-looking Mrs. Henry A. Wallace said today she would rather stay on her South Salem, N. Y., farm than live in the White House.

She indicated she does not expect the election to be a call for her to make the move.

"But," she said during a news conference, "I hope my husband gets a big vote. I think that's important. And I think he'll get a larger vote than many people expect."

Questions about politics and her husband's candidacy brought little response from Mrs. Wallace.

"I will not campaign," she said.

"I don't like speech making and I try to get out of it whenever I can."

But when questions turned to the Wallace farm home, Mrs. Wallace was more at home.

"My husband raises wonderful flowers. You should see his gladiolas. And we have the biggest strawberries you've ever seen."

'Blue Boys' Introduced

College Girl Fashions Hold Show's Spotlight

By Peggy Preston

NEW YORK, July 23.—Fashion was fun today when viewed in the respective collections of Claire McCardell and Adele Simpson.

Each of these designers gave us something to laugh about and write home about. The showrooms were packed with reporters, despite the dose of stormy, steaming weather which snarled the downtown transportation system and sent us scurrying on foot from one building to another. In our own sad and soggy clothing, we saw such eye-catching items as:

Miss Simpson's fetching "Blue Boys," little knee breeches of bright Jersey or striped damask to match suit blouses, fastened below the knee with jet buttons, designed to keep you warm, snug and saucy beneath a full suit skirt. The Blue Boys are Adele Simpson's thought to follow one of her famous firsts, the petticoat. That, remember, was a flutter heard 'round the world. However, her latest fashion whimsey is apt to be mainly popular with the college and young career girl. The Blue Boy pants and blouse make a perfect lounging ensemble for home or dormitory. And under a suit there is no doubt but that they will keep knees warm in windy, winter weather.

Otherwise, the Simpson collection was in the traditional vein. Most of her skirts were full, with pleats or gathers in the front. Jackets were short, and she used beautiful American-made fabrics such as chiffon broadcloth, tapestry jacquard damasks, souffle taffeta and black point d'esprit in misty folds.

CLAIRE McCARDELL put her usual, distinctive mark on her collection. It couldn't possibly be the work of anyone else and it looks as though it belongs to gay, young America.

There is, for instance, her "gunny sack" dress made in a supple faille or crepe top to the hipline and a wool skirt set on in jagged outline, then belted into the waist with leather. It seems to belong definitely in the "back to school" wardrobe to every long-legged, slim waisted American girl. These same youngsters will love her wool plaid slacks which are quilted all over and taper down to button at the ankle; a camel hair coat, introduced with a belted wrap around effect, worn over a flared skirt; an after-ski dress, above ankle length in red, brown and white plaid tissue wool with gathered skirt and short sleeves.

And since we're on the subject of college girl fashions, we must mention the gaiters which were shown today by Adler & Adler, Inc. Made of tweed, they matched the suits worn by the models and reached to the hemline of the skirt. They were fastened with 12 buttons and looked cozy and warm enough for the coldest climes.

LATE in the afternoon, the 150 fashion editors here for the dress institutes press week, ducked through sheets of rain again to attend the reception given them by Mayor William O'Dwyer at Gracie Mansion.

The mayor's official residence is an historical old stone building which sits in a beautifully landscaped setting overlooking the East River. Once the home of the famous Gracie family of New York, it was taken over during the time of La Guardia and became the residence of the city's No. 1 official. Furnished with early American and Victorian pieces its rooms are spacious and dignified. From its wide, deep windows, one may, on a clear day, get a commanding view of the river and shore beyond. Yesterday, however, the scene was shrouded in mist and we saw only the dim stream of lights across the water.

GLITTERING jacquard tapestry, with a neckline that is breath-takingly low, is used in this evening dress shown at New York Dress Institute' Fashion Show. "For really high living," its designer explains

Necklines Near Vanishing Point

By Sara Yokley

New York, July 23 (U.P.).—Necklines of the new fall dresses are like many of today's bank accounts—close to the vanishing point.

Fashion editors from across the Nation, here for the New York Dress Institute's roundup of fall fashions, saw a line-up of humdingers today.

The sauciest numbers in town are at Adele Simpson's salon. She calls them "breath-takers." And the gal who wears one had better hold her breath. The neckline is opened to the waist.

One such dress in blue satin looks like this: From the throat to the waist the dress has tiny pearl buttons on one side, tiny loop buttonholes on the other. But here's the catch—you're not supposed to button the buttons.

Adele does it again, using a black velvet blouse with matching buttons, mated with a pale green satin skirt. The skirt is trimmed with cartridge pleating just below the waistline.

For really high living, as the designer puts it, there's an evening dress of glittering gold jacquard tapestry, slit to the waist with its breath-taker neckline.

"This dress does everything for you but say 'yes,'" Miss Simpson explained.

A black "shepherdess dress," a little too sophisticated for any shepherdess we ever met, is made of "souffle" taffeta. The fabric has shirring woven in, with alternating bands of plain satin. This short evening frock has a wide V-neckline, open to the waist but filled in at the proper place with a camisole of black net over nude chiffon.

Mrs. Simmons Is Honored At Embassy

THE Ambassador of Ecuador and Senora de Dillon were hosts at dinner last evening at the embassy, entertaining in honor of Mrs. John F. Simmons, wife of the United States Ambassador to Ecuador. Mrs. Simmons is here visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Huston Thompson. Mr. Simmons has remained in Quito.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson were among the guests and others were Mr. and Mrs. Paul C. Daniels, Capt. Colon Eloy Alfaro, Ecuadoran Representative to the Organization of American States; Mrs. Clarence Norton Goodwin, Capt. Joseph Barbaro, USN, and Mrs. Barbaro; Mr. and Mrs. George Owen, the Minister-Counselor of the Ecuadoran Embassy and Senora Alvarado Garaicoa, and the Military Attache of the embassy, Col. Angel Vaquero.

MISS NANCY HORTON, daughter of the late George Horton, diplomat and author, entertained at a reception on Wednesday in her apartment at Hotel 2400, in honor of Samuel Creed Gholson, well-known portrait painter who has returned to Washington after visits to White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., Lynchburg and Charlottesville, Va.

Mr. Gholson held an exhibition of his paintings at the Greenbrier Hotel in White Sulphur Springs, including portraits of Sir John Orr, John Ruthven, Miss Vivian Evans, Mrs. William C. Denny and Miss Margaret Louise O'Brien.

Miss Margaret O'Brien assisted the hostess.

MR. AND MRS. William E. Hall, jr., and their three children, of Scarsdale, N. Y., are weekend guests of Col. and Mrs. Leigh M. Hunt at Leighcrest, their home on the Leesburg pike.

Colonel and Mrs. Hunt will entertain at a cocktail party on Sunday at Fort Myer in honor of the Halls, who are old friends. Colonel Hunt and Mr. Hall have been friends since their college days and Mrs. Hall was maid of honor for Mrs. Hunt at her wedding.

Col. Prentiss Marries Miss Nancy Ludwig

The base chapel at Andrews Air Force Base was the scene of the marriage last evening of Miss Nancy Elizabeth Ludwig and Col. Augustin Mitchell Prentiss, jr., with Chaplain (Lieut. Col.) Edward A. Rien officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Charles Clifford Ludwig of Washington. Her husband is the son of Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Augustin Mitchell Prentiss of Hartford, Conn.

Given in marriage by Brig. Gen. Yantis T. Taylor, commanding general of Andrews Air Force Base, the bride wore starlight blue satin made with an off-the-shoulder neckline trimmed in val lace. She wore a shoulder-length starlight blue veil attached to a headpiece of pearlized silver tipped lilies. She carried a prayer book topped with white roses.

Miss Helen Diana Affron was maid of honor and Charlene Sellner was flower girl. Col. William G. Hipps was best man and the ushers were Lieut. Col. Lloyd P. Carlos, Major Frank Rogers, Maj. Walter F. Cook, 3d, and Maj. William A. McClanahan.

A reception was held at the Officers Club at the base. After a wedding trip to Bermuda, the couple will go to Maxwell Air Force Base at Montgomery, Ala., where the bridegroom will attend the Air War College.

The bride attended school in Pennsylvania and Strayer Business College. The bridegroom attended Texas Military Institute, Columbia Prep School in Washington and was graduated from United States Military Academy in 1937.

Ask Anne: About Removing Ink Stains

If there is a possibility of removing nonwashable ink from colored cotton materials, please describe the procedure. In this case, the stain is some weeks old but has not yet been washed nor otherwise treated. The stain is in a light green huck towel.

You may not be able to remove this stain completely, but you may lighten it enough that it won't be so noticeable. Place the stained area over an absorbent pad and dampen it with a mixture of one part water to one part alcohol. Now, dust corn meal or talcum onto the stain and work it in. This will take up ink so the stain will not spread. Continue adding fresh corn meal to the dampened stain until it takes up no more ink. Then rub glycerine or one of the soapless shampoos into the spot, continuing to rub between the fingers until no more ink is removed. If some stain remains after these treatments, it will be necessary to use a household bleach to remove it. Be sure to test the effect of the bleach on the reverse side of the cloth before applying it to the stain.

Can you tell me where I may find the directions for knitting individual sock-like covers for golf clubs? I have asked at all the department stores for a pattern and so far have had no luck.
K. E. S.

To make covers for the ends of the club, follow the directions for the leg of a man's sock. When they are knitted long enough, instead of turning the heel, finish off following the directions for the toe. To make holes for inserting a draw string one inch from the opening, knit two stitches together every 6 stitches for one round. The next round, cast on a stitch each place two were knitted together. The covers would probably be more serviceable if knitted of cotton rather than wool.

Where can I obtain tatting instructions? I can do plain tatting, but cannot master using the ball and shuttle.
L. F. K.

Tatting instructions are available in the needlecraft section of at least one local department store. Telephone District 7200 to inquire about it further.

You advised B. P. M. in a recent column to put paper in the bottom of a 9-inch square pan to bake one half of chiffon cake recipe. These cakes are to be inverted when taken from the oven and will fall out if paper is used. Invert and let cool, then hold cake pan over stove burner for a few seconds. Use spatula to loosen and cake should come out easily.
N. J. DeJ.

Thank you for your suggestion. I based my answer on the fact that, unless the sides of the pan have been greased or the paper extends up the sides, the cake should adhere firmly enough to the sides to prevent dropping during cooling. It has been my experience that sponge-type cakes which are baked in ungreased pans have to be loosened from the sides before they will drop. One possible exception to this is when such a cake is baked in a pan which has been greased at some earlier baking and retained enough fat to keep the cake from sticking. For this reason, experts suggest that one never use a pan which has been greased at any time when baking this type of cake.

I have an ivory cigarette box which was artificially aged in a tea solution. Can you tell me how to remove this tea coloring, particularly in places where it is almost impossible to get at?
T. C.

It's highly possible that nothing will completely remove this coloring, but you might try going over the piece with a cloth moistened with alcohol and dipped into a mild abrasive such as powdered chalk. Use a toothbrush on the carved parts. This should remove the surface stains, but will not remove any coloring which has penetrated the ivory.

How can granulated sugar that has become hard be softened for use?
T. L. B.

Place the sugar in a cloth sack or leave it in the sack in which it was purchased if it is cloth. Using a rolling pin or blunt instrument, pound it into small chunks. When it is broken up this much, remove small portions from sack, place on a heavy piece of wrapping paper, and with a rolling pin roll these chunks until the sugar is fine.

Not so rough, Petunia! The perfect way to launder fine lace collars and other small items is to put them in a jar full of warm soapy water—cover the jar tightly—and shake well.

Club Hears Leaders Report On Convention

Three women Democratic leaders spoke to the Women's National Democratic Club yesterday on their impressions of the Democratic convention, preceding a tea given by the club in honor of the women's division of the Democratic National Committee. The speakers were Mrs. India Edwards, executive director of the Democratic National Committee Women's Division; Mrs. Charles Brannan, wife of the Secretary of Agriculture and Mrs. T. Lamar Caudle, wife of the Assistant Attorney General.

The Democratic convention had the greatest number of women alternates and delegates ever to attend a convention, Mrs. Edwards said. She praised the work of Mary Norton, convention chairman of the credentials committee, and asked for volunteers to work with the club "to keep President Truman in the White House."

Mrs. Brannan commended Mrs. Edwards for her work and told how the City of Philadelphia had gone all out to make the Democrats feel at home, even to the printing of menus on paper-shaped donkeys.

Mrs. Caudle described the Democratic campaign school and its initiation on television. Mrs. Julien Friant, vice president of the club, introduced the speakers, who were followed at the close of the program by Mrs. Walter H. Maloney, who sang at the request of the club members.

Those who poured, following the business session, were Mrs. Friant, Mrs. Paul Porter, Mrs. Jackson Davis, Mrs. Louis Renfrow, Mrs. Braxton Jones, Mrs. Edward Roosevelt Halloran, Mr. Mastin White, Mrs. St. George L. Sioussat, Mrs. Lottie B. Doneghy, Mrs. Claude Orchard, Mrs. Frederic Halstead.

Education Needed Against 'Cold War,' Says DAR Leader

America needs "preparedness through education" in order to understand and combat "cold" wars, Mrs. Roscoe C. O'Byrne, president general, National Society Daughters of the American Revolution, declared yesterday.

Speaking before the Chautauqua Assembly in New York State, Mrs. O'Byrne said:

"Cold war by means of the infiltration of subversive propaganda can only be checked by educating our people and particularly our youth in a true understanding of our Government and the problems which face the democracies in a world still torn by strife."

Communism has not made much progress in this country in the last year in the belief of Mrs. O'Byrne. She declared American citizens are more awake now to the dangers of communism than ever before. She warned against hysterical outbreaks against communism, but said communism should be kept out of schools and colleges, and Communists should not be permitted to hold public jobs, especially those of trust.

Guests Are Entertained

J. Newman Carter, 3d, and his brothers, William Carter and Charles C. Carter, have as their guests through Sunday Mrs. William Bullitt Darlington of West Chester, Pa., her daughter, Caroline, and Miss Anita Warder of Philadelphia. The visitors attended the Water Gate concert last night and were entertained at dinner by their hosts.

Capital Transit June Revenue, Profit Slump

Capital Transit Co. yesterday reported to the Public Utilities Commission that operating revenues during June amounted to $2,264,145, a decrease of $84,746, or 3.6 per cent from the 1947 result. Net income for the month amounted to $43,978, against $117,189 last year, a decrease of $73,210, or 62.5 per cent.

Operating expenses increased 1.3 per cent from $1,777,718 to $1,800,611 and depreciation charges were 1.4 per cent greater at $190,027. Revenue passengers declined 7.4 per cent to 29,349,953.

Operating revenues for the first six months of this year aggregated $13,551,782, an increase of $231,622, or 1.7 per cent over 1947. Net income totaled $376,613, compared with $104,190 last year, an increase of 261.5 per cent.

RETAIL TRADE: Sales of Washington department stores in the week ended July 17 showed an increase of 6 per cent over the corresponding period of 1947, the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond reported yesterday. Sales in the Richmond district showed an increase of 9 per cent over last year. Sales in the week of July 17 showed an increase of 13 per cent in Washington and 10 per cent in the Richmond district over the week of July 10 which included the Fourth of July holiday.

TWA TRAFFIC: Passenger traffic over the Trans World Airline in June showed an all time record for that month, Warren Lee Pierson, chairman of the board, announced. Domestic traffic accounted for 123,229 revenue passengers, an increase of 10 per cent over May and nearly 28 per cent over June, 1947. Overseas routes carried 7350 passengers, an increase of 10 per cent over May.

Engineers Society To Survey Causes Of Rising Prices

New York, July 23 (AP).—The American Society of Mechanical Engineers announced today that it will make a Nationwide survey of high prices resulting from increased production and transportation costs.

The survey is being launched in the wake of the Supreme Court's "cement case" decision ruling out uniform basing point pricing and requiring factory prices plus transportation costs.

The distribution of industrial production is now "America's primary production problem," Fenton B. Turck, chairman of the A. S. M. E.'s distribution committee, declared in announcing the survey.

"The American distribution system is undergoing a radical change almost overnight," Turck said. "It is confronted with new rules and rapidly increasing costs. These are the most basic economic changes in 30 years. Temporary or permanent, these developments cannot be ignored by manufacturers or consumers."

Traffic Course Fellowship Won By Sergt. Peter

Sergt. Charles E. Peter, a Montgomery County policeman, yesterday was awarded a $650 fellowship to attend a traffic course at Northwestern University Traffic Institute, Evanston, Ill.

Sergt. Peter

He is one of 16 police officers throughout the country to be selected for the five-month course, which begins September 2. The awards are on competitive basis and are made possible by the Automotive Safety Foundation Fellowship.

Peter, who is 38 and lives at 9705 Dallas ave., Silver Spring, is a veteran of eight years on the force. He also is captain of the Silver Spring National Guard company, 116th Infantry Service Co., Twenty-ninth Division.

Sen. Robertson Scored by Hart on School-Aid Issue

Senator Willis Robertson (D., Va.) was scored last night by James P. Hart, jr., who is opposing Robertson for the Virginia Democratic Senate nomination, for ignoring a challenge to debate Federal aid for education.

Describing Robertson as the candidate of "the Byrd machine," Hart said in a radio talk broadcast over six Virginia stations that the "machine" has "always been particularly stubborn about accepting Federal aid to education" and Robertson was "one of only five Democrats to vote against Federal aid."

Declaring that Robertson had not replied to his invitation to debate the question publicly, Hart said, "frankly I don't blame him—considering the weakness of his case."

Southern Railway Wins Award

In recognition of its 1947 record in employe safety the Southern Railway System yesterday was presented with the National Safety Council's "Award of Honor."

The award was presented to Ernest E. Norris, the railway's president, by Ned H. Dearborn of Chicago, council president, in ceremonies at the railroad offices, 15th and K sts. nw.

The Southern's 1947 safety record reflects a 35 per cent reduction in employe injuries per million man hours worked compared with 1946. This record is 33 per cent better than the 1947 total for all other Class I railroads.

The "Award of Honor for Distinguished Service to Safety" was established at the beginning of World War II to conserve manpower in the war effort. Two other railroads, the Union Pacific and Illinois Central, have previously won it.

Production Index For June Gained

The Federal Reserve Board said yesterday that industrial production edged slightly in June and neared the peacetime peak set in February.

The board's index of production, which takes into account seasonal influences, showed June output of the Nation's factories and mines was 92 per cent above the 1935-30 average.

That is a gain of one point over the revised figure for May and three points over April. But it was still two points short of the February top.

Early July production followed the June pattern, the board said.

Summarizing business conditions across the country, the board observed:

"Department store sales were at record levels for this season. Prices of meats and steel increased sharply in July, while cotton and grains declined."

Clearance Sales Aid Retail Trade

New York, July 23 (AP).—Seasonal clearance sales boosted retail volume during the week ended Wednesday well above the preceding week. They were 6 to 10 per cent higher than in the same 1947 period, Dun & Bradstreet reported today.

Consumers took advantage of price cuts on almost all types of summer apparel. Household articles, porch furniture and luggage also were at marked down levels.

Total apparel dollar volume rose moderately above the preceding week. Men's clothing sales were slightly higher and reduced cotton dresses, sportswear and jewelry were popular. But consumer response to fall coats and suits was limited as hot weather continued in many sections of the country.

School Head Resigns

Philadelphia, July 23 (AP).—Dr. Alexander J. Stoddard resigned today as superintendent of Philadelphia public schools to accept a similar post at Los Angeles. Louis P. Hoyer, associated superintendent, was named to succeed him. Stoddard has been superintendent since 1939. His present salary is $18,700.

New Glidden Plant

Cleveland, July 23 (AP).—The Glidden Co., paint and varnish manufacturers, will build a three-million-dollar soy bean extraction plant adjacent to its feed mill in Indianapolis, Dwight P. Joyce, Glidden president, announced today.

Reynolds Metals Net

Richmond, Va., July 23 (AP).—The consolidated net profit of Reynolds Metals Co. and four wholly-owned subsidiaries for the first six months of 1948 amounted to $3,068,014, the company announced today. This is from a provision for income taxes of $2,368,257.

BARNABY

Those actors out in the barn theater are eager to start rehearsing. They're held up until a play is decided upon--
Peter Pan--
No--I have it! Wilde!
Yeah!
Yes, "The Call of the Wild!" All about Buck, the dog, and--
But I was referring to Oscar Wilde's "Canterville Ghost"--
No, no, no.
The leading roles in none of those things are really great. Now the play I have in mind--
But let's stroll to the barn and see if our supporting actors don't agree with me.
What is the play?

The Beginning of a War Legend

NEW YORK—In reviewing Evelyn Waugh's new book, the editors of Time stated that when Waugh and Randolph Churchill were in Yugoslavia during the war they reported that Tito really was a woman . . . Tito, at the time, was operating under several aliases because he wanted his identity kept secret. One day, on the Isle of Vis off the Dalmatian coast, the Britishers went swimming. Tito arrived, wearing his heavy uniform. Although it was a warm day, Tito was the only one there who refused to shed his clothes and go swimming. Waugh and Churchill joked about this, and Waugh suggested: "Maybe he's a woman?" That's how the legend began.

Hervey Allen, author of "Anthony Adverse," is about to arrange the movie sale of his new book, "Toward the Morning." One of his friends asked him whether he would make production and casting suggestions to the movie studio which bought the screen rights. "After I hired the most competent lawyer available to make the initial contract, I would leave all the technical matters of production to Hollywood," said Allen. "World conditions and the Internal Revenue Bureau consenting, while the picture was being made I'd go abroad, far away—Tasmania, for example."

Clete Roberts, the radio commentator, will make a formal complaint to the FCC against radio stations whose owners insisted that he slant the news . . . Ambassador Stanton Griffis sails for his new post in Cairo on July 30. While he was Ambassador to Poland he never was invited to dine in a Polish home. Not once . . . David Dubinsky and Luigi Antonini of the ILGWU, will be decorated by the Italian Government for their work in behalf of Italian relief . . . The Cagneys are shipping their trotters to Roosevelt Raceway . . . This week Markova & Dolin, the ballet stars, will have given recitals in London, New York and Hollywood—all in six days.

The sudden switch of Leo Durocher from the Brooklyn Dodgers to the New York Giants has had repercussions at the offices of United Artists. Laraine Day, the film star-wife of Durocher, always accompanies her husband on the road-tours of the ball-club. United Artists' press department had arranged a series of interviews for her, in connection with the movie "My Dear Secretary." These interviews were with newspapers in the National League cities, timed for the Dodgers' road tour. United Artists now is busy rearranging the interviews, to fit them into the New York Giants' schedule.

Last week Dave Miller, the WAAT disc-jockey, was notified by the National City Bank that his safe deposit box, his savings account and his checking account had been impounded. This step was taken by the referee in the case involving William Benjamin, the man who now is serving a long stretch in Sing Sing for embezzling more than half a million dollars . . . The referee, acting in behalf of the creditors, had discovered that Benjamin lost much of the money betting on horses, and one of the bookies he dealt with was named David L. Miller . . . Miller's bank accounts finally were unfrozen, by the referee's lawyer who apologized and explained that he misunderstood the words, "disc-jockey."

William Saroyan has an intriguing piece, "Hometown Revisited," in August issue of Tomorrow. In describing his trips to New York and the publicity he received, he says that he submitted to being photographed "only to oblige the reporters and cameramen, and I am not sure I didn't sometimes go out of my way to help them get a good story and a good picture." Saroyan certainly did help. At the party celebrating the first issue of Stage magazine, he approached a cameraman and asked: "Would you like a picture of William Saroyan?" The man said: "Sure. Where is he?" Saroyan said, "Follow me," led him into a corner, posed, and said, "Shoot."

Piano Box House

If you can get hold of two upright piano packing boxes, you have the basic material for a realistic backyard playhouse that will be the envy of all the neighborhood kids.

The slope on each box serves as half the roof. It's relatively simple to take off the boards from the back of the boxes. They may be used to broaden the house or to make furniture. A piece of roofing paper will make the roof watertight.

The finishing-off job is one that can be planned with your youngster—the number and shape of the windows, the placing of the door, the color scheme outside and in, curtains at the windows. There are all sorts of ideas that can be worked out.

Soviet Moves Hint Readiness

By Drew Pearson

Uncensored dispatches from behind the Iron Curtain have increased the fear that Russia may be ready for war now.

Hitherto diplomats felt certain that the Soviet did not want war for at least two or three years—until she could develop the A-bomb. But here are some developments which have taken place behind the Iron Curtain.

1. The Communist-controlled Czech government has just received orders from Moscow to empty a large number of army barracks in western Czechoslovakia in preparation for the early arrival of large Russian troop concentrations. It's important to remember that Czechslovakia is adjacent to the American zone of Germany. If this report is accurate, the Red army is moving up units to face United States troops in the American zone.

2. The Russians have ordered thousands of bilingual signposts erected all the way from the Soviet border to the German border for the use of Red army divisions. Word that these signposts are being set up has leaked out through the Czech underground. They all point in the direction of Berlin and Paris.

3. Russia has just occupied 15 new air bases in eastern Germany, west of the Soviet border. Some of these air bases are staffed with the Russian version of the B-28, copies from B-29s which were forced down in Siberia during the war.

4. Russia has quietly summoned home for consultation some of the most trusted diplomats in its foreign service, leaving relative second-stringers in charge of its embassies.

5. Word has gone out from Moscow for the immediate purge of all dissident and weak elements in the Communist Party throughout Europe. This means any Communist who doesn't toe the Moscow line unflinchingly is to be ousted. This order reportedly has the blessing of Premier Stalin. It is interpreted to mean that the Kremlin is gearing for a final showdown.

Propaganda Balloons

Secretary for Air Stuart Symington and Air Force officers are giving serious consideration to the idea of having B-29s drop propaganda messages to the Russian people at the same time that the B-29s reinforce our position in Berlin.

Purpose of the idea would be to remind the Russian people that the American and Russian armies battled as comrades to win the recent war, that our right to remain in Berlin was part of that victory, that the American people do not want war with their former comrades-in-arms and that the propaganda fed them by the Moscow radio that we are panting for war is so much poppycock.

Back of the idea also would be the fact that the 14 men in the Politburo alone can put Russia into a war—unless there is a strong negative urge among the Russian people not to go to war. And the only way to give them that negative urge is to go over the Kremlin's head to make them understand that the American people do not want war either.

Government Reaction

Weather Bureau—It's perfectly feasible to float small weather balloons from western Europe to Russia. About 7 out of 10 would get there. By gauging the amount of gas in the balloons it would be possible to fix the approximate point for their landing inside Russia. (The Japs measured the distance across the Pacific during the war to land balloons in the Pacific Northwest.) Best launching place would be Germany or northern France. They would drift at a speed of from 25 to 30 miles an hour once they reached the upper wind currents.

Air Forces—Unofficially, think the idea is good. However, past experience shows that balloons released from planes in flight crash against the fuselage and break. Therefore, it's proposed that the balloons be released from the ground. (Weather Bureau says this is feasible.)

War Assets Administration—Had large supply of balloons on hand but they're now sold out. Army Signal Corps and Weather Bureau have a certain number which could be borrowed and replaced later.

If it is important to get friendship messages from the American people to the Russian people, then ways and means can be found for doing it. Various patriotic Americans have volunteered to print the messages free, donate candy, wrist watches, etc., to be sent with the messages. The Government has plenty of resourcefulness to put across this propaganda—if it wants to.

Correction

A photograph of George Dimitrov, Secretary General of the International Peasant Union, was incorrectly identified in the Merry-Go-Round Friday as a likeness of Georgi Dimitrov, Bulgarian dictator. Photographs of both Dimitrovs appear below.
